Pact Hope Rises as High Soviet Officer Visits Poland

Papal Nuncio Sees Beck but Rejection Of 5-Power Peace Parley Is Implied

Neutral Scandinavia

SCANDINAVIAN neutrality was reaffirmed by the foreign ministers of Norway, Sweden, Denmark and Finland, who left each country free to decide whether to accept Nazi non-aggression treaties.—Page 5.

The Currents Cross

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Warsaw, May 9.—Mgr. Filippo Cortesi, Papal nuncio to Poland, conferred today with Polish Foreign Minister Beck, presumably concerning Pope Pius' peace proposals which were receiving close attention in the chancellories of all major European powers.

At the same time, Vladimir Potemkin, Russia's vice commissar for foreign affairs, arrived in Warsaw, arousing belief the apparent improvement of Polish-Soviet relations might smooth faltering negotiations for an Anglo-Soviet-French alliance.

Poland's reaction to the peace suggestions from the Vatican, reportedly envisioning a 5-power conference to settle the German-Polish quarrel over Danzig and the Polish corridor, was uncertain.

It was pointed out that Poland is averse to any but direct bilateral negotiations on foreign problems and one report was Beck had informed Britain, France and Sweden that Poland holds firm to her conviction that any changes in the present legal status of Danzig would be unacceptable.

Meanwhile there were these developments in other capitals:

Moscow—Officials indicated dissatisfaction with British counter-proposals on formation of a triple alliance and the official news agency suggested the British plans inadequate, if not unacceptable.

Berlin—Foreign office spokesmen expressed distinct sympathy with the Holy Father's intercession as Reichsfuehrer Hitler sent his right-hand man, Marshal Goering, to Spain to tighten axis relations with Gen. Franco's nationalist regime.

London. — Government circles took a favorable view of Pope Pius' peace proposal, but apparently considered it not feasible in view of Hitler's recent contentions that the Danzig problem is one to be settled by Poland and Germany alone. It also was pointed out France has clearly indicated its differences with Italy were a matter for bi-lateral negotiation.

Paris.—The impression prevailed that the Pope's suggestion would prove abortive and the French government was described as "evasive" and fearful the conference would prove another Munich, with Poland as the victim. It also was pointed out that Russia would be absent.

Rome. — Fascists prepared to welcome Prince Paul, regent of Yugoslavia, as signs multiplied that Italy's Adriatic neighbor would assume even closer relations with the Rome-Berlin axis, now that that informal union is to be formalized as a full alliance.

Vatican City.—In confirming reports of Papal diplomatic negotiations to guide Europe away from war, a Vatican news service said the Pope's representatives had "conveyed his ardent desire for peace," but there was no indication of the exact nature of his proposals.

Wilson Wanted 3d Term, Notes By Glass Show

Sought Longer Fight For League, Says Biography of Senator

By the United Press.

Woodrow Wilson "seriously contemplated" running for a third term in 1920 so that he could continue his League of Nations fight, it was disclosed yesterday in excerpts from notes kept by Senator Carter Glass (Democrat), of Virginia, post-war Secretary of the Treasury in the Wilson Cabinet.

The war President's third-term thoughts—he planned to resign if he were re-elected and if and when the Senate ratified the League Covenant—were shown to have caused grave concern to his personal physician, the late Cary T. Grayson, and to his secretary, Joseph P. Tumulty.

Refused Cabinet Post

The excerpts from the Glass notes are printed in a revealing biography of the sharp-tongued, anti-New Deal Virginian, written by Rixey Smith, his secretary since 1922, and Norman Beasley.

Glass' career as newspaper editor, Congressman, Cabinet officer and Senator, his long fight for enactment of the Federal Reserve act, his early admiration for the Roosevelt Administration and his later hatred of it, are traced in a partisan picture of the 81-year-old Senator who is portrayed as a man who "has climbed a peak in Darien and acted according to what he there saw, and seeing, believed."

Grayson Quoted

The book reveals that Glass declined the Treasury post in President Roosevelt's cabinet after making three attempts "to learn Roosevelt's views regarding currency matters." Then, too, his physician,

Heat Prostrates Woman, and It'll Be Hotter Today

Higher temperatures yesterday, which prostrated a woman is in store for the District today, the weatherman said last night. Skies will be clear. Fresh northwest winds will abate the hot spell tomorrow.

Shortly before the mercury rose to 86 at 2:45 p. m., Miss Anne McMahon, 24, of New York, was prostrated at Fourth street and Pennsylvania avenue southeast. She was treated at Casualty Hospital. A shower early last night dropped the temperature to 73. Yesterday's low was 66 in early morning.

Johnson Talk Cut to Spare Axis Doctors

Woodring Aide Omits Reference to Nations Unwilling to Settle Differences Peaceably

Assistant Secretary of War Johnson last night departed from the prepared text of a speech to spare the feelings of the leading military physicians of Hitler and Mussolini's armed legions.

Addressing official representatives of Germany, Italy and 31 other nations at the joint banquet at the Willard Hotel of the Association of Military Surgeons of the United States and the tenth international congress of Military Medicine and Pharmacy, Johnson omitted a paragraph in the previously released official text of his speech containing a relatively mild but nevertheless unmistakable slap at the dictator nations.

Pointing out that America wanted to live at peace and had no designs on any other nation's land or riches, Johnson said the United States would always discuss differences peacefully at a council table.

Omitted Paragraph

He omitted a paragraph reading, "Unfortunately, however, there are some nations in the world who prefer to act otherwise. They would rather place their faith in the sword. So long as some nations take such attitude, we must stand on guard, ready to defend ourselves in such a contingency. We must maintain a strong army and a powerful navy."

Returning to the text, he dropped a hint to Congress to expand the medical personnel of the Army, which he said is not large enough "to do the job effectively." He said an increase of 300 officers and 1,600 enlisted men is needed "and I sincerely hope that Congress will provide the funds to meet these requirements."

The Assistant Secretary's speech was the final event of the American surgeons' separate conference and a highlight of the opening day's program of the international group.

Tells of Medical Growth.

Johnson called attention to the Army's recent contributions to medical progress, such as the development of a vaccine, in collaboration with the Public Health Service, to prevent pneumonia and the perfection of another vaccine against sleeping sickness in animals, which can be transmitted to man.

Greetings from President Roosevelt to the international assembly were read at ceremonies opening the congress yesterday morning in the Departmental Auditorium. The President's welcome prefaced the address of Secretary of State Cordell Hull, which was presented by Assistant Secretary George S. Messersmith.

Washington has rarely, if ever, played host to a conference quite comparable to this one—a gathering of men, and a few women delegates, who are united in the common and ironic purpose of pooling their knowledge on the curing, healing and preserving the health of soldiers whom their respective countries may some day introduce on the battlefield.

No Medical Secrets

Their various governments keep rigidly their poison gas formulas and incendiary bomb developments but these officially accredited doctors have traveled thousands of miles many of them, to tell potential enemies how to set jaw fractures and organize medical services more efficiently.

To these brilliantly uniformed from Siam to Guatemala, Australia to Sweden, President Roosevelt expressed appreciation of "your valuable contributions to medical science, your faithful devotion to duty under the most trying circumstances and your diligent endeavors to serve your fellow men."

"Meeting in a spirit of comradeship," he said, "you are today on the threshold of another significant experience in international collaboration and amity. I trust that

Tram Fall Kills Lady Heath, First Licensed Woman Pilot

Name Bracketed With Lindbergh as Outstanding Flier

By the Associated Press.

London, May 9.—Mrs. G. A. R. Williams, who as Lady Mary Heath was internationally known as an aviatrix, died today of head injuries suffered in a fall down the stairs of a double-deck street car.

The 43-year-old flier, whose name was bracketed with Charles A. Lindbergh's as an outstanding flier of 1927, was unidentified when taken to a hospital. Relatives established her identity after death.

Mrs. Williams, reported to have been the first woman licensed as a regular commercial pilot, had been out of the public eye in recent years because of poor health.

In 1929, at the height of her career, Lady Heath was nearly killed in the crash of her plane at the Cleveland Air Races. Ten months later her nurse, Miss Florence Madden, filed a petition for a guardian for Lady Heath, stating the flier was "incompetent by reason of mental disorders" resulting from the accident.

The flier was married three times. To Williams, also a well-known

Officer Charges Attacks to Dairy Firm Aides

Tells of Shadowing Trucks Suspected Of Bootlegging Cream

By James D. Secrest.

A disclosure that unnamed dairies, other than Embassy-Fairfax, have engaged in the bootlegging of cream was made yesterday after Richard J. Felber, police private, had told the House sub-committee on public health that officials of the Embassy-Fairfax Dairy tried to do him bodily harm while he was investigating their activities.

Felber, modest and unassuming, kept a packed District Committee room enthralled as he related how he followed a truck of alleged "bootleg" cream from Lafayette, Ind., into the Embassy-Fairfax plant, where it was seized March 4.

The policeman, who has been on special detail since early this year, said that he had chased and caught liquor runners during the prohibition era.

"My life wasn't in any more danger then than it was while I was following these milk bootleggers," he said.

The disclosure that he has been checking on the activities of other local dairies came during cross-examination, but Corporation Counsel Elwood H. Seal asked that the names of the dairies not be divulged until the investigation is complete.

"Other dairies in Washington are bootlegging, aren't they?" Representative Schulte (Democrat), of Indiana, asked.

"Yes, sir," replied Felber.

Other developments of the day's hearing were:

Seal and Schulte exchanged heated words after the Indiana Representative complained against

Methodists Liberalize Divorce Rules

Relaxed Regulations In Southern, Protestant Branches Approved

By the Associated Press.

Kansas City, May 9.—The Methodist Uniting Conference overrode a militant minority today to liberalize rules of two of the three formerly separate churches affecting divorce.

After 20 minutes' debate, a large majority of the 900 delegates approved a committee report providing that the ban which prohibits Methodist ministers from officiating at marriages of divorced persons shall not apply:

"To the innocent person when it is clearly established by competent testimony that the true cause for divorce was adultery or other vicious conditions which through mental or physical cruelty or physical peril invalidated the marriage vow."

The Southern and Protestant branches previously forbade their ministers to solemnize marriages of divorced persons except "the innocent party when the divorce resulted from adultery."

Finance Body Established

The conference, on the eve of its closing sessions, approved in form the complicated missionary and financial organizations of the new church and authorized a commission to encourage evangelism.

A general commission on world service and finance was established as the central financial body, and authorized to apportion among the jurisdictions, conferences and other church subdivisions the money to be raised.

A formal "declaration of union" will be proclaimed tomorrow night in the closing session.

Detective Guards, Not Kidnapers, Trail Miss McLean

New York, May 9 (AP).—A disputed report that kidnap threats had been made against the daughter of Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, of Washington, today dragged the legend of the Hope diamond back into the headlines.

While two detectives stood guard at the McLean suite in the Waldorf-Astoria, police were inclined to deprecate the rumored abduction threat.

Police Capt. Ira E. Keck, of Washington, said he knew nothing of a threatened abduction, that "Mrs. McLean telephoned us yesterday (Monday) and asked us to introduce her to the New York police to help her get through the World's Fair."

Police here said the detectives had met the McLeans on arrival Sunday and shadowed them since with the girl unaware for a time that she was being trailed.

Maverick Leads Race for Mayor In San Antonio

San Antonio, Tex., May 9 (AP).—Former Representative Maury Maverick apparently had made a political comeback in his home town as precinct after precinct reported tonight giving him a lead for mayor over five opponents.

One hundred and fifty-five precincts of San Antonio's 196 gave Maverick a lead of better than 2,000 votes over his nearest opponent, the incumbent, Mayor C. K. Quin.

The last tabulation, including 121 precincts complete: Maverick 13,925; Quin 11,202 and Leroy Jeffers, former assistant district attorney, 9,591. Three other candidates were far behind.

Mavericks' fusion ticket was leading the famed machine ticket, which was headed by three incumbent commissioners who pulled away from Mayor Quin.

French Forced Nazis to Divide Alloy Sales, U. S. Dealer Says

European rights to an important new alloy used in aircraft construction were divided up by an agreement between French and German interests, the Temporary National Economic Committee was told yesterday by Andrew J. Gahagen, president of the Beryllium Corporation, of Temple, Pa.

In the second installment of his story of international struggles over patents on beryllium alloys, Gahagan said the French, directly infringing on German patents, had forced the Germans to relinquish exclusive control of beryllium rights for the continent.

Gahagan declared it was under this influence that representatives of two German and French corporations agreed to "partition" the continent, the French obtaining rights to the beryllium alloy in France, Belgium and Switzerland and the Germans taking the rest of Europe.

In testimony Monday, Gahagan had described how British interests previously had forced alteration of a contract that would have given Siemens-Halske, a German firm, the rights in all of Europe and Gahagan's company the rights in both the Americas. The British insisted on obtaining the alloy through the American concern, so as to be in-

Roosevelt Asks Mine Pact Tonight

Avoids Disclosing What He May Do If His Deadline Is Not Observed

President Roosevelt yesterday gave soft coal operators and miners until tonight to reach an agreement to resume coal production and thereby avoid a widespread industrial shutdown due to an acute coal shortage.

Negotiating committees representing the operators and miners were called to the White House at noon and admonished that the general welfare transcended comparatively minor differences that have deadlocked for eight weeks their negotiations for a new labor contract.

Following the hour-and-a-quarter conference with the President, spokesmen for both groups announced they would assume negotiations this morning at the Hotel Biltmore in New York. They conferred separately yesterday afternoon here and en route to New York.

Refuses to Forecast Action

The President, at his press conference, was asked whether he had decided what he would do if an agreement is not reached by tonight. He replied that he was not attempting to anticipate such a development.

It was learned, meanwhile, that representatives of the miners will insist on a full agreement before they return to work and will not be content with a conditional truce whereby coal production will be renewed pending settlement.

Their attitude is that they have offered on four occasions to continue work under terms of the old labor contract which expired April 1 and that now, since the operators rejected the proposal and the Administration made no move to accept it, they will continue the tie-up called May 1 until they obtain a satisfactory new contract.

Nothing Drastic Threatened

Although the President was emphatic in his insistence that the mine shutdown which has thrown nearly 500,000 men out of work be reopened this week, there was no indication he had threatened drastic measures.

Asked to comment on the conference, he said he had emphasized that the public good demanded resumption of coal mining at once. He asked negotiators to remember that, although they are coal operators and representatives of miners, they are first of all American citizens. They were requested, he said, to sit continuously in the effort to bring in by tonight some method whereby coal mining can be resumed.

In discussion of points of controversy, the President declared, it developed there was substantial agreement on every point brought up on March 14, when efforts to work out a new contract began. The warring groups had agreed on wages, hours and working conditions.

Operators Recognize C. I. O.

The operators, Mr. Roosevelt explained, agreed to go along with the principle of the vertical union, which is the foundation of the Congress of Industrial Organizations. They are willing to recognize, he said, that the United Mine Workers should be that vertical union.

Of course, the President remarked, there are certain details which are holding up the drafting of a contract. But the main point is that both sides have agreed on objectives.

United Mine Worker sources confirmed the fact that an agreement had been reached on all questions except the principle of the "union shop," which the miners are demanding, or elimination of the so-called penalty clause, under which miners are fined for unauthorized strikes and the operators for lock-

Senate Indicates Swift Approval Of Merger No. 2

Would Abolish 5 Agencies; Affects 12,000; Yearly Saving Set at $1,250,000

By Robert C. Albright

The President's second major reorganization plan, regrouping more than a score of regular departmental functions and abolishing five agencies, last night appeared headed for swift Senate approval following favorable reception on both sides of the Capitol.

Chairman Byrnes of the Senate Reorganization Committee immediately introduced a resolution of disapproval in a strategical maneuver to speed action on the plan. Byrnes will call his committee today to report the resolution adversely, thus assuring an early Senate vote.

Defeat of the resolution, which would be tantamount to approval of the plan, may be followed by another move by reorganization bill strategists to shorten the 60-day period before plans "1 and 2" become law. Following Senate approval, which is taken for granted, Byrnes said he will offer a joint resolution giving effect to the two orders 30 days after submission.

Would Abolish Coal Commission

Highlighting the second plan were:

Abolition of the National Bituminous Coal Commission, and transferring its function to the Secretary of Interior. This action was cheered when it was announced in the House.

Transfer of the now independent Rural Electrification Administration to the Agriculture Department. This order failed to encounter opposition from the strong Senate and House power blocs, which fathered the agency.

Consolidation of the foreign services of the Department of State, Commerce and Agriculture into a single United States foreign service unit, under the State Department. The three departments in a joint statement hailed this as a "constructive step in every sense." Congressional Republicans criticized this order.

Abolition of the National Emergency Council and transfer of its informational, press, clipping and other main functions to the White House. The NEC radio and film service was shifted to the new Federal Security Administration. This regrouping attracted sharp Republican fire.

Affects 12,000 Employes

Transfer to the Interior Department of the Bureau of Fisheries from the Commerce Department, and the Biological Survey from the Agriculture Department. The Bureau of Lighthouses would be shifted from the Commerce Department to the Treasury and consolidated under the Coast Guard.

These and other second-plan shifts, affecting some 12,000 Government employes, will improve the Federal service and ultimately save $1,250,000 annually, the President told Congress.

One highly controversial item involving transfer of the Forest Service from the Agriculture Department to the Interior Department, was omitted but may be included in a reorganization plan next year. The President told Congress he was considering the overlapping jurisdiction of the two departments over certain public lands, and will offer recommendations next session.

Also slated for further study and report next year was proposed transfer of jurisdiction over deportable aliens from the Immigration and Naturalization Service in the Labor Department to the Justice Department.

He said he will send no further general reorganization plans to Congress this year, but may use

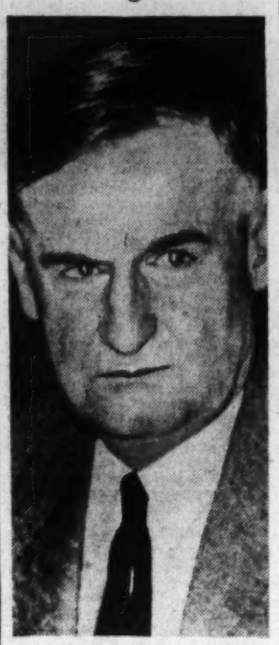
Hopkins' Aide Will Resign



GEN. ROBERT E. WOOD

Patterson Irked By Commerce Merger; to Quit

Appointed in Roper's Term; Wood Resigns As Hopkins' Adviser

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Richard C. Patterson will resign soon, it was learned yesterday, following announcement of the President's Reorganization Plan No. 2, which shifted the Commerce Department foreign service to the State Department.

At the same time, Secretary Hopkins published a letter of resignation from Gen. Robert E. Wood, of Chicago, Hopkins' temporary business adviser. Gen. Wood said press of private business prevented him from devoting sufficient time in Washington to do the job. He expressed regret that Hopkins' illness made it impossible for him to confer more often with the Secretary when he was here.

Patterson is known to have vigorously opposed the change for many months, and was unreconciled to the final decision.

Rumors of Patterson's dissatisfaction with his job were confirmed by reports from New York City that he was seeking an opening in private business.

Appointed in 1938

Patterson, a 53-year-old industrialist, was appointed to his present post in April, 1938, toward the end of Secretary Roper's tenure in office. With the appointment of Harry Hopkins as a new secretary, followed shortly by the naming of Edward J. Noble, former Civil Aeronautics Authority chairman, as Hopkins' personal assistant, Patterson is believed to have felt the ground cut from under him.

Patterson's career has been a mixture of public service and work for America's largest industrial concerns. He was New York City commissioner of correction from 1927 to 1932, after having served as an engineer on the staff of the duPont and White Engineering companies. He served with the Engineer Corps during the war in France, emerging with a colonel's commission. He was executive vice president and director of the National Broadcasting Co. from 1932 to 1936, when he became president of the Patent Research Corporation.

Poison Ring Deaths Pass 100; Mass Murder by Mail Hinted

By the United Press.

Philadelphia, May 9.—Investigation into the machinations of a mass murder corporation reached incredible proportions tonight with the number of deaths attributed to the merchants in poison slayings increasing almost hourly.

Even the veteran members of the homicide squad, investigating the syndicate, were so bewildered by the startling developments that they almost gave up hope of ever finishing their task.

They began their job last November when a Federal informer, posing as a former convict in an effort to locate the source of counterfeit money, was offered $200 in "real money" or $500 in "counterfeit money" to act as a professional killer for a corporation which killed to collect life insurance and estates.

Tonight 23 persons, including 12 suspected "arsenic widows," were in custody, while police searched for scores of others and called in New Jersey authorities to help investigate the operation of a branch in that State.

No one knew how many deaths the murder merchants were responsible for, but even the most conservative of the investigators believed that the early estimate of

Over the Coffee

By Harlan Miller

SECRET STUFF: It's a weird, unearthly sensation to wander into the anteroom of one of the State Department diplomats and find two shorthand experts—one man and one tall, willowy blonde—listening in on two telephones and silently taking every word down verbatim, while the master mind in the inner office talks on a third phone . . .

"That Man" . . . a new FDR joke

Maybe it's a transatlantic chat with an American envoy; maybe a talk with a foreign Ambassador in Washington; maybe just a bull session; but every word went down in black and white . . .

Even so, the overseas phone tolls have rarely gone over $1,000 a day . . . Usually they're below $500 . . .

Not all the State stenogs, of course, are tall, willowy blondes.

FDR JOKES: Bitter as a degenerate almond was the attitude of the Chamber of Commerce toward the President at its annual meeting . . . The chambermen delighted in telling stories portraying him in most unflattering, even demoniacal, lights.

Some of them carried blackbordered cards reading: "If you don't give me an order I'll vote for That Man again!" Even some Coolidge Republicans were unnerved by the barrage.

"—one reason for hate of FDR"

If the Government hired a top-notch psychoanalyst to dig into the businessman's psyche to explain his Rooseveltphobia, he would discover one reason to be the multiplicity of forms, questionnaires, blanks and returns he must fill out monthly, quarterly and annually.

If Roosevelt were to order all U. S. returns consolidated into one a year (except statistics required quarterly) some of the poison would vanish.

* * * *

But the best Roosevelt tale of the week comes from a gathering of Senators and others, where the Chief Executive was on the pan.

"After all, boys," said one conscientious patriot finally, a little disgusted, "he's our President, and we ought to be loyal."

"That's right," said another. "After all, the President's his own worst enemy."

One of the elder Senators pounded on the table.

"Not while I'm alive!" he shouted.

* * * *

When the President said in his offhand way that the New York Fair is the "last of the George Washington fiestas," the most startled man present was Congressman Sol Bloom, who has been honoring GW since his 200th birthday in 1932 . . .

Now it is taken for granted that Bloom intends to go right on celebrating the 200th anniversary of everything that ever happened to GW, until he finally observes the 200th anniversary of his death in 1999 . . .

Then, in 2033, it will be time to begin the tricentennial.

"—the spy jitters again"

The next "red date" on the State Dept. calendars is May 15—when Hitler may march into the Polish corridor if he hasn't got a 15½ mile slice of it sooner . . .

Until the last day or so the American observers have been betting, though, that he wouldn't take Danzig or the corridor by force . . .

The Polish army has a high rating, and Col. Beck, the Poles' foreign minister, a cagy chiseler, after shopping around has decided he can rely on England and thumb his nose at Berlin. Of course, the Pope's intervention may again defer the "critical date."

* * * *

SPY JITTERS are breaking out again . . . In Government offices connected remotely with defense you see messengers burning contents of wastebaskets every hour or so . . . And there's a dark suspicion that once again short wave radio sets operated by alien hands are mounted in rooms overlooking American airports and Army posts and relaying messages to Europe via Mexico and the high seas.

* * * *

CAPITAL CAVIAR: Senator Hattie Caraway, sixtyish, still jumps off the senatorial subway train before it stops . . . Elihu Root used the phrase "good neighbor" over 30 years ago as Secretary of State . . . Army men are a little vexed because Marines and the Navy held the spotlight when Nicaragua's President was greeted here, and they deem this a dress-rehearsal for the King and Queen's welcome. . . . After all, Nicaragua and the Marines are old buddies. But the Army's tanks, it seemed to me, held their own with the sea-going musicians who played at the Union Station.

A. F. L. Accused Of Face-Saving Labor Act Deal

C. I. O. Counsel Assails Acceptance of Compromise Parley

By the United Press.

General Counsel Lee Pressman, of the Congress of Industrial Organizations, charged last night that spokesmen for the American Federation of Labor are attempting to make a "back door deal" with the National Labor Relations Board "to avoid the penalties of their treachery" in seeking drastic revision of the Wagner act.

He issued a blistering statement after Joseph A. Padway, A. F. of L. general counsel, and Charles Fahy, NLRB general counsel, accepted an invitation of Chairman Thomas, of Utah, of the Senate Education and Labor Committee, to seek a compromise on amendments to the statute which have vigorous A. F. of L. support and are opposed with equal bitterness by the C. I. O.

Statements Conflict

Fahy and Padway later conferred with NLRB Chairman J. Warren Madden and Board Secretary Nathan Witt on procedure.

Meanwhile, President William Green, of the A. F. of L., said the federation has no intention of retreating from its demand that the act be modified. He insisted Fahy had approached Padway in seeking the conference.

Pressman said the peace parley had been requested by Padway and John P. Frey, head of the A. F. of L. metal trades department. Frey will testify in behalf of the amendments tomorrow.

The parley was sought, Pressman continued, so A. F. L. officers can work out a method of "hiding their shame . . . on the eve of an executive council meeting at which they will have to answer the C. I. O.'s exposure of their collusion with the National Association of Manufacturers and at which the split in the A. F. L. over the amendment will be torn wide open."

A. F. L. Accused

His attack followed by a few hours an accusation by George C. Kidwell, director of the California State department of industrial relations, that the A. F. L. fostered labor disturbances in Westwood, Calif., to discredit the Wagner act and the NLRB. Kidwell testified before the Thomas committee.

The House Labor Committee, also engaged in Wagner act hearings, became embroiled in a bitter, undercover row over testimony of Representative C. Anderson (Democrat), of Missouri, vehement critic of the NLRB. Representative Barton (Republican), of New York, precipitated a sharp exchange by characterizing Representative Kent I. Keller (Democrat), of Illinois, "an attorney for the labor board."

Trainmen Oppose Change

Cleveland, May 9 (AP).—A vigorous stand against proposed amendment of the national labor relations act today was the first major action to come out of the second quadrennial convention of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen.

Treasury Fountain May Come Down For Gallatin Statue

Plans for removal of another Washington landmark and erection of a statue to Albert Gallatin, Jefferson's Secretary of the Treasury, this month will go before the joint Library Committee of Congress for final approval, it was learned last night.

Congress has appropriated $10,000 for construction of a pedestal, which has been tentatively located at the north entrance to the Treasury, where the broad granite fountain, familiar to several generations of Pennsylvania avenue pedestrians, now stands.

The Gallatin statue is being designed by James E. Frasier, of New York, at the expense of the Albert Gallatin Memorial Station.

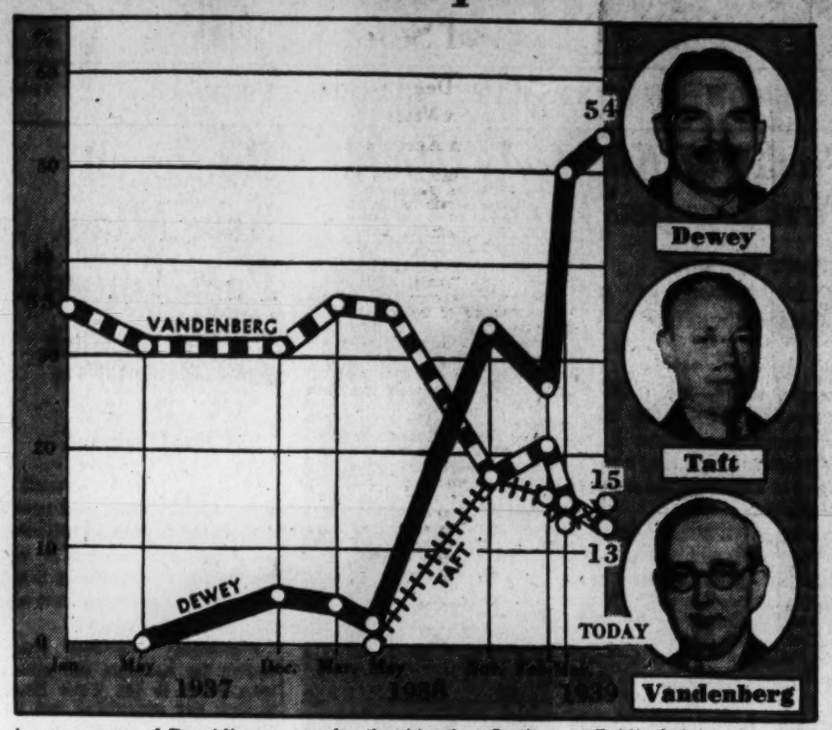
The Gallup Poll



A new survey of Republican voters by the American Institute of Public Opinion shows that among those with opinions on 1940 candidates, Thomas E. Dewey, Senator Robert A. Taft and Senator Arthur Vandenberg are the favorite choices today. The trend of popularity of these leading choices, as recorded in previous surveys, is shown above

By Dr. George Gallup,
Director, American Institute of Public Opinion.

New York, May 9.—The popularity of Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, and Senator Robert A. Taft, of Ohio, as Republican Presidential candidates for 1940 has increased slightly among Republican voters during the last six weeks, according to the results of a survey by the American Institute of Public Opinion.

Dewey, the district attorney of New York City, who barely missed being elected Governor of the State last November, is now the choice of more than half of Republican voters throughout the country who have definite opinions on a candidate for 1940. His popularity has doubled since last February, before he secured the conviction of Tammany Leader James J. Hines on racket charges. At that time Dewey was named by 27 per cent of Republican voters with opinions on 1940 candidates. Today he is the choice of 54 per cent.

Senator Taft, who has sharply criticized President Roosevelt's foreign policy, runs second to Dewey, having displaced Senator Arthur H. Vandenberg, of Michigan, who runs third today.

The survey was conducted among a cross-section of Republican voters only, who were asked to give their choice for the G. O. P. nomination in 1940. No list of candidates was presented, the replies being entirely spontaneous.

Approximately two-fifths (41 per cent) said they had no opinion at the present time. This represents a sharp drop in the "undecided" vote, for in an earlier survey six weeks ago 54 per cent expressed no opinion.

Among those with an opinion today, the leading choices are as follows:

TODAY

1. Dewey	54%
2. Taft	15
3. Vandenberg	13
4. Hoover	4
5. Borah	3
6. Landon	3
7. Bricker	1
8. Lodge	1
9. LaGuardia	1
10. Barton	1
All Others	4

LAST MARCH

1. Dewey	30%
2. Vandenberg	15
3. Taft	13
4. Hoover	5
5. Landon	4
6. Borah	2
7. Lodge	2

In Institute surveys among Republicans a year ago Dewey and Taft received only a handful of votes. Their rise to prominence has come since the elections of last November. It remains to be seen whether Dewey can hold his lead during the coming months. While the survey results clearly point to his popularity as of today, the nominating convention is still more than a year off and 41 per cent of Republican voters have not yet made up their minds what candidate they prefer.

In addition to the leading choices in today's survey, many other Republicans were mentioned by G. O. P. voters as presidential timber, including:

Roosevelt Puts Farm Bill Tax Up to Congress

Cites Failure to Provide For Increased Benefit In Last Session

Asserting that Congressional leaders had failed to redeem a promise to compensate for increased benefit payments by increased taxes last session, President Roosevelt advised reporters yesterday to ask them whether increased farm funds just voted by the Senate would be so offset.

It was up to Congress, he said, adding that Congress knew his own position, that appropriations in excess of his budget estimates called for a bigger tax yield. The additional farm funds, he said, should certainly be a factor in any tax revision which Congress undertakes.

His remarks were evoked by a question on the $380,000,000 voted into the farm appropriation bill for the next fiscal year by the Senate. Meanwhile, a heated dispute between Southern Senators on the Administration plan for subsidizing cotton exports in an effort to reduce the big surplus in that commodity delayed final passage of the measure. In total it provides a record-breaking $1,218,000,000 for the Agriculture Department for next year.

Mr. Roosevelt pointed out first that the bill had not yet been finally approved, and declined to say what his attitude toward signing or vetoing the measure would be if it comes through with the increases still included.

He said he was promised $225,000,000 last year in additional revenue to offset the increased appropriation, and it was not forthcoming. Now, he said, it was hundreds of millions more. It all raised the question, where do we go now, he continued, adding that he didn't get the $225,000,000 he was promised last year, and that now the situation was worse.

Senator Russell (Democrat), of Georgia, floor leader for the farm funds bill, expressed surprise at President Roosevelt's criticism.

"I'm willing to go along with any budget-balancing program, but I'm not in favor of taking it out of the hide of the farmer," the Georgia Senator said. "Congress can exceed expenditures for relief, National defense or almost anything, except a farm bill, without causing talk."

County Bonds Set Record In Montgomery

New York Firm Pays $602 Premium For School Issue

MONTGOMERY COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, 9213 Clark Ave., Silver Spring, Md. Telephone SHepherd 4300.

Montgomery County bonds sold for the highest price in the county's history yesterday when Halsey, Stuart & Co., Inc., was awarded an issue of $322,000 school construction bonds. The New York firm bid on the basis of 2½ per cent interest and paid a premium of $602.14 for the issue.

Bids were opened by the Montgomery County commissioners at their meeting in Rockville. The bids were on the basis of interest rate.

The commissioners voted to dismiss Mrs. Doris Seebold, Republican holdover from the former administration, an employe of the office of Wilton T. Allen, supervisor of county assessments, effective May 15.

They approved a State roads commission program for oiling 27 miles of road, and postponed action on a request made by the Rockville town council that the county pay half the salary of a town policeman.

School Board Deadlocked

Rockville.—The Montgomery County Board of Education failed to elect its chairman and counsel yesterday. The board divided, three Democratic and three Republican. The deadlock remained when the board adjourned with Julius P. Stadler, Democrat, named as temporary chairman.

Surprise appointment of two Democrats to the board yesterday by Gov. O'Conor blocked the plans of the Republican members to organize and elect Jack Irwin as chairman and former Judge Harold C. Smith as counsel. The deadlock results in retention of William F. Prettyman, Democrat, as counsel.

Mrs. Daniel C. Walser, of Chevy Chase, who had been chairman of the board, was reappointed a member. Her term had expired. Mrs. Walser's appointment was supported almost unanimously by the civic and parent-teacher groups of the Bethesda-Chevy Chase area.

Francis Kinsey Metzger, chief engineer of the division of investigation of the Public Works Administration, a resident of Sandy Spring, was named to succeed Elmer E. Boyner, Republican, of Silver Spring, who resigned. Metzger is president of the Federated Parent-Teacher Associations of Montgomery County and president of the Parent-Teacher Association of Sherwood High School.

Recently completed public school buildings at Sandy Spring and Damascus and the colored school buildings at Laytonsville, Sellman and Wheaton were approved and accepted by the school board.

The board appointed the following school trustees for three-year terms: Laytonsville, W. W. White; Unity, Herman Priebe; Redland, Hanson G. Cashell; Hyattstown, Webster W. Burdette; Clarksburg, Mrs. Edward Deets; Slidell, Mrs. Melvin Carlin; Germantown, Ralph Benson; Poolesville, Earl L. Holland; Rockville, Dr. Gilbert V. Physicians decided the eye was so severely injured it may have to be removed.

Water Company Hearing

Announcement was made yesterday that the State corporation commission has set May 29 as the date for hearing a petition and complaint from the City of Alexandria against the Alexandria Water Co. The petition asks extension of water lines to assure better fire protection and to safeguard health.

The city's application seeks extension of 6-inch mains along Wythe street from Pitt to Fairfax; 6-inch mains on Fairfax between Wythe and First streets; 6-inch mains on First from Fairfax to a point halfway between Fairfax and Lee streets; 8-inch main on Janney's lane from College Park to Quaker lane; 8-inch main from Janney's lane along Leesburg pike a distance of approximately 2,500 feet.

Real Property Survey

Mrs. Ellen R. Harper, director of the real property survey, undertaken by the city several months ago, in conjunction with the WPA, has issued the first official report, stating that approximately 8,581 dwellings in the city have been enumerated for condition, size and occupancy. Of this number 6,933 are occupied by white families, and 1,237 by colored.

The figures regarding the condition of the dwellings, and the percentage of overcrowding and of those substandard are not ready for release.

Gen. Somoza Visits U. of Md. To Inspect Agriculture Work

Nicaraguan President Reviews R. O. T. C., Makes Tour of Government's Greenbelt Project

PRINCE GEORGES COUNTY BUREAU OF THE POST, 821 Rheems Ave., Hyattsville, Md. Telephone GReenwood 3586.

Gen. Anastasio Somoza, President of Nicaragua, yesterday visited the University of Maryland and the Government farm at Beltsville to confer on development of agricultural resources, one of the vital problems of his country.

Agricultural leaders explained the Nicaraguan executive was interested in the State's farm organization, embracing the experiment station at the university where research work is carried on and the extension service, through which new agricultural developments are disseminated to the farmers.

Gen. Somoza's interest in Maryland, it was explained, was due to its similarity in topography to the republic of Nicaragua. Both States are hemmed in on one side by mountain ranges and gradually slope to the sea.

The general's visit to the university campus was concurrent with the annual R. O. T. C. drill competition, and he was accorded a pompous welcome.

To the accompaniment of the Nicaraguan national anthem played by the R. O. T. C. band, Gen. Somoza was escorted by Pershing Rifles, crack unit, to the University Administration Building for the conference. The campus was bedecked with American and Nicaraguan flags.

After luncheon he and Dr. H. C. Byrd, president of the university, reviewed the corps and then inspected the university's $150,000 livestock and dairy barns. This phase of the visit was of particular interest to Gen. Somoza as cattle-raising is one of the principal industries of Nicaragua.

A State and county police escort accompanied the Nicaraguan executive to the Beltsville farm several miles north of the university. On the return trip, the party motored through Greenbelt, the Federal Government's housing development, but did not stop.

Parker Reviews R. O. T. C.

Gen. Frank Parker, U. S. A., retired, declared, at the close of the drill at the university, that in case of war four-fifths of the officers would come from the R. O. T. C. ranks.

"You may be called upon again. I hope not. But if so the training you have received will stand you in good stead. The destiny of the Nation depends on you men in time of war," he asserted.

The regiment staged a review in honor of Gen. Parker, commander of the First Division in the World War.

Winners of the drill contest were: Battalion—Cadet Maj. Charles Weidinger, Baltimore, First Battalion.

Company—Cadet Capt. Elgin Scott, 5118 Kansas avenue northwest, Company G.

Platoon—Lieut. Julius W. Ireland, Baltimore, first platoon, Company D.

Squad—Corporal Joseph M. Joyce, Hyattsville.

Individual manual-of-arms—Thomas E. Watson, 4906 Tilden street northwest.

Prizes also were awarded to high scorers on the university rifle teams. Those honored were:

Tom Riley, Germantown, individual high scorer; Fletcher Jones, 1343 Montague street northwest, freshman high scorer; George Meeks, 2608 Myrtle avenue northeast, Mehring trophy winner; A. B. Imus, Mount Rainier, most improved rifle shot; George E. Meeks, National Rifle Association All-America award.

Falls Church Claims Right to Extend Sewers

Officials Deny Service In Fairfax Violates Arlington Agreement

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST P. O. BOX 245, Fairfax, Va. Phone Falls Church 2018-M.

Falls Church officials have denied the town has violated its sewer agreement with Arlington County. Mayor L. P. Daniel submitted a written memorandum of the denial at the meeting of the town council, Monday night.

The memorandum was also submitted to Arlington officials after that county had charged that Falls Church had violated its agreement by extending its sewer lines into Fairfax County. The council was informed that the General Assembly had amended the town charter granting the council power "to establish and maintain a system of sewers—and the town may within its discretion and when public necessity requires extend such system into the territory in Fairfax County immediately adjacent to or in the vicinity of the limits of the towns."

The sewer agreement with Arlington County, Mayor Daniel said, provided that the county agreed "to undertake to dispose of the sewage flowing into and through the trunk lines from the Fairfax portion of the town of Falls Church in the same manner and at the same proportionate cost as prevails in Arlington County." The amount to be paid by the town was to have been agreed upon by authorities of the two jurisdictions on the basis of the number of sewage disposal connections authorized by the town council.

Last fall the town absorbed the private sewage system in the Hillwood subdivision, which is partly within the town and partly in Fairfax County. Only 20 of the connections were outside the corporate limits. Arlington County contended that it was not being paid for the Fairfax County connections and warned that as Arlington County grew in population it might be necessary to discontinue all outside service. Arlington also seeks an adjustment in service charges for subscribers outside the town limits.

Group to Speed Philippine Tariff Bill

Promises President To Draft Program Relaxing Barriers

President Roosevelt yesterday announced an agreement with five members of the Senate Territories Committee on a legislative program for this session of Congress relaxing some of the tariff barriers against Philippine products in the independence act.

Senator Tydings (Democrat), Maryland, committee chairman, announced following a call at the White House by the committee group that the legislation would provide for duty-free import quotas on five Philippine products—cigars, filler tobacco, cocoanut oil, pearl buttons and embroideries.

The legislation, the President said, will deal only with economic relations with the islands prior to July 4, 1946, when the islands are granted independence under the act. Post independence questions in pending legislation will be deferred until some future time.

Deadlock in Committee

It was because of a deadlock in the committee on the pending bill that the White House conference was called. Tydings met with the President for the first time since the attempt to "purge" him from the Senate in the 1938 Maryland primary elections.

Mr. Roosevelt emphasized that it was necessary to enact legislation at this session because, under the independence act, the graduated export tax, beginning with 5 per cent of the full duty the first year, will become effective November 15, 1940. There will be insufficient time to pass the legislation at the next session and prepare for the change, he remarked.

Fears for Industries

The proposal to soften the tariff barriers against Philippine products is due to the fear that certain basic Philippine industries will be ruined. The proposed alternative is declining duty-free quotas.

Asked about reports that Francis B. Sayre, Assistant Secretary of State, would be named High Commissioner of the Philippines to succeed Paul V. McNutt, who is returning to this country to resign his post and launch his campaign for the Democratic Presidential nomination next year, Mr. Roosevelt said he was considering nobody for the place.

dependent of Germany in case of war.

Dr. Charles B. Sawyer, president of the Brush Beryllium Corporation, Gahagan's sole American competitor, told the committee that Dr. William Rohn, an officer of Siemens-Halske, had advised him to enter into a price-fixing combination with Gahagan.

Rohn pointed out that a similar combination of British firms had resulted in a price rise of 30 per cent, declared Sawyer, who added he was "not interested in any sort of combination."

Price Fixing Admitted

The contention of committee counsel that American fabricators of beryllium alloys followed the practice of "price leadership" was supported by H. L. Randall, president of the Riverside Metal Co., of New Jersey.

Prices set by the American Brass Co., wholly owned subsidiary of the Anaconda Copper Co., completely determine the prices of the Riverside company, Randall testified. Admitting he exercised "no individual judgment" in respect to prices, Randall said "we simply follow the prices given us" in the American Brass Co.'s price list.

On the other hand, J. A. Coe, jr., general sales manager of the American Brass Co., emphatically denied his firm was the price leader of the industry. He said, however, that there was "a general following" on the part of various companies in the business.

H. T. Montague, purchasing agent for American Brass, was asked about two letters in which he referred to conversations between Randall and American Brass officials.

O'Mahoney Demands Showdown

Exasperated by Montague's replies, Senator O'Mahoney (Democrat), of Wyoming, chairman of the committee, said, "Let me ask you to lay your cards on the table with this committee and tell us what it all means. Tell us about this fixing of prices. It's an important matter for the people of this country that business executives speak frankly to members of the Government—otherwise we can't legislate."

Coe told the committee American Brass sent its new price lists to all its competitors at the same time as to its customers "as a matter of courtesy."

Montague testified his firm had helped establish Sawyer in the business of producing beryllium alloy in competition with Gahagan. "We prefer to buy our materials on a competitive basis," he said.

American Brass officials said that although the price of the master alloy produced by Sawyer and Gahagan recently had been lowered, their own price for fabricated products had not been affected "as yet."

your work at this conference will be instrumental in demonstrating to the world the indisputable advantages of meeting on a common ground of friendship to discuss problems of mutual interest.

"May your labors at this congress be crowned with outstanding accomplishments."

Secretary Hull, in his address read by Messersmith, emphasized, as did Assistant Secretary of War Johnson last night, that the United States wishes to remain at peace.

At the inaugural session Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring voiced the hope that "there may come from your deliberations some mitigation of war's mercilessness and your efforts may redound to the benefit not only of military personnel but of civilization populations."

Others who spoke were Maj. Gen. C. R. Reynolds, Surgeon General of the Army and president of the congress; Col. Jules Voncken, of Belgium, secretary general of the international committee, and Gen. A. Waldmann, of Germany, and Surgeon Vice Admiral P. T. Nicholls, of Great Britain, both representing the visiting delegates.

Scientific discussions yesterday were divided into three sections: Organization and function of the medical services in colonial expeditions, emergency treatment and primary apparatus for fractures of the jaws in war, and the organization and function of the military chemico-pharmaceutical service.

Wilson 3d Term Ambition Revealed

Dr. A. W. Terrell, of Lynchburg, Va., warned that he would endanger his life if he took the job.

Glass never kept a diary, but according to his biographers he made notes in the period before the Democratic National Convention at San Francisco in 1920, which revealed Wilson's thoughts on candidates and platform planks. Some of these notes follow:

"June 10, 1920. Grayson told me President seriously contemplates permitting himself to be named for third term and said it would kill him. Later in day (Postmaster General Albert S.) Burleson told me he believed President wanted third term . . ."

"June 16, 1920. Grayson at executive offices expressed to me greatest anxiety about President's third-term thoughts, saying he literally impossible to measure up to exactions of campaign. Would probably kill him. Said President's sole idea was to lead fight for covenant. He was totally indifferent to all other considerations. Would resign after covenant adopted. I told Grayson I did not think convention could be induced to nominate man in President's disabled condition; and if President was in robust health, 'twas barely possible Democratic Party and American people might submerge third-term antipathies in their desire for permanent guaranty against war; but not in present circumstances. Grayson begged me to do all possible to guard against such an untoward development in San Francisco. Tumulty also today expressed concern about this third-term manifestation."

In later life the little Virginian who used to fight the bullies from "across the river" in Lynchburg, threw all his energy into the fight aginst New Deal spending policies. His biographers quote him as telling a friend:

"It is sinful for anyone to feel as I feel about the present administration of our governmental affairs."

Smart to See—Smarter to Buy!

The model illustrated is the Buick SPECIAL model 41 four-door touring sedan $996 delivered at Flint, Mich.*

NOBODY has to tell you, skimming along at that brisk Buick pace, that plenty of eyes are turning your direction!

It's a smart car to see, all right—what you're discovering there behind the wheel is how much more there is to this Beauty than a look or two will uncover!

You're feeling the eager power that a straight-eight can pour—when it's a Dynaflash eight with a cyclone in each cylinder to give life, lift—and thrift—to every smooth-flowing mile!

You're finding out that bumps can be tamed, that car riding can be level as flying—when all four wheels, not just the front, ride on stout coiled springs of soft and cushiony steel!

You're discovering how pleasant it is to look out through windows enlarged as much as 412 square inches. And you're enjoying that very special Buick "feel," firm and taut and steady, nowhere any skittery looseness, or wind wander, or hunt!

In a word, you're beginning to realize that, smart as it is to see, this Buick's even smarter to buy.

Smarter for the extra contentment you'll get from owning it—smarter even if you had to pay a premium to get it.

But you don't have to pay a premium! Instead, this great-eight beauty is today priced lower than some sixes. Costs are below those of a year ago. Total outlay—counting included equipment you'd pay extra for elsewhere—is often less than for some cars with lower advertised prices.

So what to do? Easy! Simply turn around, head for the showroom, get down to the details of trade-in terms, monthly payments, all that!

Scandinavia Avoids Joint Reply to Hitler

4-Nation Conferees Declare Neutrality, Independent Policies

By the Associated Press.

Stockholm, Sweden, May 9.—The foreign ministers of Norway, Denmark, Finland and Sweden tonight reaffirmed their policy of neutrality among Europe's rival blocs but agreed to let each country decide for itself whether to accept Germany's offer of mutual non-aggression treaties.

Without rejecting outright Reichstrehrer Hitler's proposals of last Wednesday, the four ministers by their resolution indicated their intention of remaining neutral, while avoiding any implication of mistrust of Germany's intentions in offering the pacts.

The ministers said they were convinced that a reply to Hitler should be such that it would "on all sides strengthen faith in the impartial neutrality which the northern countries maintain in virtue of their right of self-determination."

The ministers said the results of their discussions would be submitted to the cabinets of the four countries.

The German offer raised a wave of opposition in the press of the four countries.

There have been reports, however, that Finland might be inclined to enter a nonaggression treaty with Germany because of a nonaggression pact with Soviet Russia, and thus maintain a balance. Some quarters reported Denmark also was favorable.

At the same time that Germany's efforts at forming a "neutral front" were disclosed—pacts offered to Estonia and Latvia were accepted—it became known Hitler had agreed to a plan of Finland and Sweden for refortification of the Aaland Islands in the Baltic.

The proposed pacts were interpreted in Berlin as an effort to isolate Poland.

Britain Prepares Peace Plan Text For Palestine

Special Cable to The Post.

London, May 9.—The British government today sent to His Majesty's printers the text of its long awaited plan for bringing peace between warring Arabs and Jews in the Holy Land.

The plan, which an official spokesman said would be published as a White Paper simultaneously in London, Washington and Jerusalem "within the next two weeks," has been communicated to the Government of United States.

Details of the scheme are a closely guarded secret, although it is admitted that upon publication they will not be found to differ "radically" from the proposals for creating an "independent" Arab-dominated state in about ten years time, which the British placed before the abortive Palestine conferences here in February and March.

Ecuador Arrests 50 Revolutionists

Quito, Ecuador, May 9 (AP).—The government announced tonight the arrest of 50 conspirators charging they had intended to proclaim a revolution on the grounds that the Galapagos Islands had been sold to the United States.

The official announcement said Col. Luis Larrea Alba was arrested as leader with others accused, including soldiers and students. The government has asked the Council of State for extraordinary powers to deal with the emergency.

Gen. Pershing Comes Back to Washington

bassador Sir William Seed was interpreted in some quarters as a hint to London to supplement her suggestions more precisely and more publicly, although other observers believed it meant Moscow is swinging further away from collaboration with the French-British bloc.

Those who foresaw a breakdown in efforts to include Russia in the armed "peace front" envisioned by Britain and France viewed announcement of the Kremlin's attitude as a logical sequel to displacement of Maxim Litvinoff as foreign commissar Saturday. This, however, was at odds with authoritative statements in London that Premier and Foreign Commissar Molotoff had assured Seeds there had been no change in Soviet policy.

Uncertainty over Moscow's next action was reflected in conflicting statements of two London authorities, one of whom declared rejection is certain, while the other indicated Russia is prepared to view the British note favorably provided immediate general staff talks are arranged.

Rumania Accepts Offer

However, the Soviet ambassador to London, Ivan Maisky, informed the British government today that Rumania had expressed willingness to accept a Soviet guarantee— a development considered a diplomatic victory for Russia in view of previous Rumanian reluctance to accept Soviet military assistance.

It was believed this may open the way for Soviet collaboration with Britain and France on her own terms, rather than in accordance with British proposals.

Tass, official news agency, asserted Britain proposed Russia should give immediate assistance to Britain and France if they become involved in war as a result of defense pledges given Poland and Rumania, but without any reciprocal guarantee of assistance for the U. S. S. R. under similar circumstances.

Soviet System Seen

The communique denied earlier reports from London that the British had asked guarantees for each of Russia's western neighbors, offering in return a pledge to assist Russia should the guarantees involve her in war.

Meanwhile, Potemkin's Warsaw visit, following upon his recent visits to Ankara, capital of Turkey, and Bucharest, capital of Rumania, gave force to a belief in some Moscow quarters that the U. S. S. R. is attempting to create in Eastern Europe her own independent security system.

Russia has already concluded a defense agreement with Turkey and British officialdom tonight expected this to be matched with an Anglo-French Turkish pact, possibly to be announced this week. Such a declaration by Prime Minister Chamberlain has been forecast several times previously, however, without fulfillment.

Berlin Clouds Picture

In Berlin, Nazi admissions of friendship negotiations with Russia continued to cloud the picture of intense diplomatic maneuverings over the continent. There were, however, no more than speculative connections between the asserted German activity and the new snag in British-Soviet negotiations.

Informed observers doubted that a basis existed for any immediate friendship between Germany and Soviet Russia, and said any signs of rapprochement probably would be limited to improvement in trade relations.

It was suggested the rumors might have been started by Nazi leaders themselves in an effort to make more difficult the negotiations between Britain and the Soviet.

Paul to Visit Reich

Favorable reception given by Germany to the peace activity of the Vatican contrasted sharply with the response to previous proposals given formally by President Roosevelt and informally by Prime Minister Chamberlain. The Nazi reaction today was attributed in part to internal considerations, possibly leading to friendlier feelings among German Catholics.

Dispatch of Goering to Spain coincided with disclosure that German Foreign Minister Von Ribbentrop would report to Hitler at his mountain retreat on conversion of the Rome-Berlin axis into a military alliance.

Rome's preparations to receive Yugoslavia's regent tonight were matched by announcement that Prince Paul would visit Berlin early in June.

No official Fascist comment was available on the Vatican's peace efforts, but the controlled Italian press received them favorably.

Tokyo Warns Britain

Europe's diplomatic game had an echo in Tokyo, where Foreign Minister Arita emphasized, in a half-hour conference with British Ambassador Sir Robert Leslie Craigie, Japan's desire for stronger relations with Germany and Italy.

This was interpreted in some quarters, however, as an indication of Japan's fear of a British-Soviet alliance, which, it was said, might force Japan into a military alliance with her anti-Comintern partners. Informed sources, however, said Japan is hopeful of avoiding concrete commitments to the axis.

Meanwhile, Berlin officials were said to be studying Japanese relations, possibly in respect to the effect on them of Germany's gestures to Russia.

Britain to Call Reserves

London, May 9 (AP).—The British government announced plans today to put the country on a semimobilization basis with the explanation that "hostilities now are undertaken without notice."

War Secretary Hore-Belisha told the Commons that army, navy and airforce reserves would be called up by batches for training in rotation between June and October.

There was no announcement of the number of men involved, but all of at least 100,000 members of anti-aircraft units of the territorial army will serve one month each "at war stations."

Hore-Belisha inaugurated debate on second reading of a bill designed to enable the government to call up reserves secretly, without going through public formalities. Prime Minister Chamberlain announced this measure and the military conscription bill would become law before May 28.

Cabero Denies Fascist Threat

New York, May 9 (AP).—Alberto Cabero, newly appointed Chilean Ambassador to the United States, said today on his arrival to take over his post at Washington, that there was no serious threat of fascism penetration in his country.

The diplomat was accompanied by his wife, his son, Alberto, jr., and daughter-in-law and a year-old granddaughter, Nora.

Transportation Bill Reported To Senate

Measure Would Bring Water Carriers Under I. C. C. Jurisdiction

The Wheler-Truman omnibus transportation bill, codifying the Interstate commerce act, setting up a temporary transportation board and bringing water carriers as well as rail and motor traffic under Interstate Commerce Commission jurisdiction, yesterday was favorably reported by the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee.

Left out of the measure was pending rail reorganization legislation, which Chairman Wheeler announced will be handled as separate emergency legislation.

Rail Hearings Open

The Senate committee will open hearings today on the House-approved Chandler bill, providing relief for railroads in temporary financial difficulties. Hearings will follow on the general rail reorganization bill introduced by Wheeler and Senator Truman (Democrat), of Missouri.

Committee spokesmen may ask the President for an expression of approval both on the omnibus bill reported yesterday, and on the Wheeler-truman proposals for a new Federal court to take charge of railroad reorganizations, receiverships and bankruptcies.

Wheeler is not expected to ask the Senate to call up his omnibus bill until committee hearings are concluded on the emergency reorganization measures.

Based only in part on the recommendations of the President's committee of railroad management and labor, the measure reported yesterday also differs in major particulars from the Lee bill now being considered by a House sub-committee.

I. C. C. Gets Full Jurisdiction

In addition to codification of the interstate commerce act, it would place under the I. C. C. complete jurisdiction over rates, charges, consolidations and routing of traffic by railroads, motor carriers and water carriers, including inland, coastwise and Great Lakes operation.

A three-man transportation board, appointed by the President, would investigate the relative fitness of each type of transportation for each type of service, and the extent to which transportation is subsidized by the Government. This temporary board, which would continue in existence until May 31, 1941, would make its reports both to the President and Congress.

The Southern drive for elimination of freight rate differentials was recognized by incorporation of the language of a resolution introduced by Senator Hill (Democrat), of Alabama. This directs the commission to investigate regional rates on manufactured and raw products. The commission would be further directed to remove rates found to be unlawful.

One change broadened the commission's authority over pooling of earnings. When the commission decided in general rate cases that an increase in rates should be allowed, it could provide for the pooling or division of the increased revenue, with wealthy roads sharing with poorer roads.

ICC Action Expedited

Several changes were aimed at expediting action by the ICC on questions before it. One of these would allow the commission to delegate part of its work to one commissioner or a board of employes, from whose rulings appeals could be made to a division of commission members. It would be discretionary with the commission to grant further appeals from the division to the full commission.

Another speed-up change would allow a railroad to file its tariff at the same time it made application for long-short-haul clause relief, and if no objection was made, the reduced rate would become effective at the end of 30 days.

A change in the so-called rate-making rule would provide that when the commission exercised its power to prescribe just and reasonable rates, it would give due consideration to the effect of rates on the movement of traffic by the carriers for which the rates are prescribed. For example, the commission would not consider the effect of a change in railroad rates upon the movement of traffic by motor or water carrier, but only on rail traffic.

Policeman Charges Attacks to Dairy

"Dog-Eat-Dog" Competition

Clarence V. Dye, representing 32 independent producers, said that the price of milk is kept up in Washington by the "dog-eat-dog" competition in the purchase of wholesale milk and cream.

Representative Halleck (Republican), of Indiana, was reported preparing to offer an amendment to the District milk act, opening the market to Western producers, and to make a speech on the House floor today.

Felber's testimony was the climax of the sub-committee's investigation, now in its second week, and came just as a recess was taken until next Tuesday.

Felber testified he was detailed to the corporation counsel's office by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police, on January 24.

Saw Cans Transferred

Working with James B. Wright, chief investigator of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association, over a period of several weeks, he said, he observed several transfers at Green Gables, Md., and other points of what appeared to be cans of cream from a Michigan truck and trailer to a Maryland truck and a District truck. He then followed the cream to the plants of the Embassy-Fairfax or its subsidiary, the Clover Dairy, in Mount Rainier, he said.

On one of these trips, Felber said, Archibald Fletcher, sales manager for Embassy-Fairfax, tried to force his car off the road. Fletcher tried to wreck his car again the following day, he added.

On another occasion George P. Kreger, manager of the Clover Dairy, backed a truck into his car, damaging a fender, and then threatened him with a brandished tire iron, Felber charged.

On both occasions Felber appeared to be an employe of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Association as he did not make known his identity until the seizure of the Michigan truck on March 4.

Felber, in company with J. B. Layton, another policeman, and two employes of the association, started trailing the Michigan truck and trailer out of Hyattsville in February.

They followed it to Kalamazoo, Mich., where Felber said he found it in a garage loaded with about 250 10-gallon milk cans with Embassy identification on them.

Afterwards they trailed the truck, which was driven by Ted Tobin, to Lafayette, Ind., and saw it load up. When the truck neared Washington, Felber said, it was met by James J. Ward, president of Embassy-Fairfax, who accompanied it into the dairy's plant.

Seven men were arrested and held for investigation until they could be questioned by Seal.

Under a barrage of cross-examination by Representatives Shafer (Republican), of Michigan, and Schulte and Robert E. Lynch, attorney for Embassy-Fairfax, Felber quietly denied all suggestions that he had engaged in wire-tapping or that he had received any money from the Maryland-Virginia association.

Members of the association, however, did finance the trip to Kalamazoo, furnishing cars and paying for food and lodging, Felber said.

Japan Bars Relief To Attacked Cities

Shanghai, May 9 (AP).—A Japanese spokesman announced today that hereafter Japanese would prevent third-power relief organizations from supplying food and medicines to Chinese refugees in cities under attack.

The spokesman's statement applied specifically to Ningpo, in Chekiang province, 100 miles south of Shanghai, and nearby ports. It was believed, however, that the policy would be extended to other eastern and southeastern China ports where aerial bombardments continued today.

U. S. Puts Brand Of Foreign On Adolph Rubens

New York, May 9 (AP).—Adolph Rubens-Robinson, a man of mystery, was given the unqualified label of foreign spy for the first time today as three men convicted of aiding him to fake United States passports received maximum prison terms of two years each.

Rubens, alias Donald L. Robinson, was suspected of espionage activities when he and his wife disappeared in Soviet Russia more than a year ago, but no part of the air of international intrigue was cleared in the trial of his co-conspirators—Aaron Sharfin, former clerk in the Egyptian consulate; Edward Blatt, a lawyer, and Ossip Garber, commercila photographer.

In asking maximum terms tdoay, however, United States Attorney Cahill declared the passports "were procured for and used by agents of a foreign state engaged in espionage activities, in and against other foreign states. * * * This is no theory of Government consel, but is based upon Government information."

15,000 Watch Company H Win Drill Medal for Western

Mrs. Doyle, First Woman To Review High School Cadets, Presents Allison Naylor Prize

More than 15,000 persons in Griffith Stadium yesterday saw Company H, Western High School, step to the front of the high school cadets' brigade formation and take the prize as the best unit of the outfit.

The company commander, Allen Burdette, accepted the Allison Naylor medal from Mrs. Henry Grattan Doyle, president of the Board of Education and the first woman ever to review the cadets here.

Company A, Central High—Robert McKee, captain—took second place; Company D, Wilson High—Chester Finch, captain—took third honors, and rookie Company F, Central High, scored with Arthur Thompson at its head.

It was a moment of screaming, whistling and high school yells as the winning units marched to the front for recognition. Each unit then swung, in column of squads, around the edge of the field, past the brigade band and back to the others.

Companies that did not come into competition Monday took the field yesterday morning before the three Regular Army second lieutenants from Fort Meade. The event was staged by Col. Wallace M. Craigie and Lieut. Paul Doerr, Army instructors for local schools that have cadet companies. In all, 2,102 cadets participated in the drills. Last night cadet dinners were held in the school cafeterias.

Rep. Martin Demands WPA Salary List

Tells House Agency Reeks With Inefficiency, Corruption and Waste

The Socialist mayor of Milwaukee and the Democratic mayor of Louisville suggested to the House sub-committee investigating the WPA yesterday that relief funds be paid from Federal taxation, while Minority Leader Martin, of Massachusetts, demanded on the floor that "the high salaries" in WPA be made public.

Defense of the WPA by Mayors Daniel W. Hoan, of Milwaukee; Joseph D. Scholtz, of Louisville; Richard W. Reading, of Detroit, and Ross D. Rogers, of Amarillo, Tex., contrasted sharply with Martin's statement to the House that the work relief agency "fairly reeks with inefficiency, corruption, scandalous waste and un-Americanism."

Martin introduced a resolution instructing Col. F. C. Harrington, WPA administrator, to give the House the names and salaries of all WPA employes receiving $100 a month or more, and all who have received increases in pay since October, 1938."

Says Information Refused

The minority leader said that Harrington had refused to give him this information for the State of Massachusetts because it might embarrass the officials in their communities.

When Martin observed that he hoped the Rules Committee would report th: resolution favorably, Representative Cox (Democrat), of Georgia, high-ranking member of the committee, inquired if Martin had endeavored to ascertain the sentiment of members.

"I have and I don't believe a handful in the House would vote against such a resolution if the Rules Committee reported it," Martin replied.

Direct Tax Proposed

In testimony before the WPA investigating committee, Mayor Hoan proposed that the Federal Government levy a direct tax to finance the work relief system. States adopting similar measures would be given credit, Hoan suggested, while fro mthose refusing to do so, the Federal tax would be collected "100 per cent."

Declaring that the WPA should continue, Mayor Scholtz said he believed that "as soon as possible the cost should be paid out of current revenues." Both Scholtz and Hoan maintained that the WPA was free from politics in their cities.

Mayor Reading asked a 1940 Congressional appropriation for WPA at least equal to the grant for this year, while Mayor Rogers said, "If the WPA were eliminated, I don't know what would become of the big cities."

Coal From Kentucky Moves East, 900 Cars a Day

Associated Press WIREPHOTO.

Chief source of coal since stoppage by strike in the Appalachian bituminous area is the western part of Kentucky. A 70-car train of soft coal is shown moving through Louisville for the East yesterday to supply railroads and industries. Thirty mines, not affiliated with the United Mine Workers of America, are operating on a 24-hour schedule in western Kentucky outs. Miner representatives insist the penalty clause is merely "theoretical" in the case of operators.

To Block A. F. L. Raids

If the operators would concede either of these points, it was explained, the coal shutdown would end at once. The union shop, miner representatives contend, is not a closed shop, since operators would be permitted full freedom of hiring. The condition would be that, after being hired, the worker would have to join the union.

This would prevent "raids" on the United Mine Worker membership by the Progressive Mine Workers of America, American Federation of Labor union, and by the operators, it was said.

Miss Perkins Present

There is no contingent question, Mr. Roosevelt emphasized, which stands in the way of immediate resumption of coal mining. He said, in response to a question, that the Wagner labor act was in the picture because of the power of the National Labor Relations Board to decide in particular cases between A. F. of L. and C. I. O. unions. But this should not delay reopening the mines, he added.

Secretary of Labor Perkins participated in the conference. The committee representing miners consisted of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers; Philip Murray, vice president; Thomas Kennedy, secretary-treasurer; Van A. Bittner and John Owens.

Operators were represented by Charles P. O'Neill, who acted as spokesman; W. L. Robison, Cleveland; J. D. A. Morrow, Pittsburgh; Lee S. Gunther, Knoxville, and L. D. Putnam, Beckley, W. Va.

U. S. Warships To Stay at Home During Crisis

American warships will be staying in home waters until the present tension in Europe subsides, if it does, officials predicted yesterday.

While no flat policy to this effect can be said to have been laid down due to ever-changing conditions here and abroad, the practice of sending new ships on "shake-down cruises" across the Atlantic will be discontinued for the present, it is stated.

In this connection, it is stated that the European cruise of the new destroyer Jouett was recently cut short and the vessel returned to the United States. Two other new destroyers, the Benham and Eilet, were originally scheduled to "shake-down" in European waters, but officials said that under a change in plans they will make their initial cruise along the coast of the United States.

Md. Judge Blasts 'Numbers' Heads

Annapolis, May 9 (AP).—Circuit Judge Ridgely P. Melvin today imposed 6-month jail terms and $500 fines, plus a denunciation from the bench, on Howard Wright and James Watkins, "numbers" operators.

Harvey Diggs, who pleaded guilty and said he was a runner for Wright, was jailed for three months.

Judge Melvin, in passing sentence, called their defense "cunning and dishonest," and declared they were "wilful and brazen law violators, saturated with guilt," who deserved extreme punishment.

CAA Granted Right To Acquire Radio Site

Baltimore can permit the Civil Aeronautics Authority to acquire a part of the Fort Armistead military reservation, under terms of a bill President Roosevelt signed yesterday, without the property reverting to the Federal Government.

The CCA wants 3¼ acres for a radio station site. Under terms of the bill which originally gave the land to Baltimore it all must be used for public park purposes, or the Government would take it back.

West. Md. Storm Floods Streams, Kills Livestock

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Frederick, Md., May 9.—A severe rain and electrical storm struck Frederick County this afternoon, killing livestock, felling electric poles and trees, and flooding streams. Five valuable cows on the farm of C. J. Stup, near here, were killed when lightning struck a tree under which they were standing.

An interurban car en route from Frederick to Middletown was delayed for several hours by a pole that blocked the tracks. The Monocacy River rose 2 feet within an hour immediately following the downpour. The local weather observer said the wind blew at a velocity of between 45 and 50 miles an hour during the height of the storm.

N. Y. Jury Indicts 3d Geoghan Aide

New York, May 9 (AP).—Alexander R. Baldwin, 42, an assistant district attorney in the office of District Attorney William F. X. Geoghan, of Brooklyn, was indicted today on a charge of accepting an $800 bribe from Isidore Juffe.

Juffe and nine other persons were indicted several weeks ago on charges of conspiracy to obstruct justice, grand larceny and bribery. Baldwin was the third of Geoghan's assistants to be indicted.

other legal powers to bring about abolition or regrouping of certain commissions, committees and boards, as well as "some small agencies" which have no legal independent status.

Satisfactory to McNary

In the Senate, no murmur of first-day opposition to the plan developed. Senate Minority Leader McNary said it appeared generally "satisfactory" to him. Senator Guffey (Democrat), of Pennsylvania, who sponsored the bill creating the Bituminous Coal Commission, said he would not object to its abolition. Senator Norris (Independent), of Nebraska, enthusiastic backer of the Rural Electrification Administration, said the Agriculture Department was the "proper" place for it.

Mixed Republican praise and condemnation developed in the House, and Democratic criticism was almost entirely lacking. Representative Rankin (Democrat), of Mississippi, who had sought to exempt REA from any change, said he would not oppose the bill because of that transfer. "If it had to go to any department, I'm glad it was Agriculture," said Rankin.

Sharpest Republican condemnation came from Representative Taber, of New York, whose resolution for disapproval of Plan "No. 1" was recently defeated by the House. Taber said transfer of the National Emergency council to the White House "smelled to high Heaven," adding that "they might as well transfer the Democratic National Committee to the White House."

Called "Rubber Stamping"

The ranking minority member of the House Reorganization Committee called the Byrnes move for immediate Senate approval of the second plan "rubber stamping" and declared "it shows the plan won't stand the light of day."

Republicans generally approved coal commission abolition but criticized transfer of Commerce Department foreign service officers to the State Department and the Biological survey shift to the Interior Department. Minority Leader Martin and Representative Gifford, of Massachusetts, Republican member of the Reorganization Committee, said they thought trade opportunities were more likely to be fostered under Commerce Department jurisdiction.

Plan "No. 1" would take effect June 24 and plan "No. 2" July 2, unless joint action was taken by both Houses cutting down the 60-day period, as proposed by Byrnes.

Taber, who was quick to introduce a resolution of disapproval on the first plan, held back yesterday. The House Reorganization Committee had seized on his last resolution to force a House vote clinching the first plan.

Forced the Issue

Lacking such an opposition move by Republicans, Byrnes decided to force the issue on yesterday's second plan by initiating the disapproval motion himself. It was pointed out that neither House nor Senate committee can move until such a resolution is introduced.

If the Senate Reorganization Committee accepts Byrnes' request and reports his resolution adversely today, Majority Leader Barkley said an early vote will be provided in the Senate. As only one-chamber approval is needed, defeat of the resolution would put the plan into operation after expiration of the required period. Net result would be that, as in the case of the first plan, a vote would be had before lobby opposition had a chance to organize.

Besides the Bituminous Coal Commission and the National Emergency Council, the five agencies specifically abolished in yesterday's order included the War Finance Corporation, transferred to the Treasury for liquidation; the Codification Board, whose functions would be transferred to the National Archives, and the office of Director General of Railroads, whose functions would be transferred to the Treasury.

REORGANIZATION PLAN NO. II.

Prepared by the President and transmitted to the Senate and the House of Representatives in Congress assembled, May 9, 1939, pursuant to the provisions of the reorganization act of 1939, approved April 3, 1939.

Part 1. Departments

Section 1. State Department. Transfers and consolidations relating to the Department of State are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Foreign Commerce Service and Foreign Agricultural Service. The Foreign Commerce Service of the United States and its functions in the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce of the Department of Commerce and the Foreign Agricultural Service of the United States and its functions as established by the act of June 5, 1930 (46 Stat. 497), in the Department of Agriculture are hereby transferred to the Department of State and shall be consolidated with and administered as a part of the Foreign Service of the United States under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of State.

(b) Functions of the Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of Agriculture transferred to the Secretary of State; exceptions. The functions of the Secretary of Commerce with respect to the Foreign Commerce Service and the functions of the Secretary of Agriculture with respect to the Foreign Agricultural Service (other than functions with respect to such services pertaining to activities in the United States and to the compilation, publication and dissemination of information) are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised by, the Secretary of State, except and provided that under regultaions prescribed by the President;

(1) The Secretary of State shall cause to be made such investigations relating to commercial and industrial conditions and activities in foreign countries and such other specific investigations relating to foreign commerce as the Secretary of Commerce shall determine to be in the public interest, and shall report to the Secretary of Commerce the results of, and the information secured through, such investigations. He shall cause to be made such investigations relating to world competition and demand for agricultural products, to production, marketing and disposition of such products in foreign countries, and to farm management and other phases of agricultural industry in foreign countries, and shall conduct abroad such activities (including the demonstration of standards for cotton, wheat and other American agricultural products) as the Secretary of Agriculture shall determine to be in the public interest, and shall report to the Secretary of Agriculture the results of, and the information secured through, such investigations and activities.

(2) The Secretary of Commerce may from time to time when he deems it in the public interest designate any officer in his department to render temporary service under the provisions of, and subject to the conditions named in, section 5 of the act of March 3, 1927 (44 Stat. 1396).

(3) The Secretary of Agriculture may from time to time, when he deems it in the public interest designate any officer in his department to render temporary service under the provisions of, and subject to the conditions named in, section 2 of the act of June 5, 1930 (46 Stat. 498).

(4) The Secretary of Commerce and the Secretary of Agriculture may each designate an officer in his department, acceptable to the Secretary of State, to serve in the Department of State as liaison officer in connection with the administration of the foreign service of the United States.

(5) One officer in the Department of Commerce designated by the Secretary of Commerce and acceptable to the Secretary of State and one officer in the Department of Agriculture designated by the Secretary of Agriculture and acceptable to the Secretary of State shall be added to the membership of the Board of Foreign Service Personnel for the Foreign Service.

(c) Status of Foreign Service officers—Foreign Commerce Service officers and Foreign Agricultural Service officers who by reason of transfer to the Foreign Service of the United States and by appointment according to law acquire status of Foreign Service officers therein shall not be included in the total number of officers in such service for the purpose of determining the percentage limitation established by section 10 of the act of February 23, 1931 (46 Stat. 1207), as amended.

(d) China trade act registrar—Such officer of the Foreign Service as the Secretary of State shall make available for that purpose may be authorized by the Secretary of Commerce to perform the duties of China trade act registrar provided for in the act of September 19, 1922 (42 Stat. 849), under the direction of the Secretary of Commerce.

(e) Foreign Service Buildings Commission—The Foreign Service Buildings Commission and its functions are hereby transferred to the Department of State. The commission shall exercise advisory functions, but all other functions (including administrative functions) shall be exercised under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of State by such division, bureau, or office in the Department of State as the Secretary shall determine.

Section 2

Treasury Department—Transfers, consolidations and abolitions relating to the Department of the Treasury are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Bureau of Lighthouses—The Bureau of Lighthouses in the Department of Commerce and its functions are hereby transferred to and shall be consolidated with and administered as a part of the Coast Guard in the Department of the Treasury.

(b) Director General of Railroads: Office Abolished and Functions Transferred—The office of Director General of Railroads is hereby abolished. The functions and duties of the Director General of Railroads are hereby transferred to the Secretary of the Treasury to be exercised and performed by him personally or through such officer or officers of the Department of the Treasury as he may authorize. The Secretary of the Treasury is hereby designated as the agent provided for in section 206 of the transportation act, 1920 (41 Stat. 461).

(c) War Finance Corporation abolished.—All of the functions property, and obligations of the War Finance Corporation not heretofore transferred by statute to the Secretary of the Treasury are hereby transferred to the Department of the Treasury. The War Finance Corporation is hereby abolished and the Secretary of the Treasury shall complete the winding up of its affairs and shall dispose of its assets in accordance with the act of March 1, 1929 (45 Stat. 1442), not later than December 31, 1939.

Sec. 3. Department of Justice.—Transfers, consolidations, and abolitions relating to the Department of Justice are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Federal Prison Industries, Inc.—The Federal Prison Industries, Inc. (together with its board of directors) and its functions are hereby transferred to the Department of Justice and shall be administered under the general direction and supervision of the Attorney General.

(b) National Training School for Boys.—The National Training School for Boys and its function (including the functions of its board of trustees) are hereby transferred to the Department of Justice and shall be administered by the director of the Bureau of Prisons, under the direction and supervision of the Attorney General.

(c) Board of trustees of the National Training School for Boys abolished.—The board of trustees of the National Training School for Boys (including the consulting trustees) is hereby abolished.

Section 4

Department of the Interior.—Transfers, consolidations, and abolitions relating to the Department of the Interior are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Function of the National Bituminous Coal Commission transferred.—The functions of the National Bituminous Coal Commission (including the functions of the members of the commission) are hereby transferred to the Secretary of the Interior to be administered under his direction and supervision by such division, bureau, or office in the Department of the Interior as the Secretary shall determine.

(b) National Bituminous Coal Commission abolished.—The National Bituminous Coal Commission and the offices of the members thereof are hereby abolished and the outstanding affairs of the commission shall be wound up by the Secretary of the Interior.

(c) Office of Consumers' Counsel abolished and functions transferred.—The office of Consumers' Counsel of the National Bituminous Coal Commission is hereby abolished and its functions are transferred to, and shall be administered in, the office of the solicitor of the Department of the Interior under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior.

(d) Bureau of Insular Affairs.—The Bureau of Insular Affairs of the War Department and its functions are hereby transferred to the Department of the Interior and shall be consolidated with the Division of Territories and Island Possessions in the Department of the Interior and administered in such division under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. The office of the chief of the bureau and offices subordinate thereto provided for in section 14 of the act of June 4, 1920 (41 Stat. 769), are hereby abolished and all of the functions of such officers are transferred to, and shall be exercised by, the director of the Division of Territories and Island Possessions.

(e) Bureau of Fisheries.—The Bureau of Fisheries in the Department of Commerce and its functions are hereby transferred to the Department of the Interior and shall be administrated in that department under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. The functions of the Secretary of Commerce relating to the protection of fur seals and other fur-bearing animals, to the supervision of the Pribilof Islands and the care of the natives thereof, and to the whaling treaty act, are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised by, the Secretary of the Interior.

(f) Bureau of Biological Survey.—The Bureau of Biological Survey in the Department of Agriculture and its functions are hereby transferred to the Department of the Interior and shall be administered in that department under the direction and supervision of the Secretary of the Interior. The functions of the Secretary of Agriculture relating to the conservation of wild life, game, and migratory birds are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised by, the Secretary of the Interior. The provisions of the act of May 18, 1934 (c. 299, 48 Stat. 780), as amended by the act of February 8, 1938 (c. 40, 49 Stat. 1105), insofar as they relate to officers or employes of the Department of Agriculture designated by the Secretary of Agriculture to enforce any act of Congress for the protection, preservation or restoration of game and other wild life and animals shall apply to officers and employes of the Department of Interior designated by the Secretary of the Interior to exercise and discharge such duties.

(g) Officers of Biological Survey May Administer Oaths.—The provisions of the act of January 31, 1925 (c. 124, 43 Stat. 803), shall be applicable to such officers, agents, or employes of the Department of the Interior performing functions of the Bureau of Biological Survey as are designated by the Secretary of the Interior for the purposes named in the act.

(h) Migratory Bird Conservation Commission.—The Secretary of the Interior shall be chairman of the Migratory Bird Conservation Commission, and the Secretary of Agriculture shall be a member thereof.

(i) Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission. — The Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission and its functions are hereby transferred to the National Park Service in the Department of the Interior. The functions vested in the commission by sections 3 and 4(a) of the act of June 15, 1938 (c. 402, 52 Stat. 694) shall continue to be exercised by the commission. All other functions of the Mount Rushmore National Memorial Commission shall

Merger No. 2 Would Shift 12,000 Jobs

Presidential Plan Takes 4,800 Out of Commerce Department

More than 12,000 Federal employes, of whom 2,000 are in Washington, will work under different bosses if the President's second reorganization plan, announced yesterday, escapes Congressional disapproval.

The largest changes will be in the Commerce Department, which will lose 4,800 employes to the Coast Guard in the Treasury Department; 530 Bureau of Fisheries workers to the Interior Department and 125 Foreign Commerce officers to the Department of State.

Working here are 56 Lighthouse employes, 65 to 70 in Fisheries and a scattering of Foreign Commerce experts.

In return, the shorn department will get some 3,500 Inland Waterways employes from the War Department, only a dozen of whom work in Washington. Most of the rest are laborers and canal terminal workers.

REA to Agriculture

Other shifts include 1,015 Biological Survey employes, 233 of them here, from Agriculture to Interior; 322 National Emergency Council workers, 202 here, 30 of whom now working on Government motion pictures and radio work, will go to the Office of Education in the new Federal Security Agency, and the rest to be transferred to direct White House administration.

The entire Rural Electrification Administration of 712 employes, 614 of whom are in Washington, will be transferred to the Agriculture Department. A staff of 100 employes under the now independent National Training School for Boys here will pass under Justice Department supervision. Around 100 foreign agricultural experts will leave the Agriculture Department for status as State Department career officers. Thirty-three civilian employes of the War Department Bureau of Insular Affairs will go to the Interior Department. Some 950 National Bituminous Coal Commission workers, half of whom are in Washington, face an uncertain future.

The office of the director general of railroads, with one employe, will be abolished.

Opinions differed on the fate of Coal Commission employes. As distinct from other agencies involved in the proposed changes, the commission was declared abolished and only the functions transferred. Some officials took this to mean that the present personnel would be taken over by the Interior Department for the time being. In any event, the dismissal of a large majority of those now employed is seen as inevitable, inasmuch as the Secretary of Interior is ordered to wind up the commission's affairs. It was indicated that this will be done via "infiltration" in the Interior Department's Bureau of Mines.

Commerce Feud Ended

The transfers of the foreign commerce service to the State Department ends what was conceded to be the bitterest interagency feud in the Government. Although Commerce Department foreign officers have vociferously opposed the shift, they greeted the move yesterday with almost unanimous approval.

Under the proposal, Commerce and Agriculture foreign officers will assume career status in the State Department, receiving automatic promotions and retirement benefits not enjoyed before, and will be taken over en bloc, with "no dismissals" as part of the agreement. Officials felt the Commerce Department will obtain better foreign service through the expanded program than ever before. No present functions of the foreign commerce service may be abolished without permission from the Secretary of Commerce, who also has veto power on all new appointments and control of the training program.

Under the plan, commerce officers will probably be known as commercial secretaries and will be on a par with consular officers, directing all foreign commerce reporting, promotion and protection.

Space May Delay Changes

The acquisition by the Interior Department of the Bureau of Insular Affairs makes it the "colonial agency" of the Government, with administration of almost all American possessions save Guam and Samoa, which are under Navy control.

Problems of office space were seen yesterday as an important factor in the proposed change. Experts in space control said that the mere physical reorganization of the agencies, complicated by a fisheries aquarium in the Commerce Building and lack of White, Interior and Treasury office space, may be deferred for many months, or even years, to come.

Seeing is Believing!

HERE'S AN INTERESTING CIGARETTE COMPARISON... See how it's made by Al Conklin of Dartmouth

SMOKERS all over the country are learning what A. R. Conklin (right) is showing a group of Dartmouth men. It's a striking way to compare cigarettes by simply watching them burn! Al is testing the leading brands to find the one that burns slowest! Which brand won? C-A-M-E-L... by a wide margin! The reason? Costlier tobaccos, expertly blended in a cigarette that burns slowly, completely—smokes cooler, of course!

Recently, a group of scientists ran this interesting laboratory test on a bigger scale. 16 of the largest-selling cigarette brands were rated impartially. CAMELS BURNED SLOWER THAN ANY OTHER BRAND TESTED—25% SLOWER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR THE OTHER BRANDS. (Camels were remarkably consistent.) IN THE SAME TEST, CAMELS HELD THEIR ASH FAR LONGER THAN THE AVERAGE TIME FOR ALL THE OTHER BRANDS.

Camel is the cigarette of costlier tobaccos...a cooler, milder, better-tasting smoke...every cigarette...every pack!

"Look how slowly the Camel burns compared to the other brands," Albert Conklin points out to the bunch. Everyone agrees that Camels win hands down. "No wonder Camels smoke so cool and mild," Al adds. "And that must have a lot to do with why Camels have such an appealing taste!"

Smoking is Believing!

WHEN you've enjoyed the thrill of a mellow, ripe-tasting Camel, you'll know that NOTHING can take the place of costlier tobaccos! What a wonderful pleasure it is to get set with a cigarette that is really mild—a matchless blend, made to give you all the pleasure in smoking.

Camels have more tobacco by weight than the average of the 15 other brands tested. Besides, Camels burn slower than any of those other brands. And by burning 25% slower than the average of the 15 other of the largest-selling brands, Camels give you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack!

Camels give you even more for your money when you count in Camel's finer, more expensive tobaccos. Buy shrewdly! Buy Camels...America's first choice for a luxury smoke every smoker can afford!

Camel's slower burning (compared to the average time of the 15 other brands tested) gives you the equivalent of 5 extra smokes per pack! You economize while enjoying smoking pleasure at its best!

To Assure The Insured

The House Ways and Means Committee has voted approval of a proposal, recently advocated by Secretary Morgenthau, to establish a board of trustees to administer the old-age insurance fund. This committee, consisting of the Secretary of the Treasury, the Secretary of Labor, and the head of the new Federal Security Agency, would have no special duties to perform in the management of the fund. Disposition there is determined by law. But the Treasury officials believe that the creation of a board would make it more clear to everyone that the fund has been established for the benefit of insured contributors.

The Government has been harshly criticized for utilizing the proceeds of the pay roll taxes to meet current expenditures. The implication is that money contributed by employers and employes for the benefit of insured wage earners has been surreptitiously diverted to other uses. The fact is, of course, that the pay roll taxes come into the Treasury as general revenue and are paid out again for all sorts of purposes. However, the Treasury credits the old-age fund with a sum nearly equivalent to the amount thus received in taxes. And that fund is invested in special Government securities. That is the method of procedure usually followed in administering the numerous trust funds managed by the Treasury.

Funds held in trust, whether for public or private account, are seldom hoarded. They are used to buy securities or property for the account of beneficiaries. The private trust fund, is invested in a wide variety of securities and properties and represents claims against outside interests. The Government's trust funds, on the other hand, are invested in its own promises to pay. For that reason there is no extra security obtainable from the creation of a huge reserve fund like that set up under the old-age insurance system.

In short, the principle of the full reserve is inapplicable to a compulsory governmental insurance plan, although it is most essential to maintenance of an acturially sound private insurance system.

Sentiment is growing for abandonment of the so-called self-sustaining reserve, in favor of a pay-as-you go policy with a limited contingent reserve. Secretary Morgenthau has publicly indorsed the latter plan. In any case, it now seems certain that the cost of old-age insurance will be so great as to prevent the accumulation of a reserve fund of the anticipated heroic proportions. With the reserve thus limited in amount and with a special board of trustees in charge, any apprehension aroused by uninformed criticism will no doubt soon disappear.

There are, however, two important facts that the insured wage earners of the country cannot afford to forget. First, that the security of our social insurance system is absolutely dependent upon the good faith and the firm credit standing of the Federal Government. And secondly, that the burden of benefit payments has to be borne, directly or indirectly, by the taxpayers of the country, regardless of the particular device employed to finance the system.

Beryllium Blues

If the testimony of a witness before the Temporary National Economic Committee is to be believed, and there is no reason to dispute it, beryllium is one of the most remarkable metals ever discovered.

A touch of it added to copper and that otherwise soft metal becomes tough enough to cut steel. Added to nickel, the tensile strength of the alloy is twice that of duralumin. A spring made of beryllium-copper or beryllium-nickel can withstand, we are told, no fewer than 15,000,000,000 vibrations. Indeed the characteristics of beryllium when combined with other metals are so remarkable that extensive use of it may conceivably transform industry and give mankind a long push on the road to progress.

But that isn't the way mankind operates, these days. That isn't why an important German firm spent large sums in ferreting out its manifold uses. That isn't why a representative of the Vickers munitions firm of Great Britain made a strenuous and successful effort to secure an uninterrupted supply of the alloy from the United States and thus be freed of dependence on Germany, which controls the European patents for the use of the alloy. Nor is that why the story of beryllium as unfolded before the TNEC suddenly attracted such great attention.

The reason for all of these devolpments is that beryllium is discovered to have important military uses. In fact, the chairman of the board of the Vickers company is on record as saying that he considered beryllium would probably be the most important metal from a military point of view in the next world war.

In other words, the important things today are not those things which can directly or indirectly contribute to the wealth and happiness of mankind but those things which, in some way or other, can make a nation more capable than its rivals of indulging in mass murder.

That, in 1939, is progress.

Where Unity Is Needed

Of the various transfers and mergers of Government agencies recommended by President Roosevelt in both of his reorganization plans, none is more deserving of Congressional support and approval than that providing for the transfer to the Department of State of the foreign services of the Departments of Commerce and Agriculture.

This rational reform in administration has long been overdue. It represents the logical continuation of efforts to improve our foreign representation that were begun in 1924 with the consolidation of the diplomatic and consular branches of the Department of State.

During these 15 years the scope of the foreign service has steadily been widened and its efficiency greatly increased. Today, the United States has 54 diplomatic missions and 279 consular establishments, manned by 51 Ambassadors and Ministers, 719 career officers and close to 3,000 other employes in every capital, and practically every important commercial center of the world. It is fair to say that no body in Government service is better trained for its exacting duties, more capable or more zealous in serving the Nation and the people.

The political duties of the foreign service require no mention. Our diplomatic and consular officials are the accredited spokesmen of the United States abroad and also the eyes and ears of this Nation. Less publicized, but equally fundamental, are the activities of the foreign service in connection with the preparation of commercial and economic reports, the protection and furtherance of American interests, the issuance of visas, services for ships and seamen and multifarious duties connected with the documentation of merchandize and legal, notarial and other functions.

Side by side with the foreign service of the Department of State there have grown up the foreign services of the Department of Commerce and the Department of Agriculture. Both of these bodies have performed remarkably good work of a special technical character. However, their functions have in part tended to duplicate the functions already performed by the foreign service of the Department of State, with a consequent waste of effort and loss of efficiency.

The President thus has reason and logic on his side when he recommends the absorption by the Department of State's foreign service of the parallel agencies now under the Departments of Commerce and Agriculture. Instead of three such agencies, there would henceforth be only one. Obviously the Department of State is the logical authority under whose supervision the combined body should come.

Indeed, the move is so logical that it has not only the approval of the Secretary of State but the support of the Secretaries of Commerce and Agriculture as well. The men now in the foreign services of Commerce and Agriculture would, under the proposed plan, be taken over by the Department of State and given positions equivalent with their present ranks. The functions they have performed, with such benefits to businessmen, farmers and the general public, they will continue to perform under conditions more favorable to efficiency. And all risk of duplication and waste would be eliminated.

The Departments of Commerce and Agriculture are to be commended for showing such admirably co-operative spirit in this matter. But the Department of State does not propose to be behindhand. The plan carefully safeguards the interests of these other departments. They will have representation on the Board of Examiners for the Foreign Service and on the Board of Foreign Service Personnel whenever acsignments of interest to their respective departments are under consideration.

In that way the plan now presented by the President to Congress makes it certain that the best of the present system will be preserved together with all the advantages of unity of administration and control.

Papal Intervention

It is a most opportune moment for the efforts which Pope Pius XII is quietly making in behalf of peace. During the past week a number of optimistic indications have come to the fore. They are reflected in the sweeping reductions in war-risk insurance announced by London underwriters on Monday. Into the scales at this critical moment is cast the tremendous influence of the Pontiff. It is a force strongly calculated to tip the balance constructively.

The Pope's intervention, now being exerted through the agency of papal nuncios in various European capitals, does not have the direct character of that attempted last month by President Roosevelt. But its value is not necessarily less because it aims only at a small conference, presumably limited to immediate issues. Could such a conference be convened on the neutral and sanctified ground of Vatican City, it would be unlikely to adjourn without making some progress toward an enduring settlement. Catholics of every nation, to say nothing of millions of other faiths, would be most deeply interested in its success.

The present diplomatic situation is, for the first time, favorable to a negotiated settlement. The stiffening of the British and French position, plus the guarantees given Poland, have unquestionably made Germany realize that continued aggression will mean war. At the same time there has been no disposition to deny the validity of German claims which are still outstanding, provided these are supported by arguments more convincing than brute force.

Another factor which makes the present papal intervention logical is the termination of the Spanish civil war. In that contest the Catholic Church was profoundly interested, and so long as fighting continued in Spain the Papacy, as a partisan, was unable to exercise a tranquilizing influence for Europe as a whole. The Spanish war, however, has ended in the triumph of the side which the church, on the whole, indorsed. The victory emphasizes the responsibility of the organization for stabilizing peace throughout Europe.

The church is not friendly to the present government of Russia. But that government, at the moment, is maintaining a neutral attitude as between the Berlin-Rome alliance on the one hand and that uniting London and Paris on the other. There is, in consequence, no reason why Russia should be included in a conference at Vatican City, which makes the summoning of such a conference easier.

For all his invective and circumlocution Chancellor Hitler, in his Reichstag speech of April 28, did not completely close the door to President Roosevelt's peace appeal of April 15. On the contrary, he later met the offer part way by offering nonaggression pacts to all his Baltic neighbors except Poland, with whom such a treaty was only recently abrogated. While the isolation of Poland was evidently one objective in this, the indication that Germany feels herself on the defensive was unmistakable.

The situation is thus one in which an uneasy equilibrium has been established. To transform this into a permanent settlement terminating all threats of aggression, yet fair to all parties, is a task for the finest statesmanship. The immediate problem is to create a situation in which such statesmanship will be able to operate constructively. If Pius XII is able to contribute to this end, as is his evident desire, his rank in history as one of the greatest of all Popes will be unquestioned.

Spring is the most mysterious season. It comes after you have given up hope of its arrival, and leaves before you realize it has been here.

Whispering Campaigns

From the Editor and Publisher.

Snide slanders have long been a technique of political campaigners. Charges and innuendoes that could not bear the weight of print are whispered behind cupped hands in barrooms, pullman smokers, around bright tables and across store counters. And while the political medicine men set enough store by this despicable practice to keep it up year after year, we have never been convinced that it swung an election.

To see evidence that it is being adopted, in any measure, by reputable business is disheartening. It betokens an almost complete bankruptcy of intelligence and enterprise. To our mind, it is a definite confession that the victim of the whispers has so good a product that inferiors cannot compete by legitimate methods.

Within recent months, we have heard charges that lepers were employed in the factories of a major tobacco firm. The busy whisperers also started rumors of race discrimination against the same manufacturer. A big department store in New York came under the whispering barrage with charges that it was firing its regular help to take on German refugees.

If whispering, the purveyance of vile slander, is a legitimate weapon in the armory of either democracy or capitalistic business, everything we have learned in a quarter-century is wrong. No whiskered Red ever devised any bomb more potentially destructive of our institutions than these libels.

Hobbs Bill

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial, "An Arbitrary Proposal," in The Post of May 8 will acquaints your readers with some of the consequences which can follow the adoption of such pieces of legislation as the Hobbs bill. Such legislation as introduction by Representative Hobbs and other of our law-makers is doubtless well intentioned. But it seems to me that much of it is the resultant of patriotism carried to the point of being hysterical about the preservation of democracy in our own land.

It indicates to me that our sense of patriotism and loyalty to our Nation is sadly perverted and distorted. It seems quite un-American to attempt to fight so-called firebrands with fire-brand legislation. At all costs America must remain American, and that surely involves being a haven of refuge to the oppressed, being a Ntaion where free speech is urged not throttled, and a land of freedom for free people within the scope of sane laws.

You may be interested in knowing that the National Emergency Conference will meet in the Raleigh Hotel this coming Saturday and Sunday in order to discuss such subjects as the foreign-born in American history and the American tradition in relation to alien legislation; an analysis of the so-called anti-alien bills pending in Congress; the effect of so-called anti-alien bills on the individual citizen, family, the church, school, trade union and fraternal organizations.

Let our legislators be clear in their thinking and not carried away by fanaticism, emotionalism and hysteria as they try to keep America American.

No Foreign Policy?

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This Government never has had, does not now have and never will have a foreign policy, in spite of the claims of publicists, politicians, orators, writers and others.

I also claim that it is solely due to a weak and vacillating State Department. We could have a foreign policy based upon very simple truths. We should make it our one and only law that all foreign governments would be on the same basis; that they would be treated exactly as they treat us in each and every respect, and to back it up with force if necessary.

Due to the more advantageous position of the United States over other nations and the mutual jealousies among the nations we have nothing to fear. It is enough to break the heart of a patriotic American to witness the weak-kneed, wishy-washy, note-writing, naby-pamby conduct of our foreign affairs. We are so timid we cannot deport the enemies of our Government for fear of hurting the feelings of some foreign government.

England's Attitude

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: This letter is rather late, since the Munich crisis happened in September of 1938, and may also be rather pointless, there being no connection between modern war and wars of 25 years ago and further back.

But I can't help thinking how the England of old would have acted towards a Germany who attempted to wipe out the status quo of Europe. I can't help thinking what the England of old would have done to a Japan who bombed members of her embassy staff. Strikes me, that when the England of old got through paying Japan off, there wouldn't be enough left of Japan to say, "Boo" to China, let alone continue a war there.

And remember when the English admiral let the German admiral know that it would not be healthy for the German admiral to fire on Dewey's fleet at Manila. I don't recall hearing anything about "appeasement" being used. Yet the representatives of Kaiser Bill fired not.

It seems to me that if Chamberlain would stop worrying about the possibility of England going communistic and harken back to an England which in days of old was a name to conjure with, a certain individual by the name of Hitler would be glad to stay in his own back yard. And if he didn't stay there, England would quickly put him there!

WPA

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Yesterday, after reading the President's appeal to industry to extend special consideration to all jobless persons over 50 years of age, I called at the local WPA office, having been told by WPA itself that it was "the same as private industry." A 25-year-old girl handed me a variation of the much used line, "We aren't interested."

President Roosevelt might as well be informed that his recommendation rates exactly zero with his own recovery agency. As one dropped from WPA because my particular project was burdened with excessive "material costs," I feel that the victims of a machine age are again the victims of too much machinery. There is positively no justification for the brutal edict of WPA dismissing thousands, since the reduction in the appropriation could easily have been absorbed by reclassification and reductions in compensation.

Sees Beauty

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: During the welcome given the ruler of Nicaragua at Union Station, a little girl in a pink dress played on the grass.

The pomp and ceremony, pageantry of military formation, was a dazzling effect! In the midst of this thrilling scene, a childish voice, "Mother, I see a butterfly!" If during this world upheaval, distress, conflict, uncertainty, our souls could only look beyond it all and see beauty.

Basque Statement

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The following official statement was issued in New York on May 5 by the Basque delegation in the name of President Aguirre, and stating the position of the exiled Basque government with regard to current events in the Iberian Peninsula:

In the name of the thousands of Basques exiled from their country and those who, in Euzkadi, are forced to support the totalitarian regime and cannot express their will, the Basque government, whose mandate from 84 per cent of the electorate has not been withdrawn by the people, but usurped by force of arms, with German and Italian aid, rejects and protests against all kinds of pacts or treaties which Gen. Franco has signed, or may sign, confirming his adherence to the Rome-Berlin axis.

These actions on the part of Gen. Franco are a shameless admission of the Iberian Peninsula's vassalage to the totalitarian powers, and convert a people so fundamentally democratic as the Basques into an instrument forced to serve the Italo-German plan of aggression against the democracies.

From the beginning of the civil war, the Basque government have re-emphasized the purpose for which German and Italian armies were used in the war against the Basque nation, and even since our military defeat, at grave risk of being misunderstood, we have informed the world regarding the war preparations which German technicians continue to make in the Basque country.

Whatever may be the plan to be played by the Iberian Peninsula in the future of Germany and Italy for the hegemony of Europe, let it be known;

That the Basques, free from all pacts or ideological ties, before, during, and after the civil war, reject today, as they have rejected in the past, all classes of dictatorship, whatever their meaning or color;

That they have fought for their national liberty and for the universal principles inherent in human dignity, defending their territory from the Italo-German invasion at the service of Gen. Franco;

That they deny to Gen. Franco any authority to make statements or to undertake obligations in the name of the Basque nation, whose will it is to remain loyally at the side of the democratic countries, defenders of the principles for which the Basques fought;

That the Basques will honor their convictions with a strong will, in the face of those whose acts of force are endangering the peace and life of Europe.

War In China

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Why is it the United is contributing to the war in the Far East, by furnishing aircraft to Japan, to fight a war against China, an ally of the United States during the World War? The Japanese are fighting a ruthless war against China, using no mercy by taking the lives of innocent women and children by their air attack.

Let the "hearts of America" speak up and stop this money-making scheme in the United States.

We might just as well call black, "black" and white, "white." The United States had best plan to take care of its economic problems and not depend upon revenue from furnishing aircraft and war materials to other countries, to take the lives of human beings, ruthlessly at that. Congress must assert its prerogative in the premises.

The Post Impressionist

Bus Blether

SOME TIME AGO I relieved my mind of some reflections entitled "Day Coach Drama." And w I am moved to make references to another form of travel, and to a distinctly different type of traveler. Notice I do not say this other form of travel constitutes a "different stratum" of America's roving citizenry; for I do not believe in human stratification. I believe the human race is compartmented, but not laminated like the layers of an onion. No one part of society is superimposed upon another. All persons of equal honesty and usefulness in their respective stations are on a common level.

Travelers in buses are a different sort of persons from those who journey in day coaches, just as those who travel in day coaches are different from the habitual Pullman inhabitants. As a rule bus-riders are people who wish—for reasons which are sacredly their own and the business of no one else—to travel at the lowest possible fare rates. They do so, and seldom have I seen or heard one of them complain although he had been packed like an egg in a crate for many mortal hours. Rest stops are reasonably frequent, and at the breathing places I have seen fewer sourpusses among the passengers than I have ever seen when a trainload of parlor-car pets got out to stretch their legs and walk the dogs.

Bus riding is not conducive to reading. The lights are never good and the undulations of the vehicle are indisputably noticeable. But that does not seem to bother the busser. Most of those I have encountered in the bus trips I have found it next-to-necessary to make impress me as people who have a book at home but hope never to be bedfast long enough to have to turn to the darned thing for entertainment. They are people who mainly just live, and talk to one another, and don't do any high diving into pools of greater knowledge or understanding of the profundities. They are, in the main, people who have been discouraged from getting much learning, by noting how violently the most excruciatingly educated savants disagree on subjects connected with their specialties. Much learning has made very few bus addicts mad. They are people who decide they'll go somewhere, on a small investment, buy their tickets, see their luggage incarcerated in the bus' lower bowel, and crawl into a seat. They are enlisted "for the endurance."

The other night, having a need to get from Harrisburg and a herd of Senator Jimmy Davis' Moose to Binghamton, N. Y., for a clot of Rotarians, and there being nothing available in the way of direct railroad transportation, I sighed deeply, tightened my belt, and bought a bus ticket. The bus was scheduled to leave Harrisburg at 11:15 p. m. and arrive at Binghamton at 7:23 a. m., with a strange interlude of an hour and a quarter—4:10 to 5:25 a. m.—at Scranton. A night of spring-squeaks and cat naps. Hence the above observations. The trip cost me incredibly little money, and was by no means fatal. Barring the sausage I ate in my matitutinal delirium at the Scranton bus station and the immediately subsequent regret, all went well. The passengers were patient and tolerant, not one word of murmuring was uttered, and the drivers were models of efficiency.

And it is upon the drivers of these buses I now wish to lavish a few observations.

From a railroad system's standpoint, the driver of a passenger bus is five or six men. He is the engineer, fireman, baggageman, brakeman, conductor, train dispatcher. He has to figure out his own priority rights along the highways as he goes. The usual method of getting that right of way is follow some private car to the brink of a hill; as the two of them pass the apex, the busman sounds two brief notes on his horn, passing the other car as he does so. These drivers are not only skilled in handling their machines. They are equally skillful in handling the public. They are trained men, but their selection must be even more arduous a task than their training. They have to be nerveless, dependable to the last degree, and always courteous. Good health is a high requisite of these men, along with a perfect disposition. Never yet have I heard the driver of a long-distance bus "get sassy" or impatient. They will stand quietly while (and if, which is amazingly seldom) something apparently goes wrong with a passengers affairs. Then they will quietly take such action as is needed, smiling in a friendly manner while so doing.

I have never seen a bus leave anywhere exactly on time and almost as seldom have I seen one arrive at a station many minutes late. Their schedules are so arranged that the bus, while making it, travels only about half as rapidly as it could go. So hen the departure is behind the schedule the driver has only to "let 'er ramble" over a few short straight stretches, then loaf into his next stopping place a little ahead of time. In night travel, lights are turned out, between stops, to give a chance for the aforementioned cat naps.

When the driver has announced: "Wilkes-Barre. Five minutes' rest for passengers going through," such passengers as so desire get out. And when re-loading, the driver advises new passengers not to get on until through traffic has found its former respective seats.

So, though the long-distance rider of the bus feels so rooted there that he suspects a grubbing hoe or a nut pick may be necessary to extract him from his seat at his destination; though he is so adjusted to that seat and that angle that it is almost necessary to point the bus and him at whatever sight is to be seen; though he counts on a few days of convalescence after a several days' ride in one of the big bounding blue brutes with the leaping whippets painted on it, he will go right on riding those same things; also, every now and again I'll join him—and like it.

One thing—buses run through more intimate landscapes than railroad trains do; down main streets, and closer to the flowerbeds in private homes. And to lace-hung windows with baby noses mashed against the panes.

Hopscotch Reporting

Louisville, Ky., May 9.

FOR A LONG TIME I secretly envied Ernie Pyle, the touring reporter who rattles around the country in his car accompanied by a person whom he sometimes mentions as "that girl," who would seem to be Mrs. Pyle. He writes his way along, keeps out of New York and other big cities which are overcrowded by other reporters and writers, knows more small-town and dirt-road Americans than Jim Farley and is better informed on the condition—or, anyway, the feeling—of the small people than Mrs. Roosevelt herself. In spite of herself and any belief that Mrs. R. may have to the contrary, she gets "yessed" a great deal on her travels, and political rivalry breaks out sometimes over so simple a rite as the serving of a dish of tea to Mme. President.

Ernie's pieces are strictly T-bone medium all the time, and I have thought sometimes that the only way to obtain grass-root information myself would be his way. I still think so, but I no longer envy the boy, because ten days of his method have produced negligible profit and acquainted me with the seamy side of roving journalism.

Laundry Problem Worries Wanderer

THE PEOPLE whom I have interviewed in the casual "Howdy, Neighbor," manner of the tumbleweed reporter blowing this way and that across the land have been mostly the men who sell gas and polish windshields in small towns, girls and boys of high school age who serve sandwiches in little restaurants and bellhops in hotels. They all have been polite and friendly, but somehow my picks didn't turn up any special stories which could be described as human documents, and at this stage of the game I am wondering what Mr. Pyle does about laundry when he is hopscotching around on one-night stands, not knowing which way he will steer his high-powered barouche next day. True, they can give 24-hour service in most places, but if you don't know where you will be a week later you can't tell them where to send it, and even a blue shirt shows fatigue after four or five consecutive wearings.

I wonder, also, what he uses for time and sleep on his travels, because it takes anywhere from 1 to 4 hours a day to produce a piece for the papers, and if you reckon to cover 200 miles a day on the average and visit points of interest, such as springs, gorges, caves, battlefields and Andy Jackson's old home, there you have a 12-hour day already, with no allowance for sitting around at night with the editor or a reporter who generally knows more about the region and can express it better than anyone else.

Night Made Awful By Blasts Of Noise

SLEEP IS a serious problem, especially for a New Yorker accustomed to the peace and quiet of a well-kept metropolis, because the small-town people drive almost entirely by horn, rarely using their brakes, and the night is made awful by blasts of noise which stab like knives and produce a hurt that is really physical. They don't notice it themselves, which speaks well for the state of their nerves, and neither do they notice the radio or the restaurant music machines which maintain a hideous racket from dawn until the lights are out at night.

Even in hotels guests turn on the radio real loud and nobody seems to mind or even notice three or four of them blaring away on different stations on one floor, and the music which is discoursed by the grillroom bands in the little local hot spots patronized by the equivalent of New York's gin-mill aristocracy is the same ghastly mixture of incoherent shrieks and whinnies that is heard in New York but louder.

This Writer Waives Roaming 'Pleasure'

THERE IS NO local music. It is all package goods prepared in New York or Hollywood, and the popular taste out in the American country accepts but does not dictate what the caricaturists and plagiarists of the music factories produce. The minor league maestros even ape the mannerisms of famous cacophonists and sweetness and poetry of sound have vanished, except, perhaps, at church gatherings.

Mr. Pyle probably has a system of traffic management that I know not of and a knack for loosening up people that is special with him, in addition to an iron constitution and a high noise resistance. If he is deaf, that would explain something.

With undiminished enjoyment of his American stuff I yield the drummer circuit to him.

Newspaper Visit On Radio Tonight

The story of a tour through a newspaper office will be told in the "Wings for the Martins" broadcast over radio station WMAL at 8:30 p. m. today.

Tonight's story will end the series about the Martin family, written by Laura Vitray, former Sunday editor of The Washington Post, and produced by the Office of Education, Interior Department.

Electric Milker Kills 23 Cows

Honolulu, May 9 (AP).—A short-circuit in a milking machine electrocuted 23 cows in a Diamond Head dairy barn today. Three milkmen escaped because they wore rubber boots. Shintoku Nakata, Japanese dairyman, describing the death of the cows, said:

"One time all shake. All sit down one time. Quick, I go outside."

The World Tomorrow

THE WORLD TOMORROW will be a continuation of the world today, and in many of its aspects perfectly horrible.

But the world the day after tomorrow will have learned a great and costly lesson.

It will have learned that the first business of men on earth is not the creation of the greatest or most populous cities, or the longest bridges, or the most monumental public works, or the most powerful armies and navies, but the creation of human beings better than any previous type.

The new human beings will be systematically trained for personal courage, generosity, enthusiastic faith in life, social sensibility and co-operativeness, and the greatest possible development of their own physical, mental and spiritual resources, not, however, for the pursuit of their own interests, but as members of the community.

There will be a much more widespread realization that the possession of five senses, of a brain and of marvelously articulated limbs is the most enormous and the most sacred gift.

Education Of Soul Will Be Fostered

There will be intensified interest in personal philosophy and in religion; many dogmas will pass, but speculation on the soul will be encouraged, and belief in the soul will be general. The education of the soul will be fostered and faith will be integrated with reason and supported by the findings of pure science.

New forms of physical training will come into practice which will be exactly contrary to many now in use.

They will not concentrate on drill or sports designed to develop the muscles or any particular parts of the anatomy, but will assist the individual to be in the fullest possession of his body, breathing in all its parts and centrally poised and self-possessed.

The mind will be regarded as part of the body or being, and the body and being as part of the mind and soul, and the personality will be enabled to reach a wholeness never yet achieved except by occasional saints.

Men will encompass science instead of science encompassing them.

In the world of the day after tomorrow wealth not used to produce more wealth—and continually—will be useless. In this respect something will have been learned from Soviet Russia and from Nazi Germany. Almost everything else in Nazi Germany and in Soviet Russia will have been repudiated. Production will be through state capitalism and private enterprise, but distribution of basic necessities—food, clothes and shelter—will be largely socialized.

Naked Power Will Be Regarded As Enemy

The idea of balances and checks to power as expressed in the American Constitution will be modified into distribution of power and will have new interpretations in the economic field as well as the political. Naked power of any kind will be regarded as the worst enemy of mankind.

Citizenship will not be achieved by birth or naturalization, but will belong only to those who can qualify for it by intelligence and integrity. It will be as hard to be a voter as to get into college, but the opportunity and training for citizenship will be universal.

Men and women will care intensely to be respected and not at all to be rich.

Nationalism will be regarded as a curious mania that possessed the human race for a few hundred years and gave rise to a number of curious and fanatical secular religions resulting in anarchy and war. Patriotism, however, will flourish in a passion to preserve values of proved creative quality and cultures of esthetic and productive worth. There will be competition between cultures, not between nations.

The fear of death and anything after death will disappear. Death will be accepted as a fact of ever-continuing life. Children will come of age earlier. Youth will be briefer. So will the working years. Wise and good old men and women will be immensely respected and will have most to say about the affairs of the State.

'Natural Rights' Concept Will Change

EDUCATION will revolt from specialization and its goal will again be the classical objective of the creation of a "whole man." In this, science will be integrated with a more passionately ethical religion and with philosophy.

The concept of "natural rights" will have undergone drastic revision. All rights will be attended by reciprocal obligations.

The basis of society will be democratic, in that there will not exist for any one a priori social, legal, racial or economic disability. But the social structure will be hierarchic.

The concept of the nobleman will be revived as the embodiment of the life of effort, shorn of self-interest and dedicated to the larger interests of the community.

Government will be democratic in its base and aristocratic in its exercise, and the university will be the constant re-creator of the state.

Benefit Concert Tonight At Masonic Auditorium

Miss Janet Bracken and Herbert Donaldson, youthful Chicago artists, will be heard at 8:30 tonight at the Masonic Auditorium, Thirteenth and New York avenue northwest, in a benefit concert for the Northeast Rescue Mission at 1340 H street northeast, and the Annex at 1234 H street.

Arrangements are being made by Thawley L. Holmes, superintendent of the mission.

G. W. Orators Will Vie Tonight

The freshman oratorical contest at George Washington University, sponsored by Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity, will be at 8:15 tonight. Contestants are Frank E. Curley, John J. Philippsen, Elizabeth Johnson, Edward L. Good, Daniel Fusfeld, Natalie Goode and Jesse Pavis.

Arthur Coffman, president of the fraternity, will preside. Judges will be Profs. W. Hayes Yeager and Wood Gray, and Robert Dootson, attorney.

Visiting Nurses Make 14,387 Calls During April

The Instructive Visiting Nurse Society made 14,387 visits to 4,293 patients in April, it was reported at a board meeting yesterday.

The society added 2,143 patients to its lists during the month and dismissed 2,190. Mrs. Harlan Fiske Stone presided at the meeting, and reports were read by Mrs. Reeve Lewis, Mrs. James Lawrence Houghteling, Mrs. Charles B. Crawford, Harold N. Marsh and John L. Proctor.

Mrs. Stone announced that Mrs. G. Howland Chase would be chairman of the society's division of the Community Chest campaign this fall. Mrs. John W. Davidge reported a meeting of former board members held at her home last Friday.

Army Transfers Building Division To Fort Myer

Three hundred employes of the construction division of the Army Quartermaster Corps will move from the Munitions Building to Fort Myer within the next week, officials said yesterday.

The Army expansion program is responsible for the move, it was said, the many additional facilities overtaxing present floor space in existing War Department houldings. Draftsmen, architects, engineers and a few clerks will take over the second and third floors of a new warehouse at Fort Myer.

A Lesson In 'Logic'

By Ernest K. Lindley

Views Of The A. M. A.

THE PALM for the poorest sense of public relations exhibited thus far in 1939 has been awarded by several of my colleagues to the United States Chamber of Commerce.

From that verdict this column dissents. First, the resolutions of the C. of C. were obviously based on the high principle that honesty is the best policy. They made only the barest pretense of tolerating as desirable or necessary any of the internal reforms wrought by the Roosevelt Administration. They amounted to a demand for a repeal of the New Deal, and as such they had the blunt appeal of an untouched and undraped antique.

The second reason why the C. of C. does not deserve first prize for poor public relations is that clearly it has been outdone by the American Medical Association.

A. M. A. Gives Views On Health Measure

A FEW DAYS ago the views of the A. M. A. on Senator Wagner's national health bill were presented to the Senate committee on education and labor by Dr. A. W. Booth, chairman of the board of trustees of the A. M. A. The purpose of the Wagner bill is to put to better and wider use the knowledge and skill of the medical profession. It makes a beginning on the comprehensive program put forward last summer at the national health conference, by using Federal money to encourage the States to expand public health and child and maternal welfare services, build hospitals and health centers where they are needed, and experiment with ways of financing medical care which will make it available to people who cannot now afford it.

The Wagner bill leaves the States great leeway. Whether they co-operate is optional with them; if they do they will have to put up money of their own. If a State decides to adopt a program for financing medical care, it may limit it to people on relief, or it may include other people—or it may, if it so desires, resort to health insurance for the entire population of the State.

On behalf of the A. M. A., Dr. Booth read a 3,000-word statement and then was questioned by members of the committee. There is space here to touch only a few of the highest of a bewildering assortment of high spots.

Dr. Booth warned of the dangers of the "heavy hand of Federal guidance and control" and of "the centralizing of power . . . in a central bureau in the central government." He argued that the localities should be left with the greatest freedom to decide for themselves what is to be done.

Secretary Of Health Suggested By Group

SENATOR WAGNER replied that his bill does leave the discretion to localities—although, of course, it sets forth some standards which must be met if Federal money is to be given in aid.

Guess, if you can, Dr. Booth's response to that! It was that a secretary of health, "properly equipped with his experts," could dish out the Federal money much more efficiently. Seriously he proposed what Senator Wagner called "complete centralization" and the exercise of "almost dictatorial powers" by a single official of the Federal Government. Dr. Booth described as "technical verbiage" an effort by Congress to lay down any standards by which Federal money should be given in aid to the States.

Dr. Booth, it developed, was afraid that unless such a secretary of health had untrammeled control over the purse strings, States would "grab" for money which they couldn't put to good use.

"It takes brains to run a diagnostic clinic, and where are you going to get them out in the desert of Utah?" Dr. Booth said. "Yet Utah would be one of the places . . . to spend money to start diagnostic clinics out in the desert."

Soon afterward it developed that Dr. Booth had still another objection to leaving discretion to the States and localities. This was because some of them might install compulsory health insurance.

'People Don't Know What's Best For Them'

SENATOR WAGNER reminded Dr. Booth that last fall the people of New York overwhelmingly adopted an amendment to the State constitution authorizing compulsory health insurance.

Here is Dr. Booth's comment on that: "We believe that the people do not know what is best for them in medicine."

This closed the circle. The Federal Government must stay out because health is a State and local matter—but a single officer of the Federal Government should be given a free hand because the State and local governments can't be trusted. Leave it to them because "the people do not know what is best for them in medicine."

When you have mastered these simple examples of Dr. Booth's logic you may want to try your brain on some of his more complex mental feats.

Oh, yes—and this may explain why the A. M. A. outpoints the United States Chamber of Commerce on my score card: Although the Wagner bill was introduced February 28, and although his strong opinions were supposed to be the official views of the A. M. A., pending a meeting of its house of delegates next week, Dr. Booth testified that he hadn't read through the bill.

Russia's War Power

From The London Economist

IN APPRAISING the military strength of any country there are a number of factors, such as social morale in the armed forces and civilian population, on which nothing more than informed conjecture is possible. This especially is the case with Soviet Russia, a country of bold social change and big surprises. Purely economic matters, however, play a very large part in modern warfare, and on some aspects of these more precise information is possible. Nowadays, armies march on their fuel supplies as well as on their bellies, and their fighting power depends largely on their factories.

The Bolsheviks have never ceased to fear a complete economic boycott or even combined military attack by the rest of the world; and it is to resist such an attack, and defense of other countries that, psychologically and physically, they have made ready. To preserve the social system they had inaugurated, the alternatives were to extend the revolution to the industrial west, or to industrialize Russia at an unprecedented speed. Fortunately for world peace the second course was decided upon.

SOVIET figures of industrial production in money terms show the 1913 output to have been regained as early as 1926 (after the catastrophic economic collapse consequent on war, revolution and civil war) and a sevenfold increase by 1936. Such figures as the following, showing output of specific commodities in physical quantity, are less liable to miscalculation, though they say nothing of quality and make no allowance for wastages, which in Russia are still much above the average for all industrial countries. Nor do they take into account the very low standard of maintenance of plant which until lately, when the purely political control of industry was diminished, was chronic:

Coal (million tons)	29.1	35.5	64.7	128
Oil (million tons)	9.2	11.5	22.3	31
Electricity (milliard Kw. hours)	2	5	13.6	36.5
Steel ingots and castings (million tons).	4.2	4.2	5.9	17.6
Tractors (thousands, reduced to 15h.p. units)	None	1.3	50.6	*115
Automobiles (thousands)	None	.7	24	200
Metal-cutting machines (thousands)	1.5	1.8	18.1	36
Sulphuric acid (thousand tons)	121	211	552	*1,208

*1936.

THE PROPORTION of Soviet industrial production devoted to arms is probably at least as large as in Germany. Of the 11 commissariats concerned with industrial production, 4 are now devoted to defense. The war industries also get the best qualities of materials and tend to attract the best technicians and workmen. Soviet industry (as indeed all aspects of the highly centralized social and economic system) is kept in a permanent state of "mobilization preparedness," to use the Russian phrase.

Such factors as the twist of Soviet economy toward rapid capital development, the Russians' low consumption of manufactured goods as compared with western peoples, and the absence of a wealthy class to modify by luxury demand the austerely utilitarian shape of production should be remembered in comparing the war potential of Soviet industry with that of other countries.

For example, over 80 per cent of the motor vehicles made are lorries, and only a tenth of the total building allocation last year was for housing. On the other hand, the quality of finished goods is lower than in older industrial countries, but this may be less true of armaments and machinery than is generally imagined. Soviet aircraft and guns appear to have worked well in Spain. Wastage, on the other hand, is considerably larger than in other countries; and so much of steel and other raw and semi-finished materials is used simply to patch the holes in existing, ill-kept equipment that the volume of finished goods turned out is not commensurate with the output of materials.

RUSSIA HAS no idle productive capacity and labor on which to draw in time of war. Her output at any given time represents the maximum at the prevailing level of labor and managerial efficiency.

An important factor in Russia's war potential is the high speed of her industrial development. The third five-year plan foresees Soviet production in 1942 as approximately double that of Germany in 1938 and two-thirds of the United States' boom level. This objective, which amounts to doubling production in six years, is not altogether impossible, for labor efficiency is still improving fast, and the government is determined to maintain the present high rate of capital development until the threatening war breaks out or is averted.

Industrialization is but one aspect of the drive for self-sufficiency in peace or war, and in this the results are no less impressive. Pre-war Russia was as dependent on imports for components and machines as Great Britain is for food, and the Great War revealed very serious gaps in her production of military supplies. In 1937 imports of machinery amounted to only 3 per cent of domestic production. The unique variety of Russian mineral resources and the vigor with which they are now being exploited were made clear at the World Geological Congress recently held in Moscow. For foodstuffs, fodder and agricultural raw materials self-sufficiency is complete, at the present low standard of living, except for part of the tea and wool requirements and relatively unimportant tropical cultures. Russia no longer needs to import cotton, while labor and resources have been liberally expended to create a synthetic rubber industry, which in 1937 provided 70 per cent of the amount consumed.

The Bolsheviks have not been slow to use their geographical advantages for strategic purposes. The Ural-Kuznets Combine, a new industrial base with a metallurgical output approaching that of Japan, is situated midway between Germany and Manchukuo. The Third Five-Year Plan envisages a further shift of production east of the Urals. There are large new naval shipyards in Far East (Komsomolsk) and on the Arctic coast.

RUSSIA'S great weakness is still in her transport system. The railways are woefully inadequate in length, although their capacity has improved considerably since 1934. The trans-Siberian h . been double-tracked, and its new arm in the Far East, running for 2,000 miles from Krasnoyarsk to the Sea of Japan, in some parts 300 miles north of the present line and well away from the Manchurian border, is reported to be nearing completion.

But have the Bolsheviks' preparations for war been too thorough? Is the combined burden of huge land and air forces, the effort to become a great naval power, continued rapid capital development and costly self-sufficiency, too great to bear. The burden has been carried hitherto by a continuing rapid improvement in labor productivity.

This has even enabled the planners to permit some increase, for large sections of the urban and rural population, in the per capita consumption of manufactures and foodstuffs since the abolition of rationing in 1935. This rise is difficult to measure. It is slower than was expected, but there is a general conviction, amongst the younger people especially, in a bright future when war preparations to protect their "Socialist fatherland" are no longer necessary. The degree of confidence in the regime and its leadership is difficult to assess, save for the obvious fact that it is greater in the towns than in the countryside. But there is little evidence of active popular discontent, and there remains very little popular support of national separatist movements in the Ukraine, Caucasus and central Asia.

SOVIET RUSSIA'S most serious weakness is one common to all totalitarian states. Behind the facade of enforced unanimity may smolder differences over policy which are liable at any moment, particularly in wartime, to flare up with disastrous results. The recent Moscow trials and widespread arrests of executive personnel alleged to be wreckers and traitors may conceivably betoken a gain in strength by the removal of such a potential weakness. It is true that the conspirators do not appear to have had any substantial popular backing. But the widespread existence of treason and the consequent necessity of its physical removal are not a sign of health in the body politic. An atmosphere of servile unanimity on controversial issues remains, in intensified form. This must, in the long run, be a source of grave weakness.

If a conclusion can be hazarded on such a large and obscure subject, it is that the Russia of 1939 has several times the strength, in material terms, and especially in production, of the Russia of 1914. The difficulty of deploying that strength on a battlefront remains her chief technical weakness. And the state of morale both in the armed forces and in the nation at large remains an open question. Although it is only guesswork, it is probable that good morale, like good nutrition, is more evident in the army than among the people at large, just as the Stakhanovites are better fed and more contented than the industrial rank and file and the urban workers better fed and more contented than the peasants. And the Russian soldier has a traditional stoicism in face of short commons.

It is clear that, even with all due reservation, Soviet Russia is capable potentially of exercising a decisive influence on the side of the peace front against aggression. It is less clear how that help could in fact be quickly given in the shape of men, airplanes or war materials. Inadequate transport and the absence of a point d'appui for military adventures beyond the frontier, since the destruction of Russia's Czecho-Slovak ally and the German requisition of her flying fields, are obvious obstacles. The Russians are mightily ready to defend themselves, but rather less ready to do more. But the fact remains that, industrially, militarily and strategically, Russia holds a key to the present precarious situation in Europe with which we cannot dispense. Whether she can or will turn that key remains a matter for tomorrow's historian.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Long-Range Planning

Scene: Meeting of a board of directors.

Chairman—The question before us, gentlemen, is one of plan and scope. It is rather difficult, because of the uncertainty of things, to do any long-range planning.

First Director—Yes, but I feel we should base our plans on the long pull.

Second Director—You mean six months or so?

First Director—Oh, no; I am not that confident. When I speak of the long pull I mean about ten weeks.

Chairman—Under present conditions planning that far ahead requires great courage, gentlemen.

Third Director — Who is in charge of our long-range planning department just now?

Chairman—Higgins is. He's very brave. Within the year I've known him to undertake at least three ventures that required thinking ahead two months.

Fourth Director—Much too bold a fellow, if you ask me.

Chairman—Yes, but we can curb him.

First Director—I prefer Judson for long-range plannnig.

Second Director—Why?

First Director—He never listens to a radio talk and seldom reads the papers. This prevents his hearing the Secretary of Commerce give business the full speed ahead signal Monday and then hearing the President withdraw it on Tuesday.

Chairman—A valuable man, Judson. I remember telling him about Secretary Morgenthau's statement that the Treasury would submit a plan for changes in the tax structure to Congress very soon. Do you know what Judson did?

All—No.

Chairman—He immediately repudiated Mr. Morgenthau's statement.

Second Director—But how could he do it? He lacked any such authority.

Chairman—He knew the White House would repudiate it within a short time, and he saved himself time by doing it personally.

First Vice President—How do you feel about the business future, Mr. Whortleberry?

Chairman—I am confident we will have better business. All we need is an end to the war scare, some prospect of balancing the budget, definite changes in our tax structure, economy, some evidence that pump priming is being felt, a good summer, activity on the part of the buying public and Lou Gehrig's return to first base.

Second Director—Don't you think you are too optimistic?

Chairman—Not at all. I think there is a fair chance Gehrig will return to first base.

Third Director—What about our financial standing for the first quarter?

Chairman—We ran about a half million behind the 1937 period, went onto the three-day week and ordered a study of the Federal bankruptcy act. We are therefore declaring an extra dividend of 25 cents.

Fourth Director—Rather promising, I should say. If we all put our shoulders to the wheel we can manage to exceed this loss for the next quarter. That will mean an extra of 50 cents, will it not?

Chairman—Who?

Hearing on War Referendum Opens Today

La Follette to Be First Witness; Cash, Carry Filibuster Organized

By International News Service.

Threats of a filibuster against the Pittman "cash and carry" neutrality bill were made yesterday as a Senate judiciary subcommittee prepared for public hearings today on a proposed constitutional amendment to require a vote by the people before war can be declared by the United States, save to meet invasion or violation of the Monroe Doctrine.

Senate forces opposed to the feature of the bill by Senator Pittman (Democrat), of Nevada, to permit sale of arms, ammunition and implements of war to any belligerent on a "cash and carry" basis, were organizing for a prolonged talkfest when the neutrality issue reaches the Senate floor, perhaps within a month.

The present neutrality act, when invoked at discretion of the President, makes it mandatory to embargo shipment of munitions to any belligerent in a foreign war.

Borah Followers Threatening

While Pittman has rested his case on the argument that many raw materials are essential for war purposes and no distinction can be made in their potential war value with munitions, Senator Borah (Republican), of Idaho, and others served notice they would oppose "supplying munitions for mass murder."

"I would consider the cash and carry bill to be giving Great Britain control over our raw materials and munitions in time of great emergency," Borah told reporters.

Senators in the Borah camp passed word around they would filibuster if necessary to prevent the United States from furnishing arms for belligerents.

La Follette First Witness

First witness before the judiciary sub-committee on the war referendum resolution, jointly introduced by 12 Senators, will be Senator La Follette (Progressive), of Wisconsin, a foe of foreign alliances.

Morris Ernst, New York attorney, and Rose Wilder Lane, writer, also were scheduled to testify today. Proponents of the resolution will be heard also tomorrow and Friday and Wednesday, Thursday and Friday of next week. Later, a date will be fixed for opponents to testify. Senator Hatch (Democrat), of New Mexico, heads the judiciary sub-committee.

Section 6

Department of Commerce: Transfer of Inland Waterways Corporation.—The Inland Waterways Corporation and all of its functions and obligations are hereby transferred to the Department of Commerce and shall be administered in that department under the supervision and direction of the Secretary of Commerce. The capital stock of the corporation shall continue to be held for the United States by the Secretary of the Treasury, but all other functions, rights, privileges, and powers and all duties and liabilities of the Secretary of War relating to the Inland Waterways Corporation are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised, performed, and discharged by, the Secretary of Commerce. The Secretary of Commerce shall be substituted for the Secretary of War as, and shall be deemed to be, the incorporator of the Inland Waterways Corporation.

PART 2.—INDEPENDENT AGENCIES

Section 201. Federal Security Agency.—Transfers and consolidations relating to the Federal Security Agency are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Radio Service and United States Film Service transferred.—The functions of the Radio Division and the United States Film Service of the National Emergency Council are hereby transferred to the Federal Security Agency and shall be administered in the Office of Education under the direction and supervision of the Federal Security administrator.

(b) American Printing House for the Blind.—The functions of the Secretary of the Treasury with respect to the Administration of the appropriations for the American Printing House for the Blind (except the function relating to the perpetual trust fund) are hereby transferred to the Federal Security Agency and shall be administered under the direction and supervision of the Federal Security Administrator. The annual report and vouchers required to be furnished to the Secretary of the Treasury by the trustees of the American Printing House for the Blind shall be furnished to the Federal Security Administrator.

Sec. 202. National Archives.—Transfers, consolidations, and abolitions relating to the National Archives are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Functions of Codification Board Transferred.—The functions of the Codification Board, established by the act of June 19, 1937 (50 Stat. 304), are hereby transferred to the National Archives and shall be consolidated in that agency with the functions of the Division of the Federal Register and shall be administered by such division under the direction and supervision of the Archivist.

(b) Codification Board Abolished.—The Codification Board is hereby abolished and its outstanding affairs shall be wound up by the Archivist through the Division of the Federal Register in the National Archives.

Part 3.—Executive Office of the President.

Section 301. Transfers and abolitions relating to the Executive Office of the President are hereby effected as follows:

(a) Functions of National Emergency Council Transferred.—All functions of the National Emergency Council other than those relating to Radio Service and Film Service [transferred by Section 201 (a) of this plan to the Federal Security Agency] are hereby transferred to the Executive Office of the President and shall be administered under the direciton and supervision of the President.

(b) National Emergency Council Abolished.—The National Emergency Council is hereby abolished and its outstanding affairs shall be wound up under the direction and supervision of the President.

PART 4—GENERAL PROVISIONS

Section 401. Transfer of functions of heads of departments.—Except as otherwise provided in this plan, the functions of the head of any department relating to the administration of any agency or function transferred from his department by this plan, are hereby transferred to, and shall be exercised by, the head of the department or agency to which such transferred agency or function is transferred by his plan.

Sec. 402. Transfer of records, property and personnel.—All records and property (including office equipment) of the several agencies, and all records and property used primarily in the admnition of any functions, transferred by this plan and, except as otherwise provided, all the personnel used in the administration of such agencies and functions (including officers whose chief duties relate to such administration) are hereby transferred to the respective departments or agencies concerned, for use in the administration of the agencies and functions transferred by this plan: Provided, that any personnel transferred to any department or agency by this section found by the head of such department or agency to be in excess of the personnel necessary for the administration of the functions transferred to his department or agency shall be retransferred under existing law to other positions in the Government service, or separated from the service subject to the provisions of section 10(a) of the reorganization act of 1939.

Sec. 403. Transfer of funds.—So much of the unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations, or other funds available for the use of any agency in the exercise of any function transferred by this plan, or for the use of the head of any department or agency in the exercise of any function so transferred, as the director of the Bureau of the Budget with the approval of the President shall determine, shall be transferred to the department or agency concerned for use in connection with the exercise of the function so transferred. In determining the amount to be transferred the director of the Bureau of the Budget may include an amount to protions incurred against such appropriations, allocations, or other funds prior to the transfer: Provided, That the use of the unexpended balances of appropriations, allocations, or other funds transferred by this section shall be subject to the provisions of section 4 (d) (3) and section 9 of the reorganizations act of 1939.

Sec. 404. Transfer of functions relating to personnel.—Except as prohibited by section 3 (b) of the reorganization act of 1939, all functions relating to the appointment, fixing of compensation, transfer, promotion, demotion, suspension, or dismissal of persons to or from offices and positions in any department vested by law in any officer of such department other than the head thereof are hereby transferred to the head of such department and shall be administered under his direction and supervision by such division, bureau, office, or persons as he shall determine.

Jury to Select Design for New Smithsonian Art Gallery

There Are Two Ways to Get at Constipation

Yes, and only two ways—before and after it happens! Instead of enduring those dull, tired, headachy days and then having to take an emergency medicine—why not KEEP regular with Kellogg's All-Bran? You can, if your constipation is the kind millions have—due to the lack of "bulk" in modern diets. For All-Bran goes right to the cause of this trouble by supplying the "bulk" you need.

Eat this toasted nutritious cereal every day—with milk or cream, or baked into muffins—drink plenty of water, and see if your life isn't a whole lot brighter! Made by Kellogg's in Battle Creek. Sold by every grocer.

Three Famous Hosiery Gifts for . . .

Mothers

Mother's Day—May 14th

That phrase, "a woman never has too many stockings" is hackneyed but so true that we use it again to remind you that mothers will adore a gift of lovely hose on their day . . . especially these well-known brands famous far and wide for their beauty and wearing qualities!

"HUMMING BIRD"
Silk Stockings . . . . $1.00 pr.

3 for $2.90

—Whether mother's modern or conservative, goes to business or is a homebody . . . you're sure to find a "Humming Bird" to meet her most exacting requirements! There are very sheer two-threads, good-looking three-threads and serviceable six-thread weights . . . all made of a special-twist thread that withstands hard wear . . . all silk from top to toe . . . absolutely free of rings and double-checked by trained inspectors to prevent imperfections. These fashion-important colors . . . Apricot, Sunni, Blush, Rosemist, Radiance, Royal Beige and Biltmore.

"KAYSER" Fitall Top

3 for $3.35

—For the mother that's "on the go" . . striding around the golf links, driving her car, never staying still a minute at the office or home . . . the perfect stocking for all her activities, "Kayser" Fitall Top! Comfortable and long-wearing because its stretchy top "gives" every time she bends or stoops, absorbs garter strain and so lessens chances of popping or running! Flattering chiffons and lisle-reinforced service weights in such smart shades as Vision, Lovelee, Talent, Tempera, Artistic and Inspire. Sizes 9 to 11.

"PHOENIX" Vita Bloom
Silk Stockings . . . . 79c pr.

—Not all women are average height! Legs are different after all! So . . . whether mother is of petite stature, average height or the tall and queenly type . . . "Phoenix" is right there with a stocking for her! Lovely three and four thread chiffons in these lengths: Short, 28 to 29 inches; average, 30 to 31 inches; long, 33 to 34 inches. Also an average length, lisle-reinforced service weight if she prefers a more practical hose. Stunning new colors . . . Fascinate, Intrigue, Fetching, Witty and Radiant.

South Sea Styles for Summer

Truman Bailey Artist-Photographer Introduces New Native Designs

By Marshall Adams,
The Post Fashion Editor.

HAVE trade winds and tropical escapades captured your fancy these days? Has the urge to explore the lush mysteries of the South Seas beckoned until you can no longer sit chained to your desk? Of course, if you've got lunch to prepare or dictation to finish, you just can't scramble out of it all. But you can go native by rushing out on your lunch hour and trying on one of the many exciting new Polynesian fashions, wafted straight from those enchanted isles.

MARSHALL ADAMS

These sun-drenched fashions called "Hei Tiki" (but pronounced Hay Tee Kee) traveled thousands of miles to arrive in Washington last week in time for the heat wave. They came to town by benefit of Truman Bailey, artist-author-photographer, whose fondness for the South Seas leads him back year after year. After months of play with Polynesian natives, he returned to New York and "sold" one large store in each of several key cities on his venture of converting symbols of the Lotus Land into America's play clothes. He then returned to Pago Pago to co-ordinate this summer's hit styles.

Amulet Motif

First port of call was Manu, a group of tiny islands almost unknown to the white man. Mr. Bailey's initial move was to select the emblem for Polynesian fashions. He chose a small amulet which South Sea chieftains wear on a cord about their necks exhibiting a grotesque figure called a Hei Tiki. He then tracked down tapa clothes, hand-crafted art objects such as carved tortoise shell, whalebone, jade, wooden bowls and clubs, and scented coconut oil shells. He even filched from the tattooer's symbols. He found the native arts so thrilling that his trained eye mentally revised them into civilized jewelry, fabrics and accessories. His trained camera and paint brush then picked up the true colors of coral reefs and lush tropical flowers. His test tubes he bottled with actual specimens of coral, luma reef and, believe it or not, Polynesian dust.

Your own venture into tropical lure this summer goes into these Polynesian garments. They are simply and effectively designed and every bit as functional as your jumper was during high school days. Aside from bra-top play clothes with matching hats and dress-up prints and formals, there is a whole cargo locally of scarves of American silk mottled with exotic hibiscus plants.

You'll Dance in This South Sea Frock

The moon-struck girl sketched might easily be a star-gazer under a Pago Pago moon as she's dressed in an I'a Upenga printed gown stolen right off the South Sea Islands. The dress, which doubles for an evening or beach gown, is of gayly colored spun rayon. Yes, that's the girl's midriff showing between that full skirt and her bra bodice. The Polynesion belles dance that way—so fashion's latest whim is that we emulate their charms this summer. The jacket aids virtue's cause in a pinch

The Gentler Sex

'Back Home'

"Did you ever see such a long-drawn-out program?"

"No, but it's just the way they do everything here. Now look at the way this bus is moseying along!"

"I know. Why back home the buses and street cars just go like lightning."

"Well, I thought I would never live through that program. Now at our club luncheons in Marsh City we used to make everything snappy. And another thing—we never had any amateur singing."

"Neither did we. I never heard of such a thing as having guest programs and calling in amateur performers."

"Yes, and another thing, we never introduced our honor guests during the luncheon."

"Neither did we. I've been awfully surprised at the way they do lots of things here. Take that tea we went to—you know at Mrs. Bingo's—It seemed to me that things were served—well sort of country style."

"I know. They don't seem to do things here with any artistic finish. What I mean is, they don't have those nice little touches. If I do say it myself we always did things awfully nice in Centerburg."

"In Marsh City we used to always call in caterers."

"So did we. But they're so conservative here. Another thing, I've been disappointed in a lot of the homes here. Now you take Mrs. Bingo's."

"I know. Those old cheap floral rugs . . . and that upright piano just covered with photographs . . . why it even had one of those old-fashioned velvet drapes! Now you wouldn't see anything like that back home."

"So many of the houses here are filled with so much old junk. They seem to have hardly any homes that are done by real interior decorators—now what on earth is holding up this bus?"

"It's just this traffic situation. I will say this for Marsh City—they really handle traffic there."

"We never had any traffic trouble in Centerbury. Of course, it's not quite as big a town—though in the downtown district it looks just as big. And you take the stores—why they're really nicer than the ones here."

"Oh, I can't shop here at all! I used to get lots cuter clothes in Marsh City—and lots cheaper.

"Well, I just don't much care what I wear here, the weather's so uncertain. I don't dare step out of the house without my raincoat in my bag. And HOT—Oh—"

"Well, I admit that it gets rather hot in Marsh City but it's a different kind of heat."

"I know. That was the way it was in Centerburg. I remember when I was a girl there I never used to mind the heat. But here it just makes me sick—say, that's a cute little print on that woman getting off!"

"Ye-es. Of course though you don't see many stunningly dressed women here."

"I've noticed that. That's one thing I will say about Centerburg. The women certainly were well dressed there."

"So were the women in Marsh City. I've heard several traveling salesmen—men who had just been everywhere—say the women in Marsh City were the best dressed in the United States."

"Maybe I oughtn't to say this because lots of people have been perfectly lovely to me here, but it just seems to me that the women I've met have all been a little—well slow. They don't seem to be up and coming the way they are back home."

"Say do you plan to go home this summer."

"Oh, no! We're going to the World's Fair. Are you going back to Marsh City on vacation?"

"Oh, no! You see there's really nobody there I know any more."

"That's the way with Centerburg. I wouldn't mind going there for a day or two but I wouldn't want to stay any time. After you've been away . . . well you know how it is . . ."

"I know."

Mary Haworth's Mail

Girl of Average Social Experience Wonders Why She Is So Often Tongue-Tied in Company

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am a girl in my senior year at high school—much in need of advice. I am considered good looking, belong to quite a few organization, including a sorority, and have many interests. But here is my problem: with some people conversation is as natural as breathing for me, but with others (no particular age or sex) it just seems impossible. We can generally keep a very stiff conversation going for about one minute, and then silence reigns.

I am not outwardly embarrased, for I have become used to it, but inside I am horrified. It is not the fault of the other people, I know; because I see them talking and laughing with others. I love people and can't stand not being able to talk with them. I was once popular, but now people who were formerly very friendly politely say, "Hello," and go on to someone else. I am not bashful, am accustomed to being with others, have three sisters near my own age, and have gone out since I was 14. I am really worried now, although I tried not to mind at first. Something seems definitely wrong with me. Can you say what it is, and how to correct it? N. C. S.

DEAR N. C. S.: Maybe you need to cultivate what is known as "the art of small talk," an exercise in tongue-wagging universally employed by persons of gregarious temperament who live, both mentally and socially, largely on the surface of things. By "small talk" is meant approximately what the phrase conveys in its most literal sense—a pointless flow of inconsequential (seemingly) effortless comment touching on any subject which happens to occur to the speaker's mind.

Often such talk is largely concerned with "personalities (quality of referring directly to an individual)"—his (or her) appearance at the moment, activities, interests, plans, achievements, etc. Or it may have to do with current events in the social circle to which the conversationalists belong, or in the lives of persons known to them. It may touch on parties, travels, arrivals, departures, plays and sports; on engagements, weddings, births, deaths, illnesses, good or ill fortune, and so on, ad infinitum.

I sometimes think the first requisite for being an able, or, at least, an imperturbably adequate "small talker" is a bland disregard of the other fellow's reaction; that is to say, a cheerful indifference to whether or not he is interested in, or closely following up, what one has to say. Thus insulated, if the speaker has a gift for witty, felicitous or incisive comment and a willingness to let his vis-a-vis swap him phrase for phrase, he may win the rating of "pleasant company." He (or she) may be called "good fun" or "very amusing" and have no difficulty in attracting and holding an audience.

However, the inexhaustible, nonstop "small talker" who fancies that others are as much in love with the sound of his voice as he is himself, and who doesn't give them a chance to get a word in edgewise, can be—and usually is—even more of a bore than the person who never knows what to say. So if you take up "small talking," do it in moderation. It is a social technique that can be acquired, in case of necessity. And that necessity does definitely exist when most of the persons with whom one is thrown are given to a random and frothy interchange.

It is probable that the persons with whom you get on well, conversationally, are fluent conversationalists themselves, thus removing the burden of initiative and maintenance from your shoulders. And that those who strike you speechless are essentially as mentally lethargic as yourself. They (like you) must look to others to supply the spark as well as the fuel oil, and when they don't find these conversational commodities in one individual, they pass on to another.

If, as most writers have learned, "sloppy writing is the result of sloppy thinking," then it would seem to follow that the person who "never can think of anything to say," is a person who just "never thinks," in an imaginative way, either when he is alone or in company. So, if "something seems definitely wrong with you," I imagine that "something" is rooted in failure to use your mental abilities in a productive, constructive way. The way to correct the condition, of course, is to summon those latent abilities into action.

Put your mind to work, first, in taking note of the subject matter employed by easy conversationalists; second, in thinking through what you might have to say on the same subjects, of an affirmative, differing or amplifying kind; and, third, in discovering and classifying what other material exists in your imagination or environment or repertory of interests that would provide "something to talk about."

Conversation, in the final analysis, is merely the vocalized expression of what one has seen, heard, thought, sensed, learned, experienced and hoped. And facility in utterance, like any other facility, is developed through consistent exercise—laborious at first, prehaps, but bound to get easier as time goes on, until finally it achieves an effortless level. I am sure you must admit that you do see, hear, think, feel, learn, experience and hope, which means that, deep within yourself, you have the makings of social chit-chat as well as of serious, contributive conversation. The burden is on you to mine that ore and put it into circulation. M. H.

Katharine Cornell Wears Orchids At Restaurant

GIRL ABOUT TOWN—Katharine Cornell, being safely settled in a harmless bit of stage comedy while she thinks up her next tragedy, turned up at the Queen Mary restaurant the other night, to the joy of a posse of her adorers. Kate looked splendorgeous in a basque gown of muave tulle with a few well-chosen orchids at the waist. La Cornell doesn't pop about in public eating dens much and we appreciated the look no end.

Another great lady is scrabbling around to make an honest dollar where she can. I mean the former Grand Duchess Marie of imperial Russia, the authentic leader of our small but very noticeable Czarist colony. She's snapping photographs of parties and things, professionally, and doing such press work as offers. Tried a lot of things in the past decade, has Marie, and I tip the toque to her as a game old girl who keeps punching.

Our merchants have leaped like tigers to tie in with and cash in on the current World's Fair—which is as it should be. One big Fifth avenue store paraded its prettiest help before keen-eyed judges of beauty. They picked Olga Corey, 19, to be queen of the May and to act as the store's official hostess to Fair visitors. Nice going, Olga.

ANOTHER HUGE store flung open a new Fair service and information bureau, staffed by six smart and attractive girls. The sextet was trained by Eugenie Paterson, of Boston, a Smith College girl . . . Gee, I wish I could think up a way to coax a few pewter dimes out of this big racket of ours. Not poor old Miss Hughes. She just goes along batting out pieces for the paper. But she's trying to spot her aged spouse, Hall, in the Congress of Freaks as a "horrible example." He'd wow 'em.

New Make-Up Cape Protects Clothing

Now that your wardrobe boasts of new spring clothes, you'll want to keep them fresh and clean, naturally. So get the make-up cape habit! Slip a cape over your shoulders before you do your primping to avoid powder smears and stray hairs on your frocks. Your smart new clothes will last longer because they'll stay clean longer, and you'll save cleaning bills at the same time!

Women are enthusiastic over the new rubberized make-up cape, made of smooth liquid latex, because it is soft and feminine, as dainty as their lingerie.

Exercise Needed For Build-up or Streamlining

ONCE UPON a time there were twins who looked so much alike you couldn't tell one from the other. Just like the heroines in a storybook, both were slim, pretty and popular, and their romances had a happy ending—in a double wedding!

And then what happened? One of them went away to live in another part of the country and for several years they have not seen each other, but they are going to have a reunion this summer. And before she meets her twin the girl who stayed at home is determined to get her figure back!

It is possible that, from here on, her story will take on a personal interest for you. Your figure may be in the same fix! Since our twin weighs only 120 pounds and is 5 feet 2½ inches tall, she would only need to lose four pounds at the most. But all too many pounds have settled below the waistline and her weight must be shifted around.

HER PRESENT MEASUREMENTS Inches		AS THEY SHOULD BE Inches
32	Bust	33
28½	Waist	26
38	Hips	35
23½	Thigh	21½
13½	Calf	13

Exercise Needed

Streamlining this figure means that one portion must be built up while the other is reduced. Our heroine, therefore, needs exercises which will raise and firm the bust contour and add an inch to that measurement. At the same time, she will want to slim 2½ inches off the waist and tone the abdominal muscles, and slim 2 inches off the hipline, 2 off the thigh, and half an inch off the calf measurement.

All that is much less complicated than it sounds, for strengthening the musculature of the entire body will tend to normalize each of the measurements. Moreover, if chosen carefully, the specific exercises can do a great deal for several measurements. Here is one exercise that is almost a complete figure program in itself.

Stand on the floor on the knees, arms stretched high overhead. Throughout the exercise it is extremely important that you hold the hips under, the abdominal wall up. Stretch the left leg straight out at the side, then bend acutely to the right, continuing to stretch up and back with the left arm, but placing the right hand on the floor, arms straight, to partially support the weight. Give yourself a good, thorough stretch while in this position, then bring the trunk upright, arms high overhead.

Slimming Menu

Dinners Enliven Social Calendar As Noted Visitors Are Honored

Rumanian Legation Scene Of Gala Event; Somozas Feted; Byrons Also Are Hosts

By Hope Ridings Miller,
The Post Society Editor

A NUMBER OF IMPORTANT dinners enlivened last night's calendar as local notables and those from out of town were feted at topflight parties. The Minister of Rumania and Mme. Irimescu, Secretary of the Treasury and Mrs. Henry Morgenthau, jr., Representative and Mrs. William D. Byron, and Col. and Mrs. Calvin B. Matthews were among those giving large parties.

I can't give a first-hand report on any except the one given at the Rumanian Legation; but that was a party to remember on many accounts. Arranged in honor of the Rumanian delegates to the tenth internationa congress of the Military Medical Association, it also included a number of Washingtonians.

Glittering braid and decorations added a special note of glamour to the event as the distinguished visitors arrived in full uniform, featuring blue tunics and scarlet trousers. Gen. Iliescu, head of the delegation, was an unusually impressive figure in his colorful uniform, set off with a gold-braided coat almost covered with medals. Mme. Iliescu, who was trimly turned out in a frock of navy and silver brocade, was also a center of much favorable attention.

Other Rumanian delegates dining at the legation included Col. Michael Capitanovici, Lieut. Col. and Mme. Romulus Marinescu, Maj. Manu and Capt. and Mme. Munteanu. Later, some of the French and Swiss delegates same in, as well as a number of Washington's local lights, who are prominent members of the international congress.

Gathering in the spacious drawing room, members of the company met, mingled and chatted over cocktails for a few minutes before going down the red-carpeted stairway to the dining room. There guests were seated at two long tables, each decked with bouquets of spring flowers and lighted with tall cream tapers in silver candelabra. From soup to champagne, and on until guests once more return to the second floor, the party went merrily along, giving all of us a chance to ge tacquainted with the Rumanian delegation.. Incidentally, each member had much to contribute to the round of talk that touched on everything from Washington scenery to whether there will soo nbe war in Europe. The general opinion, and hope, was that there would not be—soon.

Secretary Woodring Proposes Toast

A toast "To King Carol," proposed by Secretary Woodring, followed by a toast "To The President of the United States," proposed by the Rumanian Minister were highlights at the dinner that moved smoothly and merrily along from the first course through the last.

Mme. Irimescu looked epsecially lovely in her shell pink chiffon frock, made with a shirred bodice and a full skirt. So far as fashion new goes, feminine attire there was full of it. Miss Mabel Boardman, for example, is always a regal figure, but I have never seen her looking more handsome than last evening when she wore a cream brocaded satin gown, set off with a slight train.

Mrs. Harry H. Woodring, who arrived with the Secretary of War, wore a woods' green frilled taffeta frock with a full skirt and a bow of dark red velvet ribbon in her blonde hair. Senora de Boyd, wife of the Panamanian Envoy, was in oyster satin, cut on simple lines, and Mrs. Laurence V. Benet wore American beauty taffeta, trimmed with matching velvet. She and Mr. Benet have known Minister Irimescu for several years, having met him in Bucharest when he was serving as Minister of Aair and Navy, (Mr. Benet, you know, is the inventor of the Hotchkiss machine gun.)

Others there included Brig. Gen. and Mrs. Wallace de Witt, Admiral and Mrs. Atanford Hooper, Lieut. Col. James Ash, Col. and Mrs. John Alden Crane, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Edgar Erskine Hume, Dr. and Mrs. Robert Olesen, Dr. and Mrs. Martin Cooley, Dr. Warren H. Kelchener, and the Milit ary Attache of the Rumanian Legation and Mme. Petrescu.

Justice, Mrs. Reed Are Feted at Party

More wining and dining included the party given for Justice and Mrs. Stanley Reed by Representative and Mrs. William D. Byron, of Maryland.

All the way from the Byrons' place in Maryland came the yellow and orchid tulips which, with other spring flowers, formed the decorations.

Others at the dinner included Senator and Mrs. Morris Sheppard, Representative and Mrs. Richard M. Kleberg, William Preston Lane, jr., former attorney general of Maryland, and Mrs. Lane; Mr. and Mrs. Paul Porter and Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Clapper.

This evening the Minister of South Africa and Mrs. Ralph William Close will be honored at another dinner which Representative and Mrs. Byron will give.

Other guests in the company are to include Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Dempsey, Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Walker, Mr. and Mrs. John Oliver LaGorce, Mr. and Mrs. Franklyn Waltman, Clarence Hewes and Mrs. Emerson Howe.

The Somozas Ahe Honored

Constantly on the go since their arrival in Washington the President of Nicaragua, Anastasio Somoza, put on his white tie and tails, and Senora de Somoza, an evening dress, to be honored at still another function on the dinner list last night. Their hosts were Col. and Mrs. Calvin B. Matthews who entertained at the Chevy Chase Club.

The Matthews' resided for several years in Nicaragua, where Col. Matthews was chief of the Guardia Uacional of that country.

Also at the dinner were Dr. Manuel Cordero Reyes, Nicaraguan Minister of Foreign Affairs; the Minister of Nicaragua and Senora de De Bayle; Maj. Gen and Mrs. James C. Breckinridge, and George T. Cummerlin, of the State Department.

Others were Col. Charles B. Elliott and Capt. Ernest L. Gunther, military and naval aides to the President; Col. and Mrs. Joseph S. Cecil, Dr. and Mrs. William Beverley Mason, Miss Mary L. Gildersleeve, Mrs. Ira H. Patchin, Mrs. James D. Gilliam, Miss Lillian Somoza, Miss Beverley Mason Easley, Miss Lola Boyd, Jose Benito Ramirez, Lieut. Pedro Romero and Lieut. Octavio Sacasa.

Discuss Latest Plans For Annual Spring Fete

Harris & Ewing.

Two Cabinet hostesses and a director general talk over arrangements for one of the biggest frolics on the spring calendar—the annual May fete of the Woman's National Democratic Club. The trio above includes Mrs. Curtis Shears, who is in charge of plans for the event; Mrs. Henry A. Wallace and Mrs. Cordell Hull, who are taking an active interest in it. Monday, May 22, is the date. The place is the Carlton Hotel

Polish Visitors Entertained

When Mme. Wankowicz, wife of the Counselor of the Polish Embassy, entertained yesterday afternoon in honor of the distinguished Polish visitors who are in Washington this week, it was in the nature of a double celebration. Just that morning she had received word that her husband, who underwent an operation in Poland, is convalescing and will arrive in this country about June 16.

Guests of honor at the event were Mme. Roman, wife of the Polish Minister of Industry and Commerce; Mme. Bobokowska, daughter of the President of Poland and her husband, Alexander Bobokowski; August Zaleski, former Foreign Minister of Poland and Mme. Zaleska.

Mme. Wankowicz, who received her guests in the drawing room of their home on Buchanan street, wore a street length frock of black and white print, with a wide belt of pastel jade green, and jade earrings to match. She was assisted by her two daughters, Mlle. Mary and Mlle. Yola Wankowicz, both of whom were gowned in white with green Tyrolean belts.

Noted among the guests were the Secretary of War and Mrs. Harry W. Woodring, Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, Miss Boyle; Count Jerzy Potocki, the Polish Ambassador, and his brother, Count Alfred Potocki; Count and Countess Van Rechteren Limpurg; Mme. Cosmelli, Mrs. James Helm, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carroll Glover, Mrs. Edwin Watson, Mrs. Pierrepont Moffat, W. F. Starczewski, Mme. Ciechanowiecka, Jan de Rosen, Col. and Mme. Chramiec; Counselor of the Swedish legation and Mme. Wennerberg.

Also Mrs. George S. Messersmith, Baron and Baroness de Gruben, Mrs. Hennen Jennings, Counselor of the British Embassy and Mrs. V. A. L. Mallet, the Third Secretary of the British Embassy and Mrs. H. A. C. Rumbold, the Peruvian Ambassador, Manuel de Freyre y Santander, Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg, Mme. Stefan Poradzewski, Mme. Lucet, Mrs. Charles Brooks, and Countess de Saint-Quentin, mother of the French Ambassador.

Mrs. Harrison And Daughter Visit Capital

Mrs. Benjamin Harrison, widow of the former President of the United States, and her daughter, Mrs. James Blaine Walker, jr., are at the Shoreham for a few days, having come from their homes in New York.

Their mission in the Capital is partially sightseeing. There are many new Government buildings in Washington which they wish to see. Their chief purpose in comming at this time, however, is to look over the collection of President Harrison's papers which Mrs. Harrison presented to the Library of Congress and which have been bound by the library into handsome volumes.

Janet Johnson To Be Bride

JANET JOHNSON

Senator and Mrs. Edwin C. Johnson, of Colorado, have made formal announcement to their friends in Denver, Colo., of the engagement of their daughter, Miss Janet Grace Johnson, to Robert Lee Howsam, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lee Howsam, of La Jara, Colo.

The wedding will take place in the autumn in Colorado, according to present plans.

The bride-elect, who is a sophomore at the University of Colorado, is now in Washington recuperating from an illness. She is with her parents at the Carroll Arms Hotel.

Mrs. Strauss Back in Newport

Mrs. Archbold Strauss, who recently obtained a divorce in Reno from Lieut. Comdr. Elliott B. Strauss, has returned to Newport, and with her three children is occupying Bridge House for the summer.

Mrs. Strauss is the former Miss Lydia Archbold, daughter of Mrs. Anne Archbold, of Washington. She is a sister of Mrs. Nicoll Smith, of Burlingame, Calif., and of John D. and Armar Archbold.

The Carl A. Droops Voyaging to California

Mr. and Mrs. Carl A. Droop, who are on their way to California, left town on Monday evening. They are traveling via the Panama Canal and will be gone until the last of June.

On their return, they will open their house in Virginia, where they will remain until the autumn.

Gives Luncheon

Mrs. John W. Swartzell gave a luncheon in the Louis Seize room of the Shoreham yesterday in honor of Miss Janet Adams, of Attica, N. Y., who is visiting in Washington. The luncheon was followed by bridge.

Cuban Envoy Going to Fair

The Cuban Embassy, breaking a precedent of many years' standing, will not celebrate the anniversary of Cuban independence on May 20 in Washington.

However, the Cuban Ambassador, Dr. Pedro Martinez Fraga, will go to New York on that day with his entire staff to assist in the official opening of the Cuban Pavilion at the World's Fair. Jose G. Montes, Secretary of Agriculture of Cuba, will arrive soon in New York with several high officials of the Cuban government, to take part.

The Cuban Ambassador will entertain friends at the recital to be given next Tuesday night by Marta De La Torre, distinguished Cuban violinist, at Pierce Hall. Dr. Martines Fraga is a patron for this event.

John W. Hansen Returns After Lecture Tour

John V. Hansen, lecturer and color cinematographer, has returned to his apartment at the Shoreham Hotel after an extensive speaking tour of New England.

In Philadelphia, where he joined his fiancee, Miss Anne Bach, of Washington, he attended the dinner, on May 5, given by Danish-Americans in honor of the Crown Prince Frederik and Crown Princess Ingrid, of Denmark and Iceland. At the dinner Mr. Hansen gave a special presentation of his film, "Denmark in Color."

John A. Bach, brother of Miss Bach, was chairman of the reception committee for the affair.

Mrs. R. W. Imbrie Hostess at Party

The younger set by the score took over the East Room at the Mayflower Hotel yesterday when Mrs. Robert Whitney Imbrie entertained for them and for those who are aiding her in plans for the fair which the Guild of St. Gertrude's School will give on May 27.

Mrs. Whitney, wearing a brown print dress with accents of white, was assisted by Mrs. P. Lee Phillips, in black; Mrs. Robert Cummin; Mrs. Frank Slingluff, who wore a white hat and print dress of mingled green tones, and Mrs. Robert Cahill.

Glimpsed here and there were Senora de Baron, in dark blue with lighter blue on her hat; Miss Sibilla Skidelsky, in black, and Mme. L. A. H. Peters, of the Netherlands Legation, who wore a light tan frock, and had with her Mr. Peters' parents, Gerald J. H. Peters and Mme. Peters, who have just arrived from the Netherlands for a visit.

Also present were Senora de Recinos, of Guatemala and her daughter, Senorita Laura Recinos, who wore a print frock; Mrs. Royal McKenna, in black and gray; Joe Tumulty, jr., and his sister, Misss "Billie" Tumulty, who wore a hat of violet colored flowers; Miss Mary Catherine Mundell, in a wide brimmed lavendar hat and a dress of pale chartreuse and gray; Mrs. Richard B. Buchanan, in a polka dot dess, and many, many others, including groups of students from the Convent of the Sacred Heart and Visitation Convent.

Mrs. Meredith Returns

Mrs. Edwin T. Meredith has returned from New York City, where she spent ten days as the guest of her son and daughter, E. T. Meredith, jr., and Mrs. Fred O. Bohen.

Lady Lindsay Invites 1,300 To Garden Fete

Their Majesties Will Walk Through Lanes Of Guests Twice

Nine Hundred Washingtonians will have an opportunity to see Their Britannic Majesties at the garden party at the British Embassy June 8. Invitations have been mailed to that many Capital residents and 400 out-of-towners, Lady Lindsay, wife of the British Ambassador, announced yesterday while discussing plans for the fete.

Procedure in keeping with garden parties at Buckingham Palace will be observed, she said. The gardens will open at 4 p. m., and 45 minutes later the guests will assemble for arrival of the visiting Monarchs. Once, or perhaps twice, in the afternoon Their Majesties will walk through the garden—the King accompanied by the British Ambassador; the Queen with Lady Lindsay. At that time, guests will form a wide lane through which they can pass. Later, the King and Queen will receieve a few distinguished guests on the portico of the embassy.

Leaders of Capital officialdom, chiefs of foreign missions and a number of personal friends of the British Ambassador and Lady Lindsay are on the invitation list.

Cards received by a number of persons here yesterday bore the personal cipher of King George and Queen Elizabeth and read as follows: "The British Ambassador has received their Britannic majesties' commands to invite . . . to a garden party at the embassy on Thursday, the 8th of June, 1039." Inclosed was another card stipulating that upon receipt of an answer cards of admission would be sent.

The State Department announced yesterday that aides to the King for his visit would be Maj. Gen. H. A. Drum, representing the Army, and Rear Admiral James O. Richardson, representing the Navy.

Lind-Roth Wedding Held

A wedding of interest to Washington took place yesterday at Cranjestadt, Aruba, The Netherlands West Indies, where Miss Katharine Brigham Roth became the bride of Wallace Ludwig Lind, jr., son of Capt. Wallace L. Lind, U. S. N., and Mrs. Lind, of Washington. The Governor of the island performed the civil ceremony, which was followed by a double ring service conducted by the Episcopal rectro of Aruba.

At about the time that the wedding took place in Aruba, the marriage service was also read at St. Thomas' Episcopal Church, Hamilton, N. Y. Those who heard this duplicate of the wedding actually being performed many miles away, were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Valentine Roth, of Hamilton, parents of the bride, and her grandmother, Mrs. Albert Perry Bingham. The bridegroom's parents are in Europe where Capt. Lind is in command of the S. S. Omaha, stationed in the Mediterranean.

Mrs. MacGregor Brown, whose home in Aruba was the scene of the wedding, attended the bride, while the bride's brother, Morison Brigham Roth, a junior at Yale University, acted in absentia as the best man for the bridegroom.

The couple will make their home in Aruba, but the bride will return to her home in Hamilton for a short visit in the near future.

Mrs. G. M. Myers Has Great-Grandson

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Godfrey Corbus, jr., of Philadelphia and Reading, Pa., are receiving congratulations on birth of a son, Frederick Godfrey Corbus 3d, May 2.

Mrs. Corbus is the former Miss Elizabeth Dashiell Myers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Dashiell Myers, of Merion, Pa. The child is a great-grandson of Mrs. George M. Myers, of this city.

Rumor Has It Martha Blair And Arthur Krock Will Be Married

THREE MINUTES before going to press, we hear a well-founded rumor that two members of journalistic and social circles here, will shortly announce their engagement with a wedding to follow in June. The allegen bride-to-be, one of the outstanding personalities ever to come to Washington, is from a big Midwestern city. The man in question is internationally known as a political columnist. Their many friends have no doubt already guessed their names as Martha Blair and Arthur Krock.

THE PLANS of hostesses gang practically always agley when they plan garden parties, at least in Washington. Guests at Mr. and Mrs. William MacCracken's reception yesterday afternoon had no sooner comfortably ranged themselves under the trees and umbrellas in the hosts' large and handsome garden, when a thundershower sent them scuttling into the house.

The annual party which Mr. and Mrs. MacCracken give for the President of the American Bar Association (this year Frank Hogan, of Washington, and Mrs. Hogan) is always planned as a garden affair. Yesterday Arthur Vandenberg, jr., spent the afternoon calling the Weather Bureau, if he heard good news, to transmit it to lively, but worried "Chick" MacCracken. The report was always unfavorable, but at least Mr. Vandenberg was one of the few who was prepared and arrived with an umbrella.

NEVERTHELESS, the party was a great success and everybody admired the garden from a covered porch. Mrs. MacCracken looked cool and composed in a white tailored silk frock with a corsage of gardenias.

Seen here and there: Mrs. Hogan, sensibly sitting in a chair to rest after shaking hands with several hundred guests . . . Senator Robert Taft talking earnestly with Franklyn Waltman, publicity director for the Republican National Committee . . . Mrs. Waltman, wearing a natural colored straw hat which matched her blouse . . . Representative and Mrs. Sol Bloom on an agitated umbrella hunt as they waited for their car.

Senator Alben Barkley looking things over in the dining room, where punch, iced tea and Scotch and sodas were ranged in abundance . . . Edward Gardner getting a drink for Mrs. Robert Munroe . . . Mrs. Hamilton Bryan and Mrs. Herbert Feis leaving arm-in-arm . . . Senator Guffey, who lives practically next door to the MacCrackens on Benton place . . . Mrs. Arthur Vandenberg milling about.

COUNT AND COUNTESS van Rechteren Limpurg looking wistfully at the garden—they had hoped originally to lease the house, which the MacCrackens have bought . . . Senator and Mrs. Warren Austin greeting friends . . . Arthur Vandenberg, jr., coralling pols for the special showing at the Senate last evening of "Union Pacific," with star Barbara Stanwyck there in person . . . Mr. and Mrs. Neil Burkinshaw chatting with Mrs. Emil Hurja . . . Mrs. Hugh O'Donnell in a smart new Spring outfit . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Houghteling amon gthe umbrella-searchers . . . Commander and Mrs. Anthony Coleby leaving under a great big British one . . . Clarence Hewes, whose car had broken down, looking for a lift . . . Mrs. Mark Bristol, in a spring print . . . Clarence Stetson, of Bangor, Me., who says he came to Washington to get warm, and who is staying at the Metropolitan Club while doing some business here . . . Pendleton Hogan getting a lady a drink . . . and many, many others, all of whom agreed it was one of the cheerier parties of the spring.

ROYALTY DEPARTMENT: Crown Princess Ingrid is keeping a scrap book of write-ups of the parties given for her in Washington . . . Over 50 people have already called the British Embassy to find out the correct way to answer invitations to the garden party for the King and Queen.

Senator and Mrs. Warren Austin will go to New York today to be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Pell at "Fort Ticonderoga Day" at the World's Fair. Mr. Pell, who is the father of Robin Pell, of the State Department, owns the old fort. Mrs. Austin will go from there to her home in Vermont for a stay.

Robyn Young Peeples Married To Frank Walsh, Jr., in Atlanta

Of interest to friends in Washington was the wedding which took place last evening in Atlanta, of Miss Robyn Young Peeples, daughter of Mrs. Edwin Augustus Peeples, of that city, and the late Mr. Peeples, to Frank Ogden Walsh, jr. Mr. Walsh is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ogden Walsh. The ceremony was performed at the Peachtree Christian Church, with Dr. Robert W. Burns officitaing.

The bride, who is the granddaughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Jefferson D. Young, of Washington, and who was graduated from the Ntaional Cathedral School here in 1936, wore a dress of white tulle made with a full skirt and train.

The maid of honor, Miss Emily Evins, wore a gown of apple green tulle, fashioned with a bouffant skirt. In her hair was a bandeau of tiny gardenias and her bouquet was of gardenias and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaids, all of whom were dressed like the maid of honor, included Miss Nancy Stair, Miss Emma Kate Vretman, Miss Dorothy Sanford and Mrs. Robert Vance.

The best man was Thomas E. Walsh, of New York City. The groomsmen were George W. Walsh, of Cleveland; Alex Davis, of Charlotte, N. C., and Edward K. Van Winkle, Elliott Heath, and Robert Watkins, all of Atlanta. The ushers included Thomas B. Paine, Mitchell C. King, Robert S. Melone, John S. Sandford, J. Russell Porter and Augustus Dixon Adair.

The reception took place at the Piedmont Driving Club at which Mr. and Mrs. Howell Peeples, of Washington, were among the guests from out-of-town.

The former Miss Peeples was presented to Atlanta society at a reception and cotillion at the Piedmont Driving Club in the fall of 1936. Mr. Walsh attended the Georgia School of Technology and Cornell University. After an extended motor tour in the East the couple will make their home in Atlanta after June 15.

Misses Pearson, Gawne Entertain

Miss Katherine E. Pearson and Miss Christine Gawne entertained at dinner at the Shoreham Blue Room last night in honor of Miss Betty Marsh and Kelsey Saint, who will be married this evening. Following the wedding rehearsal at 5 o'clock, the company, most of whom are members of the wedding party, had cocktails at the home of Miss Pearson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William E. Pearson, and then adjourned to the Blue Room.

Among the guests were Miss Marsh's sister, Miss Genevieve Marsh, who will be the maid of honor; another sister, Miss Mary Marsh; Miss Randolph Richardson, Miss Pearson's sister, Miss Gertrude Pearson; Ellis C. Saint, of Syracuse, N. Y., who will be best man, and Mrs. Saint; Charles McDaniel, West M. Cureton, Tanner Kinnier, Robert McCandlish, jr., William M. Blanding, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene N. Foss and Mr. and Mrs. Gordon McCain.

Mrs. Stokes Honored By D. C. Girl Scouts

Farewell Tea for Council Member At Little House Is Presided Over by National President

By Jessie Ash Arndt,
The Post Club Editor.

Mrs. Anson Phelps Stokes, who is leaving soon to reside in Massachusetts, was guest of honor at a tea given by the D. C. Girl Scout Council yesterday at the Girl Scout Little House. Mrs. Frederick H. Brooke, national president of the Girl Scouts of America, and Mrs. Floyd Crosby, commissioner of the Girl Scouts of the District, received with her.

Mrs. Stokes has been active in Girl Scouting for many years and her co-workers regret losing her from Washington. She and most of the other council members wore their green uniforms and hats yesterday, making the tea distinctly a Girl Scout affair.

Mrs. Bowman, hostess at the Little House, and Mrs. Crosby decribed to council members who had not been present, the recent visit of Princess Ingrid, of Denark. Her interest delighted the officials and the girls who greeted her and they were particularly impressed when she and Mrs. Crosby stood in the kitchen, one on either side of the table, discussing the Girl Scout program as the royal visitor was taken on a tour of the Little Houes. Princess Ingrid had her Girl Scout uniform here with her but did not wear it because her engagements came too close together to allow time to change.

Conversation shifted from Princess Ingrid's visit to the extraordinary flying time made by Mrs. Brooke Monday night on her return from New York, where she attended the Juliette Lowe broadcast. She left Newark Airport at 10 p. m. and was in her home at 10:30, she told her incredulous hearers, letting them figure out that the "record" was due to the difference between daylight saving and standard time.

Among council members present to bid Mrs. Stokes goodby yesterday were Mrs. LeRoy Barton, Mrs. Proctor Dougherty, Mrs. Julien Friant, Mrs. Donald Richberg, Mrs. Amos A. Fries, Mrs. O. G. Hankins, Mrs. Edward S. Johnston, Mrs. H. C. Kramer, Mrs. J P. Leake, Mrs. J. N. Lutton, Mrs. Gerrit S Miller, Mrs. William Riley, Mrs. J. C. Rogers, Mrs. Edward Sturdevant, Mrs. Walter Tuckerman and Mrs. C. E. Waters.

Others attending were Mrs. Chester Miller, "the Brown Owl," in charge of all the Brownie Troops; Mrs. W. R. Chapline, chairman of overnight camping; Mrs. O'Neal Johnson, Miss Alice Mulkey, of the national staff.

Club Elects Mrs. Nelson

Mrs. Elmer Nelson was elected yesterday as president of the Woodridge Book Club, succeeding Mrs. David Thompson. The election took place at the monthly meeting, held at the Woodbridge Branch Library.

Other new officers are Mrs. Thomas Mattingly, vice president; Mrs. Arthur Davis, secretary; Mrs. C. M. Woodworth, treasurer; Mrs. G. O. McMinimy, chaplain; Mrs. William White and Mrs. Cleo Mardfeldt, librarians, and Mrs. J. G. Vogelsang, parliamentarian.

The program of the meeting was devoted to flowers with Charles Prichard, a Wahington florist, as speaker. He discussed flower arrangement and demonstrated with various kinds of flowers and containers, giving giving them later to the club. One was presented to the outgoing president and the other to two members who were unable to attend.

Mrs. M. C. Kissinger, a member of the club, reviewed the book, "Japanese Flower Arrangement for the Modern Home," by Margaret Preininger, illustrating some of the book's suggestions.

Mrs. C. E. Channing was elected to membership in the club.

Wheaton Club Meets

Mrs. Arthur W. Howes, jr., will entertain the Wheaton College Club at her home, 3014 Lowell street northwest at 8 p. m. today. Dr. Shio Sakanishi, in charge of the Japanese collection of the Library of Congress, will talk to the group. Dr. Sakanishi is a graduate of Wheaton College in the class of 1925.

Central Europe Must Be Made a Unit, Hungarian Tells Women's Press Club

DR. RUSTUM VAMBERY, Hungarian liberal who was guest speaker at the luncheon of the Women's National Press Club yesterday, at the Willard, asserted the formation of the small countries of central Europe into a unit was the only solution of the present problem. The effort to divide the peoples inte separate groups is impossible because of the way they are now intermingled, he said.

He criticized the provisions of the Treaty of Versailles as "foolish," rather than unjust, explaining that all treaties were unjust as there was no justice in international relations. The imperialism of France and Great Britain is no more justified than that of Germany, he said.

Miss Betty Hynes, a vice president of the club, presided for Mrs. Hope Ridings Miller, the president, who was detained at a press conference. Mrs. Arnold, wife of Assistant Attorney General Thurman Arnold, and Mrs. James J. Davis, wife of Senator Davis, were among the guests.

Mrs. Henry M. Robert, jr., president general of the D. A. R., is expected to be among the guests tonight at a reception Manor House Chapter is giving in honor of Miss Lillian Chenoweth, one of its members, who is now State regent for the District. The party will be at the studio of the League of American Pen Women in the Grafton Hotel. Mrs. James P. Casbarian is chapter regent.

COMMISSIONER MELVIN C. HAZEN and Dr. Hans Kindler will be guests of honor at the Music Week banquet of the Federation of Music Clubs tonight at the Hotel 2400. Nearly 200 reservations have been made. The president of the local federation, Eva Whitford Lovette, will preside.

DELTA KAPPA GAMMA, nation honorary sorority for women, will give a banquet at the Kennedy-Warren tomorrow at 6:30, in honor of its initiates. Mr. Margaret Stroh, State president, will preside. After the banquet the spring initiation will take place.

The initiates are Dr. Harriet M. Chase, Dr. Ruth Coyner, Miss Marie Denecke, Mrs. Lillian Brousseau, Dr. Grace Holmes, Miss Marion Hummer, Mrs. Florence Judge, Mrs. Mary E. Leeper, Mrs. Netta Miller, Miss Eva Pinkston, Miss Lucille Schloofield, Miss Bertha Taylor, Miss Judith Wood.

THE ZONTA CLUB will hold its weekly luncheon today at the Y. W. C. A., with Miss Mary Sigman, newly elected president, presiding. Other newly elected officers of the club are: Marion Hines Taylor, vice president; Kathryn N. Fox, recording secretary; Clara McGrath, treasurer; Ann Harding, corresponding secretary; Vera Lundquist, sergeant at arms.

Federation Gets Resolutions

San Francisco, May 9.—Resolutions proposing a "hands off" foreign policy and Federal aid for education presented to the General Federation of Women's Clubs late today brought out heated debate.

The foreign policy resolution recommends that the federation keep hands off "because legislation which seeks to determine diplomatic startegy in advance might be contrary to the common good."

The California federation last week advocated American economic aid to world democracies.

Another resolution urges increased Federal support of schools without Federal control. One group within the federation contends education is entirely a State matter.

The resolution will not be voted upon util tomorrow.

Mrs. E. H. Heller, of Louisville, was elected chairman of the national trustees to fill the vacancy created by the death of Mrs. L. E. Galloway, of Sanford, Fla. The trustees administer federation finances, including the $2,000,000 foundation funr.

Mrs. Lorber At Luncheon

Mrs. Fannie E. Lorber, president of the National Home for Jewish Children in Denver, was here to attend the annual donor luncheon of the Washington Chapter yesterday at the Mayflower Hotel. Representative Sol Bloom, of New York, also was an honor guest.

Mrs. Lorber talked on the work of the institution, which she founded 32 years ago in Denver to care for the children of patients at the sanitorium maintained by the Jewish Consumptives Relief Society. There are now 150 there.

Representative Bloom talked on "The Jewish Problem of Today," emphasizing the contribution of the Jew to American history and to the development of the Nation from the beginning. He referred to correspondence between George Washington and the Rabbi of the first Jewish Congregation in Boston, showing Washington's high regard for the Jewish people.

A check for $300 was presented to Mrs. Charles Goldsmith for the Center Camp fund. It also was announced by Mrs. A. D. Solomon, president of the Washington Chapter, that its members not only gave support to the Denver institution and to the Jewish Community Center camp here but also was caring for ten underprivileged children here.

A musical sketch was presented by a cast of 25 members under the direction of Mrs. Albert W. Jacobson, a former president.

Chapter H Member Succeeds Mrs. Stockberger, Of Chapter B; Invitation Voted to Have Supreme Council to Meet Here in 1940

The District P. E. O. Chapter, which has been in session for the past two days at Hotel Twenty-four Hundred, yesterday elected Mrs. Robert H. Ferguson, of Chapter H, as president. She succeeds Mrs. Warner W. Stockberger, of Chapter B, who has headed the organization for the past year. The District Chapter also voted to extend an invitation to the Supreme Chapter to meet in Washington in 1943.

Other officers are Miss S. Elizabeth Reynolds, of Chapter D, first vice president; Mrs. T. A. Hutton, of Chapter A, second vice president; Mrs. F. F. Elliott, of Chapter F, organizer; Miss Hazel B. Nielson, of Chapter O, recording secretary; Mrs. S. E. Weick, of Chapter E, corresponding secretary; Mrs. M. H. Forham, Chapter K, treasurer.

Mrs. Chellie Stevens Wright, supreme president, installed the officers at the afternoon service, and presented to Mrs. Stockberger, a certificate entitling her to a seat in the supreme chapter. Mrs. Ferguson presented her with the official past president's pin.

Delegates to Go To Houston

Delegates elected to attend the supreme convention in Houston, Tex., October 10 to 14, were: Mrs. Jason Waterman, of Chapter C; Mrs. F. J. Gillies, Chapter F; Mrs. E. C. Higbie, Chapter I; Mrs. W. F. Hall, Chapter L; Miss Nielson, Chapter O, all presidents of their chapters. State officers who will attend are the new president, the retiring president and the organizer.

The convention voted to accept the invitation of Chapters I and J as hostesses for the meeting of the 15 district chapters next May. This year Chapters G and H were hostesses, with Mrs. Harry Underwood, of Chapter G, as general chairman.

Yesterday morning Mrs. Inez Sheldon Tyler, of Chapter B, who is president of the D. C. Branch of the National League of Aemrican Pen Women and editor of The Blue Moon, conducted a poetry program on "P. E. O. Poets I Have Known."

Mrs. Hutton Conducts Meeting

The annual "model meeting" was directed by Mrs. T. A. Hutton, retiring Distrit organizer, and was staged by members of Chapter O. Music was provided by Mrs. Lorena Albert, f Chapter B, who sang, and Miss Florence Reynolds, of Chapter H, who played piano solos.

There was a registration of 226 at the convention, and the banquet Monday night was attended by 250. The Chevy Chase Chanters of which J. Horace Smithers is leader, sang for this occasion and there were readings by Mrs. Ida Ullman Brown, including several from "The Gentler Sex," by special permission of the author, Miss Malvinia Lindsay, Woman's Page editor of The Post. Mrs. Stockberger greeted the guests and Dr. Stockberger offered the invocation.

Dietitians Hear Miss Marble

Malnutrition is disappearing in direct proportion to the availability of proper food and the education of people in choosing foods, Miss Beulah Marble, president-elect of the American Dietetics Association.

Miss Marble, who is dietitian for Huntington Memorial Hospital in Boston, spoke at a meeting in Emergency Hospital. Her subject was "The Nutritionist Looks Ahead." She urged the dietitians to keep abreast of the times, pointing out that few things had changed so rapidly as ideas with regard to nutrition in recent years.

She was introduced by Miss Helen Burns, dietitian at Walter Reed Hospital, who is president of the association. Other officers are Mrs. Ann Sullivan Hagen, vice president; Miss Alice Latson, treasurer and Mrs. Lennice Bartell, secretary.

Mizrachi to Meet

Mrs. Margaret Kramer and Mrs. Fay Wolf will be hostesses at a meeting of Junior Mizrachi, Washington Chapter, tonight at 8 o'clock at the Beth El Synagogue, Seventh and Jefferson streets northwest.

Mrs. Vandenberg Entertains

Mrs. Arthur H. Vandenberg, wife of Senator Vandenberg, of Michigan, entertained the Washington alumnae of Delta Gamma National Sorority in her apartment at the Wardman Park Hotel last evening. Mrs. Vandenberg is past national vice president of the organization and an active member. She was assisted in receiving by Mrs. Lewis Coffin, Miss Janet Brown, Mrs. Arthur J. Tufts, Miss Frances Williams, Mrs. Catherine Ingberg, Mrs. William Sanders, Mrs. George Bowerman, Miss Maxwell Galloway and Miss Geraldine Park.

Roosevelt 'Looks Over' U. P. Engine

Goes to Union Station To Question Experts on Latest in Locomotives

President Roosevelt's interest in the Navy took him to Union Station yesterday afetrnoon to look at a railroad locomotive.

There he spent nearly half an hour asking what were described as "very intelligent questions" of H. L. Andrews, vice president, in charge of transportation of the General Electric Co.

Subject of the conversation was a two-unit steam-electric 2,500-horsepower locomotive recently delivered to the Union Pacific Railroad by General Electric. It had pushed a 70-year-old locomotive once belonging to the Virginia & Truckee Railroad, and pulled some old-fashioned and some modern railroad cars across the country to advertise a motion picture film. Fourteen movie actors and actresses are riding with the train, but they were absent when the President arrived.

Mr. Roosevelt engaged the electric company official in conversation about high-temperature and high-pressure steam, fuel oil consumption in relation to reciprocating steam, the size of turbine rotors and the possibilities of reduced weight and increased speed in steam-electric turbines.

This was translated by the enginwise official into terms of Naval cruisers and the known interest of Admiral H. G. Bowen in attaining results along the line of the President's inquiries.

Sitting in his automobile beside hte double-unit engine, the President also chatted with Charles E. Wilson, executive vice president; C. K. West, commercial vice president; O. J. Mitchell, one of the three engineers who are driving the Union Pacific engineer; W. E. Lynch, engineer of the the Erie plant of General Electric, where the engine was built, nad Miss F. D. Harland, trim in a blue uniform, stewardess of the train.

Old fashioned coaches that appear behind the just-born engines, and the 70-year-old relic, are said to be ones used in the early days of the Union Pacific Railroad. From the window of one of them appears the warning: "Do not shoot buffalo from the train."

The Paramount company has used the rolling stock of the earlier era in a motion picture that is called "Union Pacific."

Poison Slayings Grow 'Incredibly'

100 was far short. The known number of victims in Philadelphia is 40 and investigations point to possible syndicate operations in Delaware, New York and even by mail to the Pacific Coast.

Although poison has been the principal weapon of the syndicate, at least one victim, police believe, was killed in an "intentional" automobile accident, and one was pushed from a fishing boat off the Jersey coast. Most of the victims have been men, but at least one woman is believed to have been slain.

Another bizarre angle was injected into the complicated case by a report, which detectives declined to confirm, that a rival band of killers had been in active competition with the arsenic syndicate.

The rival gang killed with antimony, according to the report, and murdered for a stipulated sum rather than bothering with insurance.

Today's developments included:

Arrest of a woman believed to have been one of the many which the ring lured into killing their husbands for their life insurance.

Death of a man believed to have been one of the syndicatee's lieutenants in New Jersey, and who was being sought for questioning in connection with the suspected arsenic death of his wife.

Disclosure that a man believed to be the syndicate's "banker" is under police surveillance. Police believe he may hold as much as $100,000 for members of the ring.

An attempt by Dr. Horace L. Perlman, the physician who, authorities claim, provided the ring with arsenic and prospective victice, to fire his jail cell.

Receipt of a letter from Mrs. Rose Carina, known as the "professional widow with the kiss of death," sought for at least five killings.

Arrest at Reading of Samuel Crispano on conspiracy charges. Crispano allegedly was aboard a fishing boat from which a victim was thrown while the craft cruised off the New Jersey coast. Jersey authorities against four of the persons held there. Already implicated in that State are more than 35 men and women.

Investigators regarded the death of Gaenao Peno, 35, of Salem, N. J., as the most significant development. They ordered the contents of his stomach analyzed and said they suspected he died of the same poison which he is accused of administering to his wife.

It was possible, authorities said, that the syndicate poisoned Peno to keep his lips "sealed."

Mrs. Peno, they said, was the second victim who had been traced to the ring's far-flung activities in New Jersey. The first was Joseph Arena, allegedly pushed from a fishing boat and drowned off Sea Isle City, N. J.

In connection with Arena's death, New Jersey authorities issued murder warrants against Morris (Louis the Rabbi) Bolber, accused of being one of the organizers of the ring; Mrs. Arena, Herman Petrillo, and Gaetino Cicinati, an insurance agent who is alleged to have received $200 as his "cut" from the life insurance which the syndicate collected on the death.

Herman Petrillo, 40, is the former spaghetti and olive oil salesman who is facing death in the electric chair from his conviction of first degree murder charges in connection with the ring's activities.

Philadelphia officials said, however, that they would release none of the four to New Jersey authorities "until we can clean up all of the deaths here."

Warrants for the arrest of six persons described as leaders of the New Jersey branch were sent to New Jersey State police with a request that they be arrested on sight as fugitives.

One of the warrants, it was reported, named Mrs. Carinia. She is said to have sent a letter to Judge Harry S. McDevitt, who conducted the Petrillo trial, protesting her description as the "Borgai" of the syndicate. The letter was mailed from Asbury Park, N. J.

The latest woman arrested as a suspected "arsenic widow" was Mrs. Rose Smigel. Police said they were holding her for investigation in connection with the death of her husband three years ago and that she would be questioned later tonight.

Mrs. Smigel, they said, was a neighbor of Mrs. Millie Giacobbe, 50, another of the suspected "arsenic widows" who attempted to commit suicide twice yesterday while being questioned in connection with the death of her husband.

A prisoner, who authorities said had just been released from Moyamensing Prison, disclosed that Dr. Perlman set fire to the mattress of his cell cot but that guards immediately discovered and extinguished the flames.

Investigators hinted that Dr. Perlman had implicated at least one other physician and a druggist, who is believed to have supplied some of the arsenic.

It was learned that police have established a 24-hour-a-day guard over the home of a man suspected as being the "banker" for the syndicate.

Telephone wires leading to his home have been tapped and at least one of the "arsenic widows" has telephoned the suspect three times, it was said.

It was explained that authorities did not wish to arrest the man, hoping that they could find new clews by listening in to his telephone conversations. The tappings were reported to have revealed new suspects.

Since the first ring suspects were arrested, authorities have been trying to locate the thousands of dollars which the syndicate collected in insurance for most of those taken into custody could account for only a few dollars.

In addition to being the banker for the syndicate, the man also distributed the fees obtained by the matrimonial agency set up by the ring to find new husbands—and new victims—for the "arsenic widows."

One investigator said the ring presented a list of "prospects" to at least one woman soon after her husband was poisoned. She apparently was ordered, he said, to contact the prospects under threat of having her complicity in her husband's death disclosed.

This plan may have produced an "endless chain" of poison murders, he declared, adding:

"This entire ring is even more fantastic than we had at first supposed. We haven't any idea how many men have died through the operation of this phase of the plot. Neither do we know how many women were involved."

55 Made Ill At Rotarian Banquet

Mexican Aide's Wife Among Victims of Food Poisoning at Gettysburg Parley

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Gettysburg, Pa., May 9.—Mrs. Luis Quintanilla, attractive Gettysburg-born wife of the Mexican resident general at Washington, was recovering today along with 54 others who were stricken last night reportedly with food poisoning after attending a 180th District Rotary convention banquet here.

Mrs. Quintanilla, who maintains residences in Washington and at nearby Arendtsville, sat with her father, P. W. Stallsmith, Gettysburg realtor, and a sister, Miss Martha Stallsmith, as a banquet guest. All three were taken ill. Mrs. Quintanilla and her sister spent the night in the Warner Hospital here and were discharged today. Their father also received treatment.

C. A. Bixler, Gettysburg's general chairman of the convention committee; Mrs. Bixler, and Dr. Erwin Berry, Westernport, Md., remained in the hospital today from the same ailment. About 49 others, stricken an hour after the meal, kept a half dozen local and visiting Rotary physicians busy during the night and early morning. None was critically affected, and all but the hospital patients left for home as the convention ended tonight.

Investigation Launched

A State health department official from Harrisburg was investigating and examined food served by the same caterer at a noon luncheon today.

Dr. Joseph B. Baker, York clergyman, also was stricken, but returned to York today. He was the principal speaker at the banquet.

An address by Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor, of Maryland, and an unscheduled wind hailstorm were features today of the closing session.

The parley, in session here since Sunday night, was interrupted by a severe storm which struck this section, flooding Rotarians' autos, breaking windows in the conference hall at Gettysburg College and blocking town streets with felled trees.

Two Governors Absent

At the luncheon addressed by Gov. O'Conor, telegraphed regrets were read from Gov. Arthur H. James, of Pennsylvania, and Gov. Homer A. Holt, of West Virginia, who were unable to attend because of the press of official business. Officers' conferences followed the lunch and brought to a close the convention which attracted 1,300 Rotarians, their ladies and guests from Pennsylvania, Maryland, District of Columbia and West Virginia. Registration reports showed 76 of the 77 member clubs in the district were represented.

District Gov. Walter N. Kirkman, Baltimore, and Edward M. Elliott, Coudersport, nominated as Kirkman's successor, led the afternoon conferences.

Hagerstown, Md., was the only bidder for the 1940 conference. Decision on the meeting place has been left to officers.

This morning's feature was an address by H. V. Kaltenborn, radio foreign news commentator, who predicted for the clubmen there will be no war in Europe this year, and that if one does break out later it will not last over a year.

59 Are Jailed After Flareup In Mine Area

Wholesale Arrests Follow Beating of Coal Trucker in West Virginia

By the Associated Press

Charleston, W. Va., May 9.—The first wholesale arrests in West Virginia since the beginning of the coal shutdown were made today while the State anxiously waited to learn if President Roosevelt's efforts would bring about a wage settlement.

Fifty-nine men were jailed at Weston, where Lewis County Sheriff Robert Blair said they would be given hearings in connection with a midnight assault on a 28-year-old truck driver, Robert McWhorter.

Blair said the charges were made under the "red man act," which covers conspiracy to do bodily harm.

McWhorter was seated in a coal truck last night at a railroad siding in Jane Lew near here, Blair said. An altercation started after the group of men ordered McWhorter to "get the truck out of here and get it out now."

McWhorter was beaten but not seriously hurt.

Elsewhere in the coal fields of the State it was just as quiet as on April 1 when 100,000 miners quit work because they lacked a contract.

A United Mine Workers leader, back from a visit in the Southern fields, reported "the men are standing fast and backing up the international officers" in their contract demands.

Montgomery Board Asks Speed on Bills

4 Commissioners Write Governor They Need Action To Fix Levies

By Phillip J. Austensen.

Four Democratic members of the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners yesterday reminded Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor he had not yet signed a number of bills affecting the county and recommended by the board.

The commissioners wrote the Governor a letter citing "many of the most important of the 35" measures, which had their "continued approval."

"We further desire to advise you," the letter read, "that we are now considering the items of the county levy or budget for the next fiscal year, and it is important to us to know what the county laws for the period ahead will be in determining the amounts and purposes of the pending levy."

Bond Bill Most Important

Major bill awaiting O'Conor's pen is that which would permit refunding of $950,000 in county bonds which mature in the next two years. Should the Governor veto this measure, the commissioners would be forced to increase the tax rate in order to provide funds for bond payment.

It is generally believed, however, that the Governor's signing of this bill depends on a compromise in the intercounty fight for control of the Maryland-Natoinal Capital Park and Planning Commission between the county Democratic organization, which backed Mayor Jackson of Baltimore for the gubernatorial post in the last primaries, and the forces that backed O'Conor.

The letters signed by all Democratic members of the county board, Thomas E. Hampton, Odorion W. Roby, John E. Oxley and T. W. Farmer—indicated, however, that the county organization has determined to stand firm on its refusal to effect a trade.

Police Bill Included

Also a subject of patronage controversy is the pending bill which would increase the present 30-man police force to 45, the recruits to be blanketed under the new county-controlled civil service system.

Other bills providing for issuance of bonds for county improvements and construction and amending the Takoma Park town charter also require action by the Governor.

State Senator Robert B. Peter and Roger J. Whiteford, special counsel to the legislators whose office drew up most of the county bills, plan to confer with Gov. O'Conor today in an effort to convince him he should sign all of them.

'I'd Date Any of You,' Tydings Says as 6 Beauties Are Chosen

Four Brunettes, Sandy-Haired Girl and A Blonde Selected From 25 Entrants In 'Beauty-With-Brains' Contest

Four brunettes, a sandy-haired girl and a lone blonde emerged as semi-finalists from what Senator Tydings of Maryland, Representative Randolph, of West Virginia and Eleanor Powell, dancer referred to as their dilemma in judging the 25 girls in the The Post A. F. G. E. "Beauty With Brains" contest.

The six girls Friday night will confron. The Post's Umbrella Court of the Air where Judge Mark Question will interrogate them, determine the brainiest and declare her "Miss Beauty With Brains." She will go to the New York World's Fair May 19 to be the central attraction on "Government Employe's Day," May 20.

Winners in the semifinals were: Mrs. Mabel Meeker, a blonde, of the Bureau of Internal Revenue; Eva Sanders, of the Interior Department, Secretary's office, a brunette; Mildred Allen, of the Federal Forum Project, office of education, Interior, brunette; Mollie F. Drazin, of the HOLC, brunette; Mrs. Guerry R. Smith, Federal Power Commission, sandy-haired, and Mabel Sugnet, brunette, Works Progress Administration.

Each girl is assured an all-pense trip to the World's Fair but only the one who wins in Judge Mark Question's court will go with a title. The trips are being paid for by the American Federation of Government Employes, while The Post is awarding a silver loving cup to the winner. The runner-up will receive a silver pitcher

For selection of the six semi-finalists from 25 entrants last night, the girls were introduced to the audience at Loew's Capitol Theater. Then, in a room behind the stage, Tydings, Randolph and Miss Powell first cut their number to 15, then to 8 and finally to 6.

Said Senator Tydings: "This is a dilemma. We don't know whom to choose. I'd be perfectly willing to make a date with any o fyou."

Representative Randolph: "We wish we might select you all."

Miss Powell: "I've never done this before; it's something very new to me. I wish all of you could win."

Rare Venetian laces from her collection were bequeathed to the National Gallery of Art by Mrs. Mary Roche Johnson, whose will was offered District Court yesterday for probate.

Mrs. Johnson, widow of Col. Joseph Esrey Johnson, died April 18, leaving an estate valued at $318,000.

Pastor's Group Elects

Winchester, Va., May 9.—At a meeting of the City Ministerial Association, held this morning in the Handley Library, the Rev. Robert A. Whitten, pastor of the Congregational Christian Church, was elected president. Other officers chosen were the Rev. T. M. Swann, Methodist minister, vice president, and the Rev. Charles H. Funk, of the Church of Christ, secretary-treasurer.

Public Barred From Hearing Assault Story

Annapolis, May 9 (AP).—Circuit Judge Melvin today ruled testimony of a pretty Baltimore married woman against her three alleged attackers was so shocking the public would be barred from their trial.

Albert McManus, 35, faces a possible death penalty on an assault charge. William Dehn, 27, pleaded innocent. Arthur Wageley, 24, pleaded guilty.

The woman testified she was seized on a Baltimore street April 10 by the trio and taken to a lonely spot in Anne Arundel County where the alleged assaults occurred.

She said she was criminally attacked and was beaten almost insensible.

Judge Melvin deferred his verdict until tomorrow.

Price Addresses Teachers

Chatham, Va., May 9 (AP).—Gov. Price told the Pittsylvania County Education Association last night that the school must eventually be the bulwark against increasing lawlessness.

Steel Framework Collapse Revealed At Md. U. Project

Baltimore, May 9 (AP).—Walter H. Goertz, chief resident engineer-inspector on the University of Maryland's PWA-aided $2,475,000 construction program, said today the steel framework of one building in the project collapsed last Friday at Princess Anne.

Goertz confirmed a report the skeleton of a new gymnasium at Princess Anne Academy, Eastern Shore branch of the University, "leaned over" for an estimated loss of $2,500.

The PWA, Goertz said, was not involved and the cost of new construction would have to be borne by the private contractor on the job.

"One of my assistants investigated and reported to the New York regional office," he explained. "So far as we could tell, it was one of those things which might happen on any construction job. Luckily, no one was hurt. I think one man sprained his ankle running out of the way."

Parents Jailed After Children Solicit Money

Two girls, the elder 12, slept at the Receiving Home last night as their mother and foster father slept in jail, pending investigation whether they forced the children to sell dolls on the street.

The parents were arrested on vagrancy charges when Barnes Thompson, an interior decorator, told police he was approached on Connecticut avenue late at night by one of the girls, who asked him for a dime. He told Police Court Judge Casey yesterday that he found the sister waiting nearby and learned that the parents were a block away in an automobile.

Alvin Lundquist, 37, the foster father, told the judge he had tried to support the children but could find no work. The family moved frequently, he said, and the children had been going to school in Beltsville, Md. Judge Casey continued the case until Friday, pending a report from the probation officer.

County News In Brief—

FAIRFAX COUNTY

Fire Officials Resign

Falls Church.—Controversy over a recent accident involving the fire engine of the volunteer fire department has led to the resignation of President John McCauley, Vice President J. Leo Barr and Treasurer J. A. C. Fought. Fought and Joseph Birch, a member of the department, became involved in a controversy concerning the settlement of claims growing out of the accident on April 11, in which about $200 damage was done to the engine.

Three members of the department have filed charges against Birch, charging him with "conduct unbecoming to a fireman." He was summoned to appear before the executive board, May 22.

Tablet Honors Bishop

Norfolk, Va., May 9.—The Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, D. D., presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States, and the Right Rev. Beverley Dandridge Tucker, jr., D. D., bishop of the diocese of Ohio, were guests of honor today as the council of the diocese of Southern Virginia unveiled a tablet in memory of their father, Bishop Beverley D. Tucker. The service was held in old St. Paul's Church which the elder Tucker served for 24 years.

In the church as the Very Rev. Wallace E. Hollins, dean of the Virginia Theological Seminary, Alexandria, set forth the virtues of the former bishop of the diocese, were seven sons of the churchman. In addition to the bishops the family was represented by the Rev. Herbert N. Tucker, of Suffolk; Richard B. Tucker, of Pittsburgh; John Randolph Tucker, of Welch, W. Va., and Lawrence W. Tucker, of Norfolk. Daughters present were Mrs. Malcolm Griffin, of Bedford, and Miss Lila Tucker, of Virginia Beach.

Charles F. Tucker, son of the Rev. and Mrs. Herbert N. Tucker, and Kirkland Ruffin Tucker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Tucker, unveiled the memorial tablet to their grandfather.

County to Seek Referendums on Two Measures

Hagerstown, May 9.—Petitions asking for referendums on two Washington County measures passed by the recent General Assembly are being prepared for circulation here.

One petition will ask for a referendum on the bill which authorizes the board of county commissioners to issue $400,000 in bonds for the erection of a new courthouse. A mass meeting held at the courthouse last week, voted unanimously against the erection of a new building.

The other petition would force a referendum on House bill No. 561, which makes unlawful certain acts of the clerk of the courts register of wills and sheriff, so far as giving information to the public.

Neither bill has been signed by the Governor as yet.

2 Get Scholarships

Lynchburg, Va., May 9 (AP).—Two Randolph-Macon Woman's College seniors, Miss Christine Roseborough, of Chattanooga, Tenn., and Miss Margaret Truitt, of Norfolk, today received exchange scholarships for study in France.

Bishop to Preside At Celebration on Historic Md. Island

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Leonardtown, Md., May 9.—A pontifical mass will be celebrated on Blackiston's Island by Bishop Emment S. J. D. D. of Kingston, Jamaica, on May 30.

The celebration is sponsored by the Pilgrims of St. Mary's in honor of the centennial of the Xaverian Brotherhood and will begin at 11 a. m. Rev. John La Farge S. J. of New York will be guest speaker, formerly known as St. Clement's Island, Blackiston's Island lies off Kopel's Point in the Potomac river. It is now the property of the Federal government. In 1934 a granite cross forty feet high was erected there in memory of the first settlers of Maryland who stopped on the island in 1634 before going on to St. Mary's City where the Maryland colony established.

D. C. Woman Heads St. Joseph's Alumnae

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Emmitsburg, Md., May 9.—Mrs. Walter Distler, of Washington, D. C., was elected president of the Alumnae Association, of St. Joseph's College, at the annual reunion here. She is a member of the class of 1914.

Miss Louise Sebold, Emmitsburg, Md., retiring president, was elected first vice president; Mrs. Howard S. O'Neill, Bel Air, Md., was elected recording secretary; Miss Dorothy Carew, Baltimore, assistant recording secretary, and Miss Regina Thirkel, Baltimore, assistant treasurer.

Two More Freed In CCC Slaying

Fredericksburg, Va., May 9 (AP).—Charges of murder lodged against Wilson Green, 22, and Fleming Brown, 20, colored, in Caroline County, in connection with the death of James Hill, 22-year-old colored CCC enrollee, have been nolle prossed by Commonwealth's Attorney Bernard Mahon.

The action followed the dismissal of similar charges against Gordon Miller, 29, and Clarence Mickelboro, 36, last week after Judge Frederick W. Coleman refused to allow an alleged confession of Miller's to be admitted as evidence at his trial.

Dr. Volm to Speak

Waynesboro, Va., May 9.—Dr. Matthew Volm, instructor in German at the University of Virginia, will be the guest speaker for the meeting of the Men's Club of St. John's Episcopal Church, Wednesday.

5,000 to See Parade Of Tri-State Firemen

Crisfield, Md., May 9.—Visiting firemen—complete with apparatus—rolled in tonight from approximately 60 communities in three States for the tenth annual convention tomorrow of the Delmarva Volunteer Firemen's Association.

Benjamin S. Mills, jr., president of the Crisfield volunteers, estimated between 5,000 and 7,000 visitors from Maryland, Delaware and Virginia would jam the city for the program, climaxing at 4 p. m. with a huge parade containing floats, fire-wagons, bands and drum and bugle corps.

Entertainment from the judges' stand will follow at 7:30, parade prizes amounting to $250 will be awarded at 9, and then there will be dancing in the streets.

Crisfield firemen, entertaining the group for the first time in history, have been making elaborate plans for weeks.

Raymond M. Carey, of Princess Anne, Md., president of the association, will call the business meeting to order at 10 a. m. Following invocation by the Rev. A. A. Pierce, of Marion, Mayor William E. Ward of Crisfield, will welcome the delegates and C. W. Milligan, of Cape Charles, Va., will respond.

The firemen's welcome will be extended by Mr. Mills, and President Carey will respond.

Features of the business session will be election of officers and committeemen and presentation of badges to the following past presidents: George R. Colborn, of Princess Anne; George Stevenson, of Smyrna, Del.; C. W. Milligan, of Cape Charles, Va.; Fred A. Grier, of Salisbury, Md.; Ralph C. Haye, of Dover, Del.; C. C. Walker, of Onancock, Va.; C. C. Larrimore, of Easton, Md; E. C. Bailey, of Laurel, Dela; E. L. Jones, of Chincoteague, Va., and Mr. Carey.

Capt. Benjamin W Scott, of Chincoteague, whose 101st birthday today is believed to make him the oldest active fireman along the Eastern seaboard, will be one of the speakers at the afternoon session.

State Comptroller J. Millard Tawes will act as master of ceremonies, and other speakers will include Ross B. Davis, chief of the Philadelphia Fire Department, and State Senator Phillip Dorsey, of St. Marys County.

A Segment of Hollywood Comes to Washington

Critics Ride in With 'Union Pacific' Stars; Many Notables Aboard Train; All 'Interviewed;' Olney Theater Opening Postponed a Week

THE "UNION PACIFIC SPECIAL" that rolled into Union Station yesterday afternoon at one—take it from one who was a passenger on both—was a far cry, as the saying goes, from that gaudily caparisoned "Forty-Second Street Special" that rumbled to a standstill on a siding down by the Bureau of Engraving and Printing on the morning of March 4, 1933. The "Forty-Second Street Special" was by way of being a bit of a nightmare, what with its blaring loudspeakers, "Malibu Beach Car," toy pianos, electrical emblazonment—inside and out—and whatnot.

BELL

Yesterday's leisurely exemplification of ancient and modern railroading was the acme of dignity, peace, quiet and repose in comparison. One even had opportunity to sit down in comfortable easy chairs in a spacious lounge car and converse intelligently—I hope—with all of the stars aboard. It was not necessary to shout one's head off to be heard and there were no sun lamps scattered around to give unwarned visitors an unexpected coat of tan. There were some of those toy, three-and-a-half-octave pianos aboard, to be sure, but only one was played and that very briefly.

Thus it became an extremely easy business to discover the divergent viewpoints and interests of those who have been on the train for two weeks now. The first impression, and one that was speedily corroborated by the gentlemen in charge of the train and the tour, was that here was a group of supposedly temperamental stars who were getting along like the proverbial "big, happy family." It was not possible to strike up a note of friction among them.

So, briefly, among the things we discovered was that Warren William is getting a great "kick" out of this junket. After five consecutive years in Hollywood, without a vacation from the films, he is thrilled by the sight of trees "that you could climb", and landscapes that are not subtropical. That famous machine shop of his on his California estate is a real hobby. He makes some very beautiful and useful things there, merely as an avocation. When I asked him if he had made the "Union Pacific Special," he admitted reluctantly that he hadn't. I agree with him that the best picture he ever made was "The Mouthpiece."

Then there was George Raft, who only yesterday rejoined the train in Philadelphia, after having deserted in Chicago to step down to the Kentucky Derby and win $500 on the day. No he didn't have Johnstown in the big race, but he had so many other good ones that his regrets are practically negligible. He will be hurrying back to Hollywood soon to make a picture for Universal, then one for Twentieth Century-Fox and then one for the Warner Brothers. As you may gather, Mr. Raft, a dapper young fellow in light gray, with dark brown shirt and lemon tie, is free-lancing. He has played Washington many times in the old vaudeville days preceding his picture career.

And Lynne Overman, former leading man of the old Garrick Theater Stock Co., seemed just a little fed up with it all. The hectic demands of a transcontinental tour, on even the most orderly of trains assembled from the ages, are apt to wear one down. Lynne, I think, would have liked to have remained in the Capital for a day or two, but film commitments compelled him to leave the entourage last night and return to New York, whence he will proceed to Hollywood to begin a new picture on the 20th. George Raft went with him.

Among the most disappointed of the Washingtonians who met the "Special" on its arrival at Union Station was Panjandrum Stephen E. Cochran, of the Olney Theater. His disappointment was occasioned by the fact that Glenda Farrell's contract with the "Union Pacific" tour makes it impossible for her to open the season at the Olney in "Stage Door" next Monday night. The second season inaugural, therefore, has been postponed to Monday, May 22, when Miss Farrell will find it possible to be here. In the cast with her will be Marsha Hunt, who is, as I said yesterday, to all intents and purposes a Washingtonian. Marsha is more charming than ever and will be a great asset to Mr. Cochran's company. But I was wrong about one thing. Her family no longer reside here. They have become ardent and "lifelong" Californians—worse luck.

These villainous "heavies" who appear on the silver sheet will fool you, too. When I sat down to lunch with Brian Donlevy and Mrs. Donlevy, they were having a very hilarious time. If there was any villainy at that table, I'd like to know where it was. Brian has just completed an important role in the new version of "Beau Gueste" and like Warren William, is having himself a time on this trip.

The other "heavy" aboard proved to be a most obvious sentimentalist. That was Anthony Quinn, who did such a splendid piece of work in "Last Train from Madrid." He thought that was his best role and so did I. But Tony Quinn is a villain on the screen only because his complexion is swarthy and he can be made to look like one. What he would like to be doing is playing leading-men roles of sympathetic character.

In addition to the beauties already mentioned, the feminine decorations of the "Union Pacific Special" included Sheila Darcy, Judith King, Patricia Morison, Evelyn Luckey an' Luana Walters. All have appeared in more than a few pictures and have displayed such talent as to have become known as Paramount's most promising starlets. And are they easy to look at!

There were two other young stars with whom we chatted at some length and both are in the ascendant. One is Robert Preston, who has one of the most important roles in "Union Pacific," opening Friday at the Earle; the other William Henry, last seen with Bob Burns in "I'm From Missouri." Both are Californians by birth. Bill Henry is coming along to bigger and better roles. Bob Preston may have difficulty finding another as good as he has in "Union Pacific."

Hot-Under-the-Collar Note

And if you think that lounge car was air-cooled yesterday, you're crazy. Just look at my collar again!

The Young Lady Seems Slightly Confused!

JOAN BLONDELL, MISCHA AUER AND BING CROSBY as they appear in the leading roles in "East Side of Heaven," new Universal production, scheduled as the next attraction on the screen at RKO-Keith's Theater. Miss Blondell is supposed to be Mr. Crosby's fiancee, but somehow seems to have difficulty keeping her mind on that fact when Mr. Auer is around. Irene Hervey, C. Aubrey Smith and Jerome Cowan are other important members of the cast, not forgetting the baby, "Sandy"

Louella O. Parsons'

Close-Ups and Long-Shots Of the Motion Picture Scene

Hollywood, May 9 (INS).—Sigrid Gurie, who had tons of publicity after she admitted that she was born in Brooklyn instead of Norway, is again knocking at the movie portals. Sigrid, who hasn't made a picture since she played the sultry double crosser in "Algiers" will have the starring role in "Forgotten Women," an Eddie Grainger production at Universal, with Harold Young directing.

LOUELLA PARSONS

Various reasons were given why Sigrid, who cut such a swath in her only two characterizations, the Oriental princess in "Marco Polo" and the native girl in Hedy Lamarr's famous movie, has stayed off the screen. One of them was that she didn't want to play exotic foreigners and was holding out for a modern story, another that she had had a disagreement with her agent, and still another was her expected marriage to Dr. Lawrence Spangard. I imagine she actually waited for a modern story, since "Forgotten Woman," written by Lionel Hauser and Harold Buchman, is a drama of today.

I don't know when I have heard a bit of news that interested me as much as Harry Edington's purchase of "Sister Carrie," Theodore Dreiser's novel, written 39 years ago at the turn of the century. Banned then by many libraries, it probably wouldn't cause a ripple in literary circles today as far as naughtiness is concerned. But it will require tact to make it into a movie with the present censorship restrictions. A sort of "Back Street" idea, confidentially, Irene Dunne, who starred in the book of that name, is Harry's choice for the heroine. Personally, I think "Sister Carrie" is Dreiser's best work—even better than "American Tragedy."

Grace Moore has been a good friend of mine for many years, but I do think she should be careful in giving interviews when she is away from Hollywood. She telephoned to say she had been misquoted and this is the second time she has denied statements attributed to her by various newspaper reporters. Grace did say that Hollywood is in such disfavor throughout the country, that reporters always turn the conversation to everything that is bad about our town. She said the big salaries of the stars caused great bitterness and that few had anything good to say about pictures. As for the report that she would return to Columbia, that explosion in my ear was Harry Cohn's answer.

Chatter in Hollywood: There wasn't a hint of unhappiness in Wally Beery's actions Monday evening when he took a beauteous gal to the Grace Hayes Lodge for supper. He introduced her as Miss Denys, a dancer, and was so devoted that it would appear all the stories that he has been carrying the torch for his recently divorced wife are exaggerated. Maybe it was his pride that was hurt when she married so shortly after obtaining her freedom. Talk is that M-G-M is considering "Boss Tweed" as a coming Beery movie

Shapshots of Hollywood collected at random: A tennis ball gone wrong and a bad sunburn took Binnie Barnes to St. Vincent's Hospital for treatment; Arleen Whelan announces she is not engaged to Alex D'Arcy; Deanna Durbin and Vaughn Paul, her favorite boy friend, a really cute couple at the Veloz and Yolanda opening at the Cocoanut Grove; Billie Dove, still so beautiful, with handsome Bob Kenaston, the Bob Bernards, with 20 guests and Mary Pickford looking like a debutante, among those applauding the dance stars; Gregory Ratoff officially announced the opening of spring by appearing on the Twentieth Century-Fox lot in a new straw hat; Clifford Fisher is here from Paree, having come all these miles to direct the Follies Bergere which opens Friday; Bert Wheeler and Diane Dewey are getting to be a habit; Rudy Vallee, the town's most ubiquitous beau, stepping out at the La Conga with pretty Susan Ridgeway, a new gal; Joan Crawford is sporting the shortest bob in town—not the Baby Bob, but something new.

Garbo had her first fitting with Adrian today, so it looks as if she will get to work on "Ninotchka" and be able to join the boy friend, Stokowski, in her native Sweden; Donald Crisp loaned his yacht to Mrs. Warren Wand, socialite, for the summer, on account of he has to work; Walter Pidgeon swears he hitchhiked half way from Palm Springs when his car broke down; Billie Seward, the former Mrs. Billy Wilkerson, testing at Hal Roach Studio; come September, Jackie Cooper will go to New York with his Clam Bake Cats, but when they open he will rechristen them with a more sophisticated name; Harry Richman and his bride will buy a home in Hollywood to house that new baby they expect to adopt; Lois Wilson arrives tomorrow for a brief visit with her family before resuming her role in "The Women" on the stage. That's all for today. See you tomorrow!

Korngold to Give Concert Of New Score

Music for 'Juarez' Will Be Heard in Carnegie Hall

By Frederick C. Othman.
By the United Press.

Hollywood, May 9.—Eric Wolfgang Korngold is the musician who eased his ponderous self onto a piano stool two years ago to compose the music for the film, "Anthony Adverse," which, as you may remember, was about the adventures of an orphan.

"No muzzer," moaned Korngold, playing a lugubrious chord, "no fazzer."

Tears streamed from the eyes of the great Korngold and from the depths of his misery came one of the finest musical scores Hollywood ever produced. "Anthony Adverse" may not have been any great shakes as a movie, but the music which accompanied it was elegant. It won Korngold an academy award.

He has been living the lives of his musical subjects ever since, and if you don't think this is tough on a man, you don't know Korngold, who is acknowledged generally as one of the world's great musicians.

Scored "Robin Hood"

When he scored "Robin Hood" for the Warner Brothers he died a thousand deaths. Every time a villain fell off the castle wall, Korngold fell with him. Every time an arrow slithered into the chest of a denizen of Sherwood Forest, Korngold groaned in pain.

All this is by way of introduction to the fact that Korngold leaves here Wednesday for New York, where an audience in white ties and evening gowns at Carnegie Hall, May 14, will pay to watch him go crazy.

He will play in concert the score for his latest picture, "Juarez," which reaches its high point when Bette (Empress Carlotta) Davis goes mad. Korngold will go as mad as Bette. Maybe madder.

We know about this because he scared the daylights out of us today. It was in his sunny office at Warner Brothers Korngold, a great bear of a man in a brown butcher's jacket, nondescript pants and square-toed brogans, said he'd be glad to play the music for the mad scene.

He plumped down at his grand piano and started to mutter. He shook his head. He moaned. The whites of his eyes showed and he was on the verge of frothing at the mouth as his music became wilder, and louder. When he neared the crescendo he started to kick the piano, and bellow, while he pounded the keys with his oversized hands.

Recovers Sanity

It was then that we started to edge out of the door, but with a final wallop which made the piano legs vibrate, he ended the song, whirled on his stool—and resumed his conversation, as sane as anybody.

Since it is impossible to put his rich Viennese accent on paper, we won't try. His story is a rip-snorter, even in plain English. When he was 10 years old in Vienna, he composed "The Fairy Tale Cantata." When he was 11, he wrote "The Showman" and since this was a beautifully done piece of music, his father nearly was run out of the town. The elder Korngold was music critic of the Vienna Free Press—and everybody thought he was writing his son's compostions.

The idea finally was straightened out and young Korngold kept on composing music, such as the comic opera, "The Ring of Polycrates," when he was 16, and the opera, "Violanta," when he was 17. He even conducted both operas in theaters in Austria and Germany.

Served in World War

After serving in the World War, he returned to music composing and symphony orchestra conducting. He was busy in Vienna when Hollywood sent for him in 1934 to score "Midsummer Night's Dream." He's been here ever since, except for an unfortunate—or maybe vice versa—interlude in Vienna last year.

He'd just written a new opera, "Katherine," and the show was ready to go into rehearsal. Then the leading tenor got throat trouble, rehearsals ended, and the opera was postponed for six months. Korngold returned to Hollywood—and a week after he left, the armies of Adolf Hitler arrived.

Now it looks as though "Katherine" may never be produced, unless it's translated into English.

". . . . and you'd better hurry up and start working on your book, dear . . . Well, the publisher called, and he's anxious . . . I told him he couldn't be as anxious about it as I am—because I have a swell title for you . . . What? . . . Yes, dear, I've got the title—'Please Buy a Copy.'"

11 P. M.: "Unless a change is ordered," a British official assures at the Cotton Club, "Nine ships of the British fleet will come to America May 24. English stars are being invited to attend a reception for the fleet-officers here that night" . . . "Mayor La Guardia," a jurist informs at Mon Paris, "has one of his representatives occupying the Czech Consulate—which refused to surrender to the Nazis" . . . "The Critics Circle arbitrated the $100 bet made by Tallulah Bankhead that 'The Little Foxes' would win the Critics Circle Prize," a ringsider reports at El Morocco. "They decided that Lillian Hellman, the author, who wagered with Tallulah, should pay $40—Lillian paid the bet while Negrin, former premier of Spain, was visiting backstage. Tallulah, who had made anonymous contributions to aid loyalist refugees, turned the $40 over to the Catholic Actors Guild.

12 P. M.: "I just saw "Confessions of a Nazi Spy," and liked it for three reasons," states Attorney General Frank Murphy, at "21." "It's a good picture, it's anti-isms, and it's good propaganda for switching the espionage service to our Federal Bureau of Investigation" . . . "Judge James Noonan, who successfully defended Dutch Schultz, will replace Martin Conboy as chief counsel for Judge Manton," a legalite informs at Leon & Eddie's. "And Noonan once worked under Conboy" . . . "I saw Douglas Corrigan, and he's Hollywood-wise now," a film executive reports at the Chateau Moderne. "I asked him how, when he first landed in Ireland, he knew it wasn't Los Angeles. He replied: 'I knew it wasn't Hollywood—because I heard nobody saying 'Yes'" . . . "Arthur Byron, head of Equity, just was stricken," a publicist states at Sardi's. "He was rushed to a Hollywood hospital."

1 A. M.: "Mae West will return this week," a producer reports at the Paradise. "She'll open her new show in Boston next month, and in New York four weeks later" . . . "When Clifton Webb worked for M.-G.-M.," an editor relates at Tony's, "Bill LeBaron wanted him to appear in 'Burlesque,' but Webb refused—and, while collecting his salary for three years, never appeared in a movie. So next month Clifton will start the summer stock season in Great Neck—by appearing in 'Burlesque'" . . . "The newspapers are wrong, when they say I've been married five times," Marion Pierce assures at the Tavern. "I've only been married twice."

2 A. M.: "Mrs. Jimmy Roosevelt just bought her new clothes, for the White House reception to Their Majesties," a ringsider states at the Famous Door." "Jorge Sanchez, Tom Cassara and I bought 120 acres in the Florida Everglades," Joe Lewis elates at the Eighteen Club. "I just got word today that we struck oil, after digging 5,000 feet."

4 A. M.: "When M.-G.-M. screens 'Nick Carter,' a movie agent declares at the Swing Club, "Carter will be 20 years older than when he was the detective character in the dime novels. This, because the generation which read about him now has grown up—and Nick Carter will age the same number of years" . . . "Coming East, I was on the same train with Mitchell Hepburn, the Canadian official," Naomi Shaw informs at the Gay 90's. "I asked him about the rumor that the British capital would be switched to Canada in case of war. Hepburn said: 'That won't happen for 20 years.'"

5 A. M.: "Sam Levene went to Hollywood and was induced to buy formal attire for $330." Paul Stewart relates at the Onyx. "Sam wore those clothes to a premiere, was asked for his autograph and said: 'It was worth the money'" . . . "Arnold Reuben just tendered a benefit show," an agent states at La Conga. "spent all that money for charity—and wound up losing his $1,600 diamond."

6 A. M.: . . . "and I forgot to tell you . . . While you were sleeping, I took the baby to the Cotton Club . . . Oh, it was in the afternoon . . . Yes, dear—he liked it . . . He's the youngest man ever carried out of a Broadway night club."

In Hollywood

With Hedda Hopper

Hollywood, Calif., May 9.—Darryl Zanuck has a winner in "Rose of Washington Square." It has heart, humanity and memories. Alice Faye, Ty Power and Al Jolson are grand. The part is right up Ty's alley, and in his hey-day Jolson never sang better. He should really be the model for all gentlemen. A sylph-like waistline, a springiness to his step, and better dance steps than he did at the old Winter Garden. And if Alice Faye insists upon getting better in each picture, we'll have to liken her to the great actresses of history. That girl breaks your heart.

HOPPER

Behavior-Bad-Goo.

Martha Raye's going to win herself enemies, not friends, if she keeps on making faces while Judy Starr sings. Just because the latter's escort happened to be Buddy Westmore.

The fact that George Raft is a nice guy and a softie for a sob story even penetrated through prison walls. On his recent trip east, Prison Chaplain Wall, of Columbus, Ohio, sent Raft a letter from Jackson Homer, about to be electrocuted, asking Raft if he would bury him next to his mother. George not only did, but addad a headstone.

If something concrete is ever done for our extras by the motion picture industry, George would be the one to head that organization. He does more for them out of his own pocket, than any other actor in town. And won't talk about it!

Paul Muni goes nude in his next picture, "We Are Not Alone." Plays an English doctor, and for the first time since "Hi Nellie", uses his own face, without mustache, beard or padding. You know, the real Muni face is much nicer than any of those make-ups.

The other day a man barged into Paulette Goddard's car and pleaded for an autograph. "Please, can I have it so I can get some rest?" She started to sign when he said: "No. It's for my wife. She wants Charlie Chaplin's I've been his milkman for eight years and I ain't seen him yet."

For the past week George Brent has been poison in his clinches with Myrna Loy. Got that way from pulling up fence posts on his ranch. You said it—poison oak is hot, but not for love scenes.

It's not always the older people who suffer in Hollywood. Ran into Constance Worth, the former Mrs. George Brent. She's lost 20 pounds since her three months' nervous breakdown. Once young, vital. Now, nerve-shattered and forgotten. Another unsung Hollywood victim.

Standing in Line

Nicholai Yoshkin, the dark horse in "Nazi Spy," will play the young lover of Anna Sten in "Nothing Private" at Santa Barbara after he finishes "Career Man." It was Marlene Dietrich who encouraged him to stay on here and try for a movie career. Marlene has helped many, and what do we do for her? Nothing!

Since Barbara O'Neil finished her role in "The Sun Never Sets" she's been tested for two important parts and by the time you read this, she may already have been signed for "Rebecca." They rushed Leslie Howard's scenes on "Gone" so he could start "Rebecca," which gives Clark Gable a week for harvesting!

Wait until you girls see Errol Flynn in "The Knight and the Lady" with his face framed in exquisite white ruchings and an eyelash beard. You'll be sending your souvenirs to him. But he'll have to divide the spoils with Laurence Olivier, as far as I'm concerned.

And my secretary's so dotty about him, I dictate while facing his picture. Did I say one? She's got six—the lug! And we look out on orange trees and talisman ramblers! With spring in the air!!

Barrymore Song Planned for Film

The musical motive culled from one of Lionel Barrymore's compositions and used in the score of "Calling Dr. Kildare" may result in the star's becoming a full-fledged score composer. Nat W. Finston, head of the studio music department, has asked Barrymore to "sit in" and help compose the score for "On Borrowed Time."

Finston hopes to include in the score a bit of the song Barrymore composed for Ernestine Schumann-Heink, at her request. The public has never heard it, as the singer died before she had an opportunity to sing it. The song was set to a favorite poem of hers, by Heinrich Heine, which she brought to Barrymore with the request for a composition. Up to now Barrymore's musical composing has been solely for his own amusement.

Massey Gets Award For Lincoln Role

Special Dispatch to The Post.

New York, May 9.—Raymond Massey, star of the Pulitzer prize-winning play "Abe Lincoln in Illinois," by Robert E. Sherwood, was awarded today the Delia Austrian Medal of the Drama League of New York for the most distinguished performance of the 1938-39 theatrical season.

In accepting the award, Massey said he felt the character he portrayed was "the greatest American that ever lived." Of Sherwood, the actor declared that the award was only partly given to himself and reflected "great dignity on a very great playwright."

News of Capital Night Clubs

By Mary Harris

ALL ASHORE! "Never trust a sailboat," says Peggy Townsend, society girl singer of the Cafe Caprice.

Peggy and her cocker spaniel, Monk, took a fine ducking, might have been the first Potomac casualties of the summer, when a tricky little sailboat capsized last weekend. And with both Peggy and Monk caught under the sail as the boat went over! Peggy was sailing the little craft solo. She says, "Well, we swam and we swam, just like two of the 'Three Little Fishies.' Did Monk help me ashore? Fooey! I had to rescue Monky."

PRINCELY BREAKFAST: Denmark's Prince Frederick ordered cold ham, tomatoes and rye bread for his first breakfast in Washington. Shoreham's Chef Jacques Haeringer turned to his staff and said, "I told you not to worry about the Prince's visit, that he was a person of very simple tastes."

TROIKA'S COOL: Troika's new cooling system is being applauded as vigorously as it's floor shows. The system is one of the new triple purpose type, meaning that it will provide even temperature and rapid ventilation in spring and fall, heating in winter and cooling in summer. The aim will be to provide airy comfort at all seasons, with a maximum summer drop of 15 degrees below outside heat.

FACES AND PLACES: In the Mayflower Lounge: Tommy (the Cork) Corcoran with Charlie Michelson and his niece, Mrs. John Bitter, of Jacksonville, Fla. Dick Coons didn't miss playing "Home On the Range" for this trio . . . "Pretty Peggy" was revived for Hollywood's Earl Carroll.

Around the Carlton: Dr. Stanley High . . . G. O. P. Headman (not headsman) John D. M. Hamilton . . . Writer Frederick William Wile . . . School Superintendent Frank Ballou.

MADRILLON GOES SOUTH: Today is "Deep South Day" at Madrillon. You'll find rare dishes from the cuisine of Charleston, S. C., made from recipes written down in family cookbooks more than a century ago. Madrillon's Peter Borras is especially enthusiastic about Charleston cookery, says that it compares favorably with that of France, is a "slowly ripened combination of French and Negro cookery."

TANGO DERIVATION: That's not an Argentine gaucho dance that Marion Wilkons does so flamingly in goucho costume in the Shoreham Blue Room, it's the ancient folk dance on which the modern tango is based. You should be able to trace the relationship when Helene and Donaldson later step on with a tango a la 1939. Kirk and Lawrence's "horsie" act was greeted with glad shouts of "Hi Yo, Silver!" from Blue Room customers.

FLYING LOW RUMORS: That one of Al Simmonds' (Brown Derby) ducks is now setting on two pigeons' eggs, an ostrich egg and a baseball autographed by Babe Ruth.

That Paul Kain (Metronome Room) has finally given a name to his midnight jam session. It's "Figure in F." Why not "Figure in the Fourth Dimension?"

That Oscar, of the Hi Hat, is going to break out his six bottles of historic home brew (circa 1931) as a special surprise at his Hi Hat anniversary party on June 1.

The Three G's, singing stars of the Cecil Golly orchestra ("Music, by Golly!") arriving at Glen Echo next Monday

FOUR FROCKS IN ONE: When Anton and Du Barry go into their first picture dance at Bamboo Gardens, folks gasp at her lovely gown of sapphire blue velvet with petticoats of green and violet. Then Anton fiddles with the back of her gown and, presto, she's in violet chiffon. The same trick reveals her in aquamarine chiffon, which is shed to show the glove-fitting frock of green satin worn for the final cakewalk number. The dancing of Anton and Du Barry is equal to their showmanship in costuming. They rank easily among the best dance teams visiting Washington this season.

COTTON IS QUEEN at the Hour Glass this afternoon at 5. The weekly style show will feature seductive negligees, sporty slacks, pretty dresses—all in cotton.

PARTY FOR JUDY: When Judy Ellington comes to the Capitol Theater next week one of her first visits will be at the Lotus, where a big Saturday eve party will be given in her honor. Judy's first professional engagement was at the Lotus where she sang for three years before joining Russ Morgan's band. Since then she's sung with the orchestras of Rudy Valleee, Clyde McCory, Buddy Rogers and Clyde Barnett.

ECHOES ACROSS TABLES: At the Lounge Riviera: They wouldn't let me and my pal into the place. Claimed we were just a couple of unescorted men . . . In the Rainbow Room: So I put another mortgage on the house so I could pay the taxes . . . At Pall Mall: The way to have interesting dreams is to read yourself to sleep on these true detective stories. You wake up hollering, "Call the sheriff!" . . . In Mayfair: I can't get the right answer out of him unless I ask him the wrong questions . . . In the Pirates' Den: This Britisher who's just gotten his American citizenship gives me too many laughs. He's always saying, "Now that I'm an American subject."

TREATS IN MUSIC: That funny old tune, "Beer Barrel Polka" as played by Matt Windsor in the Anchor Room. A glass of imported beer goes well with it.

Those Hawaiian melodies with a dreamy thrill being played by Johnny De Leon and his Hawaiians in the Neptune Room. A Hawaiian cooler is a good liquid accompaniment.

 WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, MAY 10, 1939 21

Red Sox Beat Browns, 10-8, in 10th, Keep Lead

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—One of the more incredible developments in the American League pennant race has its locale here in Detroit. In case you hadn't noticed, we cite the fact that the team now very unbecomingly occupying the league cellar is the Detroit Tigers.

POVICH

Del Baker's Tigers can show only six victories in 18 games this season and if you don't think the wolves are howling, you never heard a pack of grandstand customers in full cry for a manager's scalp. The unfortunate Mr. Baker may have reason to rue the day he exchanged the security of a coaching job for the management of the Detroit club.

Baker was doing very well for himself as a coach for the Tigers during the years when Manager Mickey Cochrane was in the driver's seat. He was a highly respected coach, drawing $8,000 a year in salary, and working for the type of ownership that gave him a gratuitous $9,000 bonus in 1937. Thus he drew $17,000 as a coach.

And he was out from under all responsibility. When the Tigers won ball games, it was sort of conceded that Baker's smart coaching was a potent factor. He was a smart coach and credit naturally gravitated to him. But when the Tigers lost ball games, it was Manager Mickey Cochrane who was held strictly to account. There was no rap for Baker to take. Everybody knew he was a smart coach.

Gambled on Managers Job

He might have gone along for years, collecting that steady salary, but when Mickey Cochrane was fired last summer, and the managers job beckoned Baker, he took it, of course. The pay was better, and there was the glory, too. The only thing the job didn't carry with it was the security of a coaching job. And Baker apparently was willing to gamble on that.

But the Detroit ownership, with the taste of two pennant victories on its palate, is very naturally hungering for another helping, and certainly it will not tolerate a second division club. It may be no better than a second division team that Baker is working with, but that is beside the point. Club owners rarely take that sort of reasoning into account. And they get very panicky when the customers start booing their managers. Unless there is a marked change in the Tigers fortunes, Baker is not long for the Tigers management.

Art Fletcher, of the Yankees, appreciates the security of a coaching job. Fletcher could have been manager of the Yankees following the death of Miller Huggins. The job was offered to him. He turned it down flat. He was doing very nicely in his $10,000-a-year coaching job and he wanted to keep it. He didn't want to expose himself to the hazards of a losing team or a club owners disappointments.

And Fletcher is still probably slapping himself on the back for that decision. He saw old Bob Shawkey, the Yankees pitcher, take the managing job and last only one year, before he was bounced out of it. Fletcher didn't want that sort of fate. Shawkey is now out of baseball, doing the best he can, but Fletcher continues to draw down his 10 grand a year as a Yankee third base coach, and you can't beat the hours. Why, on some days when the Yankees are facing left-handed pitching, Fletcher doesn't have any work to do at all. The Yankees don't get a runner as far as third base.

Given Bum Steer on $50,000 Rookie

But getting back to Baker, and to do that we must go to the bottom of the league, the poor fellow was sadly betrayed at the outset of the season. He was pitching his star young Freddie Hutchinson, and he was given a bum steer on that young man by his scouts.

Baker knew that the Tigers were woefully weak in their pitching, what with the Schoolboy Rowe a great uncertainty, and thus it was he approved the purchase of Hutchinson after his scouts had recommended the lad as a $50,000 pitcher. But Hutch let him down badly, showing few earmarks of a major leaguer, and only last week was farmed out to Toledo.

Lack of pitching is profaning what otherwise is a swell ball club at Detroit. No other club can show such a concentration of long range power as is represented by Greenberg, Gehringer and York. Yet the Tigers aren't winning because, aside from Tommy Bridges, they do not have pitching. And their outfield, incidentally, does not measure up to big league stuff, what with rookie Barney McCoskey proving something of a flash in the pan after a sensational start.

It all adds up to a very unfortunate condition for Del Baker. It is not unreasonable to presume that he may get the sack even as did Mickey Cochrane. Mr. Walter O. Briggs, who owns the Tigers, is essentially a business man. There is no mystery as to why Mr. Briggs fired Cochrane.

He fired Cochrane because, after giving Mickey $75,000 to buy Al Simmons in 1936, Cochrane sold Simmons to the Washington club for $7,500 in 1937. That didn't seem like good business to Mr. Briggs and Cochrane got the sack.

Well, last winter Briggs virtually gave Baker $50,000 to buy young Hutchinson from the Coast league. And less than two weeks after the season starts, young Hutchinson is at the Tigers' Toledo farm, a colossal flop. To Mr. Briggs that doesn't add up to good business, either.

And with the wolves beginning to howl, and the Tigers buried in the second division, Baker has reason to long for the security of his old coaching job.

On the Line

With CONSIDINE

New York, May 9.—No one doubts the sincerity of tennis player Bunny Austin's "moral rearmament" program, by which he hopes to reconstruct the spirit of this Hooligan world by grafting on to it the simple rules of sportmanship. Once the transplanting is complete, he reasonably believes that there can be no more war, thievery, slavery and the other popular evils. His problem is simply to get the world to obey the rules.

CONSIDINE

This sensitive young man, who is the first prophet in history ever to suffer from a tennis elbow, has made some genuine strides in bringing his gospel into America. He appeared before a hard-bitten audience at the Polo Grounds yesterday and was given a time on the microphone by Arch McDonald. Before that he had spoken to a luncheon board attended by prominent sports figures. Next Sunday he will take over Madison Square Garden and will open its doors to all who believe that strife—international, domestic and within a family—is a state of mind that can be cured by taking moral examples from the fields of sport.

Athletes Apostles of "Seed-Spreading"

Austin has chosen athletes as the apostles of his seed-spreading because the interest in a muscle man, or moll, is univeral. Such men as Babe Ruth, Henry Armstrong, Don Budge, Glenn Cunningham, Joe DiMaggio, Bobby Jones, Connie Mack, Davey O'Brien, Gene Tunney, Bill Terry, Joe McCarthy, Dan Ferris and Devereux Wilburn signed the preliminary call to arms which said, among other things:

"Moral rearmament means sportsmanship everywhere. It means teamwork, fair play and clean living—personally and nationally . . . A program of moral rearmament accepted personally by sportsmen can create a new moral fibre in the Nation, which the President calls 'the underlying strength of citizenship' . . . Sport unites the Nation on sandlot, court and stadium. A new sporting spirit can unite the nation in office, workshop and home. We can get all the conflicting forces of America to play ball . . ."

They have been trying this throughout the world since the sun spun us out into space like a clay pigeon. And about the only man who ever made it stick was the man who said, "if you would find eternal life, love the Lord thy God with thy whole heart, thy whole soul and thy whole mind, and love thy neighbor as thyself."

Austin's movement restates the golden rule, but it diffuses the inconquerable simplicity of it, as any restatement would. There isn't much doubt that almost without exception—right down the line from Babe Ruth to Henry Armstrong—the apostles of moral rearmament are a little troubled as to just how to spread the word. It will be too abstract for them to disseminate, and too flimsy for the public to sink in a fang.

England for Moral Re-armament

England and the Scandanavian countries have gone enthusiastically for moral rearmament. Queen Wilhemina of Holland has made it the new theme of her reign, and other Europeans in high places have seized upon it as a durable straw to avert the tidal wave that is always about to roll over them.

Here in America it will be harder to sell, as much as we too want peace. For one thing a lot of us have come to look with a fish eye on many of the sports, and hypocritical businesses that parade as sports. But even that could be attended too, with the proper reforms, and still the sight of a man hitting a three bagger wouldn't keep a man from gypping his brother in a business deal, starting a war, or beating his wife out of season. Over here nobody is spiking our drinks with doom.

What young Mr. Austin needs most at this time, and he can fill the bill himself, for he is perhaps the most articulate man in athletics today, is a parable finder. The greatest man who ever lived spoke in parables, probably, because it was a simple way of getting his message over to the ignorant and the unenlightened and the rest-group that wanted to go down the public square and buy a tankard of dago red.

Moral rearmament, through sports, needs someone of dignity and liveliness who can say, "at that time there lived a man named Walter Johnson and he went down to a home plate one day—when his teammates were about to brain an umpire for calling Johnson's last pitch a 'ball'—and he said unto them, 'why don't you bums shut up? That ball missed the dish by a good inch.'"

The concrete is what this beautiful dream of Austin's needs. Only by concrete example will his message ever sink into the hide of Gus fan, that coatless mugg of the bleachers.

Nats May Secure Weatherly of Indians

Griff Seeking Outfielder and Pitcher To Bolster Faltering Nats; Harris Scours Big Leagues for Material

By Shirley Povich.

A Staff Correspondent.

Detroit, May 9.—If you hear that piercing shriek and a cry for help in the blackness of the Nats' outlook, do not be unduly surprised. It is merely Bucky Harris, pained no little by five straight defeats, and calling on Clark Griffith for assistance.

The Nats were rained out today in Cleveland, but Manager Harris was not idle. He was surveying the league picture with great intensity this afternoon, communicating with Owner Griffith by long distance telephone, and attempting to swing deals that would bring the Nats:

(1) Another outfielder.

(2) At least one more pitcher.

Harris himself, is uncommunicative, but there is evidence that has ha stalked trade with Manager Oscar Vitt of the Indians, with an eye to acquiring one of Vitt's surplus outfielders.

For two years the Nats have been covetously eyeing big Julius Solters, a right-handed hitter, who has not distinguised himself with Cleveland after proving a star with the Browns. But Vitt is showing no inclination to part with Solters who finally is beginning to hit.

The outfielder the Nats may, conceivably, come up with is little Roy Weatherly, the 5-foot-6-inch flash, with whom Harris believes Vitt would part. The fact that Weatherly would be another left-handed hitter on a club already top-heavy with left-handers is not cutting a great figure with Harris who is somewhat desperate.

In view of the Nats' lack of trading material; any deal with the Cleveland team would be on a cash basis.

The need for another outfielder has been occasioned by the woeful batting slump of the veteran Sammy West and Rookie Bobbie Estalella. West, who has been getting the leftfield assignments against right-handed pitching, has been little help to the club, and of late Estalella has been benched against left-handed pitching in favor of Rookie Johnny Welaj.

Welaj, a superlative fielder and a tolerable hitter, lacks the power Harris is seeking for his batting order. Weatherly, not a long hitter, is a sharp hitter, and his speed is a potent recommendation. Harris is reasoning that the Nats will face right-handed pitching far more frequently than they will meet up with lefthanders and thus Weatherly would be acceptable.

One of the fastest men in the league, little Weatherly would be a powerful combination with George Case in the Nats' batting order. Currently he is hitting .417 for the Indians in nine games, a figure that Manager Vitt yesterday acknowledged is "far over his head." Vitt spoke disparagingly of Weatherly, thus creating the belief he would trade him.

Harris is at a loss to know where to turn for pitching help, and is resigned virtually to waiting until May 23, when the clubs must prune down to the player limit of 25. He is scanning the waiver lists and has

Du Pont Group Incorporates For Md. Racing

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, May 9.—State tax commission records disclosed today William J. duPont, jr., and a group of Delaware associates, incorporated the Cecil County Breeders Fair Association May 1, with corporate powers broad enough to permit horse racing.

At the same time, the State racing commission reported the group's annual request for one day of racing had been approved for September 16. During the last few years duPont and others have held a one-day race meeting at Fair Hill, near Elkton, widely attended by Maryland and Delaware society.

Under the incorporation papers, the association lists its principal purpose promotion of agricultural pursuits with emphasis on livestock breeding. Horse racing and "trials of speed" would be held in connection with this activity, the documents state.

With duPont as incorporators were John W. McComb, Edmund C McCune, John K. Carrigues and Guy E. Sawyer, all of Wilmington, Del. Harold Strahorn, of Fair Hill, was listed as resident manager.

At the racing commission's office it was said the Cecil County organization had made no move to seek additional racing days, but that facilities at Fair Hill probably would be suitable for a half-mile track similar to those operated at Cumberland, Hagerstown, Bel Air and Upper Marlboro.

Hoya Netmen Beat Lafayette

The Georgetown University tennis team won its fifth victory in seven matches this season yesterday by defeating Lafayette, 6-3, on the Hilltop courts.

The Hoyas took four of six singles matches, two of three doubles.

Singles—Owens (G.) defeated Epstein, 6—2, 6—4; Lee (G.) defeated Citron, 6—2, 6—3; Griffiths (L.) defeated Crosby, 6—3, 6—1; Anstett (L.) defeated Green, 6—0, 6—4, 7—5; Hruby (G.) defeated Danby, 6—2, 6—4; O'Connor (G.) defeated Ward, 8—6, 6—3.

Doubles—Epstein and Anstett (L.) defeated Owens and Lee, 7—5, 6—1; Green and O'Connor (G.) defeated Griffiths and Miller, 8—7, 6—1, 3—1; Lafayette defaulted; Redmond and Deegan (G.) defeated Citron and Danby, 6—2, 7—5.

Navy Crew Coach Plans Big Shake-up

By the Associated Press.

Annapolis, May 9.—If crew races were rowed on a great circle course, Navy's galley would be unbeatable—but Coach Buck Walsh plans a shake-up in his boatings because his boys can't stick to the straight and narrow.

Navy's defeat by Cornell Saturday in the season's top upset was directly attributed to ring-around-rosy navigating.

Walsh said Coxswain Virgil (Pappy) Hancock was forced to use a 15-degree starboard rudder all the way down the course to correct the excess power of the Navy's starboard oarsmen. (It was reliably estimated the crew would be somewhere off Coco Solo now if Hancock hadn't heaved the tiller hard over constantly.)

Cut Navy Speed

The drag of the rudder in the haul down the Severn indubitably cut down Navy by several lengths, and the big red took every advantage

One for the Book—Opposing Pitchers Hurl No-Hit Games

By the Associated Press.

Franklin, N. J., May 9.—Frank Christiana, of Franklin High School, hurled a no-hit baseball game today but lost—his opposing pitcher, Ed Yambor, of Hawthorne High, excelled him and twirled a no-hit, no-runner.

Yambor fanned 12 men during the seven inning contest and received much better support than his luckless opponent to win, 1 to 0. Yambor's battery mate, Jack Stubeck, reached first on an error in the sixth, stole second and went to third on a bad throw by the catcher and then stole home with the only run.

Reds Release Weaver To Louisville Club

Philadelphia, May 9 (INS).—Manager Bill McKechnie, of the Cincinnati Reds, announced tonight that Pitcher Jim Weaver had been released outright to the Louisville Club of the American Association. Weaver, a 6 foot 6 inch right-hander scaling 230 pounds, is 33 and a veteran of ten seasons in baseball.

Cubs Defeat Giants, 11-7, In Weird Game

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 9.—The Chicago Cubs, after booting a four-run lead in the earlier frames, scored four times in the eighth inning today to whip the Giants 11 to 7 in a wierd ball game and climb into the .500 class for the season.

The Cubs used four pitchers and the Giants five before the loose contest ended. Dizzy Dean was "shooed" from the Cub bench by the umpires in the third for razzing their decisions.

The Cubs collected 15 hits, with Stan Hack and Augie Galan each contributing four to the attack. They scored four runs off Manuel Salvo in the first four frames and added three in the sixth, but the Giants came back to tie it up and belt Gene Lillard off the mound with a four-run blast in the sixth, before the Cubs clinched the decision in the eighth.

Ted Williams Homers With Two on Base

St. Louis Overcomes 4-Run Disadvantage To Tie Count in 8th Foxx Also Homers

St. Louis, May 9 (AP).—The St. Louis Brownies again outhit their opponents today, but weak pitching in the clinches put the Boston Red Sox in the pay column with a 10 to 8 victory that enabled them to hold the lead in the American League race.

Big Theo Williams, Boston outfielder, drove in the winning runs with a long homer to the pavilion roof with two mates on in the tenth inning.

Joe Vosmik and Jimmy Foxx had opened the inning with successive singles off Ed Cole, the Browns' third relief pitcher, after the St. Louisans had overcome a four-run disadvantage to tie the score at 7-7 in the eighth. The Browns scored one in their half of the tenth.

Harland Clift started the Brownie rally in the seventh by popping a single to center with two away. Then Beau Bell, who has been warming the bench most of the season, hit the pavilion shingles for a home run.

Mel Almada and Billy Sullivan, both pinch batters, figured in knotting the count and finished off Jim Bagby, who gave up 13 hits before being replaced by Joe Heving. Almada batted for Joe Gleen and doubled, then Sullivan dropped one on the pavilion roof.

Jimmy Foxx also clouted a homer for Boston in the sixth, scoring two runs ahead of him.

The hits were 17 for the Browns and 14 for the Sox.

After the game the entire Boston club boarded chartered airplanes for an evening trip to Chicago where they play tomorrow.

Yankees Defeat White Sox, 8 to 6

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 9.—The New York Yankees put on a typical ninth-inning rally at the expense of their old jinx, Lefty Thornton Lee, today to nip the White Sox, 8 to 6, in the "rubber" tilt of the three-game series.

The world champions collected a total of 16 hits, but not until the ninth, when they connected for three runs, did they put the game away. Rookie Joe Gallagher hit a homer for the champions in the second.

The Sox, after going down scoreless before Steve Sundra for three frames, scored four in the fourth to tie it up, and had two across in the ninth, with the tying runs on base and two out, when Luke Appling's base hit struck Marv Owen in the foot, automatically ending the threat.

Eric McNair, second baseman, was forced out of the lineup in the seventh inning with an injured ankle. He was hurt in the sixth when he collided with Joe Gallagher at second while completing a double play.

Sent to a hospital after the game, McNair was told the tissues around his ankle had been torn and that he would probably be forced out of the line-up for a few days. Al Bejma, veteran utility infielder, who replaced him today is expected to handle the post while he is absent.

Indian Spring, Manor Score in D. C. Women's Team Golf

Washington And Argyle Defeated

Chevy Chase Beats Army-Navy; C. C. C. Trims Woodmont; Host Team Draws Bye

By Merrell W. Whittlesey.

First team matches of the Women's District Golf Association continued at their amazingly consistent pace yesterday at Congressional, Indian Spring's defending champions blanking Argyle 12-0 and Manor's well balanced octet scoring an 11-1 victory over Washington in the feature encounters.

Chevy Chase scored as expected over Army and Navy, 8½ to 3½, while in a battle for sixth place Columbia scored over Woodmont by a like margin. The hosts drew a bye due to Beaver Dam's withdrawl of last week.

Mrs. Stokes Scores 83

Mrs. Walter R. Stokes, No. 2 player of Indian Spring, had the lowest card of the champions and leaders, an 83, that was also best score of the day. The round stamps Mrs. Stokes as a real threat in the Maryland State Women's championship at Congressional next week.

Marion Brown had an 85 as she led her Manor team to the 11-1 victory over Washington, the worst defeat suffered by the losers and it marked Manor's thirty-third point out of a possible 36 in three matches. Indian Spring has scored 38 out of 48, but have played tougher opposition.

Louise Claytor and Mrs. Y. E. Booker scored the only clean sweep for Chevy Chase in its victory over the service club, while in the top foursome, Mrs. Bishop Hill and Mrs. Landra Platt won two ways over Mrs. David Clark and Mrs. Hume Peabody.

Remains on Top

After breaking even in the first two matches, Columbia scored 5½ points in the last two foursomes to score over Woodmont.

Indian Spring remained at the top of the standings by a two-point margin over Manor, that has played one less match. Chevy Chase moved in ahead of Congressional, while Army-Navy dropped to fifth place.

Several other of the players were also well under 90. Mrs. Charlotte Sterm, Louise Claytor, Mrs. Betty Meckley and Mrs. L. G. Pray.

Indian Spring and Congressional will meet in Friday's top match at Woodmont. Manor and Columbia, Army and Navy vs. Washington and Chevy Chase opposing Argyle are other matches.

Army and Navy linkswomen scored in both second and third team play, and Congressional in second team play at Chevy Chase.

Baering Down

By Arthur "Bugs" Baer.

Senate just added $383,000 to the agricultural bill and it looks like free seeds will hang up a new high for costs.

That means the farmers will get $1,000,000,000 to keep th wolf from the adding machine and give Cinderella hot foot.

Looks like the Senate got tired of pinching pennies and said to itself: "If we can't pull ourselves up by our bootstraps, let's buy better boots."

H. Dettweiler Shuns Md. Title Golf Play

Two-Time Winner Of Event Which Will Start Tuesday

Helen Dettweiler, two-time Maryland State champion, will not defend her title in the championship next week at Congressional, as she will not be in town during the event, Tuesday through Saturday. It is the first time the tournament has ever been held in the District.

Winner the last two years at Baltimore C. C. and Elkridge, defeating Elizabeth Houghton, Chevy Chase, and Mrs. Jerome Sloman in the finals, the host club champion was a heavy favorite to repeat.

Mrs. Bishop Hill, Chevy Chase Club champion and one of the District's top contenders, will also be missing in the expected field of 75.

Baltimore will send last year's finalist, Mrs. Sloman; the many-time champion, Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow; Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg and several other players.

Mrs. Ralph W. Payne is accepting entries until Friday at 7 p. m. and stresses that every qualifier will be provided for in the match play rounds. As many flights as necessary to accommodate the field will be provided.

The tournament starts with a qualifying round Tuesday, with match play running through Friday. Monday the course will be open for practice. No visiting caddies will be allowed.

Navy Crew Coach Plans Shake-up

Walsh is satisfied with Irv Peters at bow, Fred Kittler, captain, at No. 3; Bill Hoqve, No. 5, and Neal Almgree at the seven oar.

Trouble is, they're too good. When the starboard four are going all out, the shell does a counter-clockwise, curve, most upsetting to a crew coach with ideas that the shortest distance to the finish is a straight line.

Walsh has not indicated the new deal he plans in re-shuffling the Navy crew to balance the motive power. He has two weeks to trim his boat before the Adams Cup regatta May 20.

The port water-wallopers are Tommy Walker at stroke, Louie Spear, No. 6; Guy Lucias, at No. 4; Sheldon Kinney, No.2. Walsh said they rowed a swell race Saturday, but were outhauled by the starboard four, who outweigh the port side by nearly seven pounds a man, 182¼ to 175½.

Walsh may attempt to teach some of the starboard hefties to swing a portside paddle to balance the ship, or some more powerful but less finished portsiders may be promoted from the jayvees.

Maryland Golfers Defeat Colonials

After tying George Washington University golfers in their first match, University of Maryland golfers yesterday defeated G. W., 5½ to 3½, at the Washington Country Club. Bill Rea, Maryland, shot a 75 low score.

Rae, Maryland, defeated Al Leigh Franc, 7 and 6; George DeWitt, Maryland, defeated Carl Betch, 6 and 5. Best ball, Maryland, 10 and 8.

Al Birmingham, G. W., defeated Jim Brownell, 2 and 1; Julian Murphy, Maryland, defeated "Goose" Gosling, 3 and 2. Best ball, G. W., 1 up.

Cedar Grove Nine Beats Pirates, 14-6

Cedar Grove, Md., May 9.—Cedar Grove baseball team, with a 14 to 6 defeat of the St. Leonard Pirates in its first game of the season, had high hopes of a good year in 1939. A total of 19 hits were rung up by the winners, R. Nutwell leading the pack with four safeties in six trips. V. Buckler, with four hits in five trips, paced the losers. The Pirates are slated to play Annapolis on Saturday and Owings on Sunday, both games at home.

McHale Named New Golf Pro At Saranac, N. Y.

Lewis Worsham, jr., assistant professional at Chevy Chase, has been advised by L. E. Slaughter, president of the Saranac Inn, N. Y., that Jimmy McHale, West Coast professional, has been given the pro post at the Inn for the summer season.

Worsham was a candidate for the job, held lest year by Benny Loving, and would have been named if something had prevented McHale' acceptance.

Raymond Willett, assistant pro at Woodmont, who worked with Benny Loving at Saranac last year, was offered the post but turned it down, and gave Worsham's name. Loving, former pro here did not return to Saranac as he signed for a year-round job in Massachusetts.

Bethesda C. C., Eastern Tie; Rain Ends Tilt

B. C. C. Lucky to Get 3-3 Deadlock Before Downpour Comes

Though it beat Bethesda-Chevy Chase in its first start of the season, Eastern's baseball forces was lucky to get a 3-to-3 deadlock yesterday in a return match at Garrett Park as a cloudburst brought hostilities to an end midway of the sixth inning.

Bethesda scored the tying run in the sixth, before rain halted proceedings, and a man was left on second in scoring position. Johnny Shumate started Bethesda's half by flying out to short, and Granville Custer also would have been out if Catcher O'Dea had caught the third strike. Custer got to first, however, and came over the plate a few seconds later on Eaton's ringing double. That was the end of things, players and spectators alike dashing for shelter as the rain came.

Star hitter for the Easterners was Rightfielder Cole, whose three times up resulted in a pair of singles. He drove across one of Eastern's two runs in the third. Warrent Earhardt and Johnny Deavers split the Tide mound assignment and dished out only three hits. The latter also drove one run in in the second with a fluke single.

Danny Wells went the distance for Bethesda and gave up six hits, seven bases on balls and fanned three. The only extra base hit, other than Eaton's double in the sixth, was a two-base smash by Custer in the first, scoring the first run of the game.

D. C. All-Stars To Play Sunday

An all-star team of the District's outstanding colored baseball players, using the name of Georgetown Athletics, will travel to Green Valley, Va., Sunday for a clash with another representative Washington nine, the Saint Cyrians. Under the direction of Georgetown's "Fatty" Lynch, the Athletics will present such stars as Goodman, Diggs, Blackman, Shaw and miller in the lineup. Manny Chambers, popular speedballer, will be on the mound.

Philly Girls Team Seeking Games Here

Those unlimited sandlot nines of Washington which have had trouble arranging games with out-of-town teams may be interested in contacting the Roborough Bobbies team, of Philadelphia.

The Bobbies are all grils, but they play a dazzling brand of hard ball, and they don't draw the line when male teams want a game. The club is fully uniformed, experienced and ready to travel. Just drop a line to Miss Dolores Guilfoyle, 4125 Pechin street, Roxborough, Philadelphia, Pa., and the Bobbies are practically on their way.

Horse Show At Marlboro Next Saturday

Plenty of Competition Expected From Local Hunters and Jumpers

The Marlboro Hunt Club's third annual horse show, scheduled for Saturday and Sunday at the fair grounds near Upper Marlboro, Md., is expected to attract plenty of competition not only from the ranks of local hunters and open jumpers, but also from the members of the younger geeration, who will exhibit their ponies Saturday morning.

Among the pony-riding citizenry is Dean Rathbun, jr., who plans to show his Rathbun's Rascal and Chit-Chat, a likely looking newcomer to shows this season. George Rexrode will bring out Pay Day, his consistent hunting pony, and other youthful exhibitors include Hubert Kleinpeter and Trotter, Bobby Harrison's Sonny, David Belding's Star Boy and Star Girl, Tommy Harris' Spotty, and many others.

In the two classes of the junior division, which includes either ponies or horses, will be Elaine McDowell with her smooth-performing hunter, Gay Melody, and her mother's mare, Modern Melody; Carroll Curran's St. Patrick, Eddie Talbert's Golden Glow, and Frank Christmas with Will Washburn's The Jitterbug.

The first session on Saturday afternoon has carded classes for road hacks, working hunters, open jumpers, novice and ladies' hunters, knockdown and out, handy jumpers, open hunters, pairs of hunters and road hacks.

Remington Defeats Warrenton Nine, 12-10

Special Dispatch to The Post

Warrenton, Va., May 9.—Remington defeated Warrenton, 12-10, here today in a free-hitting high school baseball game. Remington outhit the losers, 16-6, but was continually in hit water because of eight errors, which proved more costly than seven miscues charged to Warrenton.

Kirchner Hits Homer, W.-L. Triumphs, 12-6

Second Four Bagger In Two Days for W.-L. Star Features Tilt

Vincent Kirchner, Washington-Lee High's slugging third baseman, hit his second homer in two days yesterday to feature the Little Generals' 12 to 6 victory over Briarley Military Academy on the Arlington diamond. Kirchner's round trip hit came in the eighth, with French on base, and sewed up W.-L.'s tenth triumph of the season.

Washington-Lee led for the first five innings, single runs in the second and third and double tallies in the fourth and fifth putting it on the long end of a 6-2 lead. Then Briarley, with the four Lodge brothers playing an important part, broke into the game and tied matters with a four-run spree in the sixth. Three singles, two wild throws and a fielder's choice brought home the counters, and sent Eddie Johnson to the showers. Robertson, who relieved him, closed out the inning by fanning Pritchett.

Besides his home run, Kirchner's bat accounted for a double and single in five times up. French and Walker also hit well for the winners, the first with four singles in five trips, and Walker with three in four trips. Briarley's stars were M. Lodge and Winston, who hit safely two out of four.

Slattery Granted New N. Y. License

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 9.—Jimmy Slattery, who came out of Buffalo, N. Y., as a boxing stylist to win the world's light-heavyweight championship, today was granted a new license as a fighter by the New York State Athletic Commission. At 34, Slattery is planning a comeback.

He outpointed Young Stribling and Jack Delaney in 1924 and won N. B. A. recognition as 175-pound champion by defeating Maxie Rosenbloom in 1927. He was recognized as titleholder in New York State in 1930, when he outpointed Lou Scozza in 15 rounds, but held the title for only four months, when he lost it to Rosenbloom.

MRS. HARRIET GREEN

Mother Announces Marriage to Bill Green, Florida Golf Pro

By the Associated Press.

St. Louis, May 9.—The elopement and marriage of Harriet Bland, who was a member of the winning American women's relay track team at the 1936 Olympics in Berlin, was announced today by her mother, Mrs. Isabelle H. Bland.

She said her daughter, 24, and William Wallace Green, a golf professional in Florida during the winter seasons, were married at Union, Mo., February 13.

Green, 28, son of Mrs. Lenora Greenberg, of St. Louis, formerly attended Southern Methodist University, Dallas, Tex.

Mrs. Page Leads Southern Golf

Ponte Vedra, Fla., May 9 (AP).—In a par-shattering display of shotmaking, Mrs. Estelle Lawson Page, of Greensboro, N. C., led a classy field into the second round of the Women's Southern Golf championship today and further lessened the odds that het her out as the player to beat.

The North Carolina sharpshooter handed par a three-stroke beating over Ponte Vedra's ocean-front links to oust her first opponent, Mrs. Laurence Schwab, of Miami, Fla., 7 and 5, as intermittent showers drenched part of the lineup.

Miss Marion Miley, the defending champion, from Lexington, Ky., moved into the round of 16 players without difficulty, trouncing Mrs. W. L. Pierce, of Jacksonville, 7 and 5.

Upsets were turned in by Miss Peggy Brenchley, of New Orleans, who came from behind in the stretch to eliminate Mrs. R. E. Winger, of Fort Worth, Tex., and Mrs. Walter Lynch, of Jacksonville, victor in the day's lone extra hole fight by 1 up at 19 holes over Miss Frances Owen, of Jacksonville.

Bill Ackerman

on Fishing

There seems to be little doubt but what the run of rockfish has started in the Potomac, and any day now is a good day to give them a whirl. By that we don't mean that it is only necessary to go up to Joe Fletcher's, get a boat and haul them in. It is never quite that simple, and they aren't as numerous as they will be in another ten days or two weeks. However, there was a nice seven-pounder caught Friday right in front of the Pumphouse, and on Sunday, another large one that would scale close to that weight.

ACKERMAN

There is a great deal of truth in the saying, where there is smoke there is fire, and we firmly believe, where several stripers are being caught, there are others just as eager to take the angler's offering of bait, provided, of course, that it is what they are feeding on. And at the right time, for on the spawning run they don't feed so often or as heavily as they do later for their capacity is of course limited and is secondary to the urge of reproduction.

Walton's Meet

They have been caught on bloodworms as well as on cut bait. The 7-pounder was taken on a smelt minnow caught fresh with bloodworms in the shallow water along the bank. We think at the present time that is the best method—fishing the deep water with a bobber about 12 feet above the bait. The action might not be as fast, but there is more chance of taking the big ones. Cut herring, fished the same way, would be our second choice; then bloodworms. That is for warm, sunshiny weather. If it is cold and overcast, take the float off and fish near the bottom.

Meeting tonight at 8 o'clock in the Aquarium of the Department of Commerce of the Washington Chapter of the Izaak Walton League. Will you be there? On Friday evening, May 12, they will have a shad bake at Fort Belvoir down the Potomac. Action is to commence at 5 p. m.

Also on Friday evening, at the Gingham Club, will be the presentation dinner of the Potomac Power Squadron, when 55 new members will receive their "tickets." They represent the approximate 20 per cent who usually pass the examinations given after the winter classes on the ways and usage of our waterways, and for which nearly 300 started back in February.

Report on the hardhead fishing were varied over the week-end, with catches being made where they were most unexpected, as well as just the opposite—just enough to make us believe our prediction of several weeks ago, when we figured the best going would be after May 18, is working out.

Tarpon Fishing

In the Honga River and all along the Eastern Shore, where the season is always weeks earlier than on the western shore, many local anglers experienced tough luck; while at Thomas', off West River and in Herring Bay several nice catches were made. Bob Birchette, fishing just under the point near Franklin Manor had 17 big ones to show for several hours fun. Another had 13, while those who fished the Patuxent at Benedict had results varying from fair to good. But then—isn't that a typical early season payoff.

We reported more than a week ago the taking of a tarpon by commercial fishermen in the Newcommercial fishermen in the Newport River, North Carolina. That fish weighed 40 pounds. During the past week three more were caught by netters. This time more than 3 miles inside Hatteras Inlet, in the quiet waters of the sound. Might be rod and reelers could take a few—if they fished for them.

We have a single report that the channel bass have started to feed inshore. Will probably know more about it in time for those who have been wanting to go down for this coming week-end.

Rigid Rules For Olympic Qualifying

Tug Wilson Announces Qualifying Standards For Semifinal Tryouts

By the Associated Press.

New York, May 9.—Kenneth L. (Tug) Wilson, of Northwestern University, chairman of the American Olympic track and field committee, today announced rigid qualification standards for the semifinal 1940 Olympic tea mtryouts, to be held next spring.

To be eligible for these tests, runners will have to turn in the following performances:

For 100 yards, 9.8 seconds or 10.8 for 100 meters; 21.3 for 220 yards or 200 meters; 49.2 for 440 yards or 400 meters; 1:56 for 800 yards or 800 meters; 4 minutes for 1,500 meters or 4:20 for 1 mile; 15:20 for 5,000 meters or 9:40 for 2 miles, and 32 minutes for 10,000 meters.

Broad jump, 24 ft.; pole vault, 13 ft. 6 in.; shot put, 48 ft.; javelin throw, 200 ft.; hop, step and jump, 47 ft.; high jump, 6 ft. 4 in.; discus throw, 145 ft.; hammer throw, 160 ft.

Wilson also announced the minima set by the International Amateur Athletic Federation for qualifying rounds in the field events at the Olympic games proper at Helsingfors, Finland. These are:

High jump, 187 centimeters, or 6 ft. 1⅝ in. (185 cm. at Berlin in 1936); broad jump, 720 cm. or 23 ft. 6½ in. (715 cm. at Berlin); pole vault, 390 cm. or 12 ft. 9½ in. (380 ch. at Berlin); hop, step and jump, 14.50 meters, or 47 ft. 6⅜ in. (14 meters at Berlin); discus, 45 meters, or 147 ft. 7½ in. (44 meters at Berlin); javelin, 65 meters, or 213 ft. 3 in. (60 meters at Berlin); hammer throw, 49 meters, or 160 ft. 9 in. (56 meters at Berlin).

If you've never brought a big fighting tarpon to gaff, your angling thrill supreme still awaits you. Imagine trying to handle a 50 to 300 lb. sinewy, twisting, leaping fish on an 18 thread line for an hour or so—that's sport!

Useppa Inn, Useppa Island, Florida, between Boca Grande and Captiva Passes, most famous (and rightfully so) of all tarpon runs, is open to June. Pullman service to South Boca Grande or plane service via Tampa. Comfortable, club-like accommodations for the more discriminating sportsman. Also golf, bathing, tennis adjoining the Inn.

For boat guide, reservations, write or wire Mr. Floyd Alford, Manager, Useppa Inn, Useppa Island, Florida, or New York Office, 745 Fifth Avenue, New York City.

Terps Favored Today in Meet With Hoyas

Maryland Strongest In Years

Terrapins 2-Deep In Every Running Event. Georgetown Power Concentrated

By Jack Munhall.

It will be an unusual experience for Georgetown, long noted for great track teams, but this afternoon the Hoyas will be cast in the role of "Jack the Giant-Killer" as they face Mayland's undefeated Terrapins in a dual meet at College Park. Field events are called for 3:30, running events at 4.

Against one of the strongest Terrapin squads Swede Eppley has moulded, Georgetown will pit its meager array of only seven runners and two field men who are making their first dual meet appearance of the season. Against the Terrapins who are at least two deep for every running event the Hoyas can pit only five men, deemed capable of winning efforts, and since these must participate in more than one race the outlook is very gloomy.

However, Coach J. V. Mulligan wasn't exactly pessimistic last night as he called off his probable entries. He doesn't expect to extend the Terps who have easily won four meets and in the other tied with Datmouth on a disputed decision, which was reversed against them, but he does hope to a make a creditable showing.

Concentrated Strength

The Hoya running strength is concentrated in four men, Mort Alnwick, in the 100, 200 and broad jump; Vinnie Braun, in the 880 and mile; Al Frey, in the 440 and 880, and Charley Neumeyer in the hurdles. This quartet is supplemented by John Motzenbecker, Brue ettijohn and Dick Harris. The latter two are sprinters only.

The two Georgetown field entries are John Buckley, high jump and pole vault, and Joe Kilcullen, shot put and discus.

The Hoyas will start off with a 9-0 deficit, for they have decided to forfeit the 2-mile race rather than work a hardship on Braun, their only long-distance runner.

The highlights of the meet should be the hurdles and the dashes, for Georgetown will be best represented in these events. Numeyer, bespectacled G. U. hurdler, may give Maryland's Hermie Evans considerable opposition, althoug Evans has the advantage of steady competitive experience this spring, including 400-meter start in the Penn Relays, where he placed second to Duke's Herbie Reavis.

Close Competition

In the 100, 220 and broad jump there aws should be close action between Alnwick, of Georgetown, and Maryland's sensational sophomore, Joe Murphy, who has scored 15 points in each of his team's last three meets. Only last Saturday Murphy ran the century in .10 flat to beat Washington and Lee's highly touted Charlie Curl with ease and then walk away with first places in his other two specialties.

Alnwick's best chance for an upset victory would seem to be in the 100, which he has done in .10 flat.

Bruce Pettijohn and Dick Harris, who are more or less unknown quantities, will be entered with Alnwick in the 100 and 220, but neither appears able to touch Murphy.

Frey will run the 440 and 880 for Georgetown and in each race he will be stacked up against a Southern Conference champion. In the quarter he will face Alan Miller, and in the half, Jim Kehoe, who last Saturday smashed the Byrd Stadium record with a 1:54.3 effort.

Braun, Georgetown's only mile entry, has the unenviable task of dealing Mason Chronister his first dual meet loss this season. The lanky Maryland star hasn't even been extended by enemy opponents.

Terp Freshmen Defeat Tech's Track Team

Placing first in 10 out of 13 events, the Maryland University frosh trackmen defeated Tech High at College Park yesterday by a score of 73 to 44. The schoolboys' only victories were in the high jump, in which Johnny Gilmore and Barham tied for first with leaps of 5 feet 8 inches, and the 120-yard high hurdles. O'Brien won the latter event, beating out his teammate, Davis, and Hamaker, of Maryland, in 17.3 seconds. Bader, of the Terps, and Tech's Freddy Bach were deadlocked for first in the pole valut with a height of 10 feet 6 inches.

Warfield, middle distance runner of the young Terps, managed for 10 points when he took the 220 and 440 yard dashes. A feature of the meet was the mile run, in which Maryland's Sullivan and Steel placed one, two ahead of Tech's Bortel. The time was a slow :58. Wedding, top sprint man of the Manuel Trainers, was held to second places in the 220 and 100 yard dashes and the broad jump.

Nats Seeking New Outfielder, Pitcher

The Nats' pitching has taken a horrible nose dive with Jimmy DeShong and Pet Appleton as the chief offenders. DeShong has been a rank disappointment by his failure to win any of his three starts, and Appleton in two relief roles has been a pathetic flop.

Harris has reached the point of reasoning where he will start young Joe Haynes in an attempt to arrive at a new rotation of pitchers. Joe Krakauskas, Ken Chase, Dutch Leonard and Haynes now shape up as the Nats' regular hurlers, with Alex Alexander supplanting Appleton as the No. 1 relief pitcher.

Virginia U. Ace In I. C. 4-A Meet

New York, May 9 (AP).—The University of Virginia, elected to membership only recently, today entered one man in the sixty-third annual I. C. 4-A outdoor track championships, in which Southern California will defend the title May 26-27 at Randalls Island Stadium. The Cavalier entrant is Frank Fuller in the 120-yard high hurdles, an event he won in the Penn relays 10 days ago.

Together with Virginia's entry came those of Pennsylvania, Colgate, Bowdoin and West Virginia. Penn named 17 men for 14 of the 16 events, Bowdoin 8, Colgate 7 and West Virginia 1.

Wants Games

Georgetown A. C. wants an unlimited ball game any time this week. Those interested may call Michigan 2791.

They're Fined if They Do—Fined If They Don't

Salisbury, Md., May 9 (AP).—The Salisburg Indians—they're fined if they do and fined if they don't—were in the middle today between Maryland's blue laws and the Eastern Shore Baseball League's rules.

The players, seven ballpark employes and a couple of managers, were fined $5 yesterday for playing baseball on Sunday. The fines totaled $90. If they had not played Sunday, league rules would have fined them $100 and they would have forfeited the game.

The Easton, Md., club, which lost Sunday, 18-2, has not come into court for trial. Magistrate E. Sheldon Jones, official scorer for the Salisbury team last year, instructed Business Manager Melvin Murphy to bring them into court the next time they came here for a game.

Meanwhile, League President Harry Russell is mulling over a plea to permit Salisbury to give up Sunday games until the county votes on a pending blue law repealer referendum June 6.

Roosevelt Routs Terp Freshmen, 13-1

With two of its stars back in the line-up after being scholastically ineligible all season, Roosevelt High nine pounded two Maryland U. Frosh pitchers for ten hits and a 13-to-1 victory yesterday in a six-inning game. For the first time this season Ernie Travis and Johnny Thrift were in action, perhaps accounting for the Riders' top-heavy triumph. Travis was a standout gardener for Hargreave M. A. last year, and for the past two years Thrift has earned All-High recognition at third base.

Starting with the first period, in which it scored four times, Roosevelt was master of the Terp yearlings. Travis hit a double in the first with Jimmy Robertson on base. In its half of the inning, Maryland retaliated with a double by McHale, but the hitter died on base.

Eddie Vermillion started for the Riders, gave up three hits in four frames, and gave way to Billy Robertson, who issued no hits in two innings. It was the first mound assignment for Robertson this season. Woodward, of the Terps, pitched only the first inning, 4 runs scoring on two hits. Vannais finishe the game.

Hoyas, Navy Nines Resume Historic Ball Series Today

Loser of three straight games on its recent New York road trip, which dragged its record near the .500 level at six victories and four defeats, Georgetown University's nine hopes to snap back at Navy's expense this afternoon at Annapolis.

Lanky Vinnie Powers, sophomore right-hander who has slumped badly after flashing impressive early season form, is expected to get the nod for Georgetown, while the Middies plan to start Jerry Bruckel.

G.W. High Beats Georgetown Freshmen, 9-8

Alexandrians Bunch Hits in Last Three Innings to Triumph

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Alexandria, Va., May 9.—George Washington High School batters bunched hits in the last three innings to come from behind and take a 10-inning 9-8 decision from the Georgetown University freshman nine on the G. W. field here this afternoon. It was the Presidents' ninth victory in 12 starts and the Hoyas' second loss in three attempts.

Pitcher Eddie Nowland won his own game in the tenth, when he laced out a slashing double after "Specs" Parker had singled to place the winning run on base.

After Georgetown had shoved over two runs in the sixth to break a 6-all deadlock, the Presidents started their rally in the eighth when they scored one run on a double by Capt. Wilbur Robinson and an infield error. Three singles produced the tying run in the ninth, to set the stage for Nowland's game-winning two bagger.

The freshmen jumped off to the lead in the first inning when they shoved over four runs on a combination of hits and errors, but the Presidents came back in the next frame and took the lead with five runs, as the result of three costly infield miscues. Georgetown tied it up in the fourth with a single tally, and went out in front with two in the sixth, but thereafter Nowland hurled near-airtight ball while his mates sent the game into extra innings with the tying runs in the eighth and ninth.

Nowland went the full distance for the Presidents, giving up 11 safeties, while Jacques started for the frosh, but retired in the sixth in favor of McKay. The two George town hurlers yielded a total of 15 hits.

"Dink" Scott, G. W. centerfielder, topped the winners' attack with a triple and four singles in five trips to the plate, while "Buddy" Saffelle drove out three singles in six tries. Wnek, with three doubles in four appearances, paced the freshmen, while Mlynarski drove out a home run and two singles for the losers.

Roy Ryden Ties Course Record

Winchester, Va., May 9.—Roy Ryden, jr., combined rounds of 38 and 32 here today to tie the course record for the local golf club. His brilliant shooting marked the first time that the 70 posted last year by Peter Page had been duplicated.

Young Ryden was playing in a foursome with his father, Capt. Roy Ryden, U. S. N., and Ridge White and John Scully.

Ryden, who moved here from California last year, is considered the No. 1 player at the club and will play in that position on its golf team. On the West Coast he was rated with the Nation's top-flight stars.

Post Softball Team To Play Dixie Tavern

The Washington Post softball team, new entrant in the Prince Georges County League, will play the Dixie Tavern ten Sunday at 3 p. m. in its first league game at Magruder Park, Hyattsville.

The Post circulators will play the Metropolitan Bank and Manhattan Laundry teams Tuesday and Wednesday. Games may be scheduled by calling Len Acker at Georgetown 2390.

Reds Defeat Mulcahy and Phillies, 8-4

Damaging Home Run Attack Beats Hugh; Three Four Baggers

By the Associated Press.

Philadelphia, May 9.—A damaging home run attack today by the Cincinnati Reds spoiled Hugh Mulcahy's attempt to avenge himself of the defeat they handed him Sunday, and the Phillies went down, 8 to 4.

Just as they had done in the first game, the Reds jumped on Mulcahy in the first inning for a run. Then came Wally Berger with a homer in the second, Frank McCormick with his four-bagger in the fifth and Berger's second hoist on top of the leftfield roof and Mulcahy was trailing, 8 to 4.

Even between homers the Reds were dangerous. They rapped everything Mulcahy had to offer, and although the Phillies hit Lefty Grissom for three runs in the third and another in the fifth, there wasn't much chance for the Prothro clan.

Umpire Bill Klem celebrated his thirty-fifth anniversary as a major league umpire by working behind the plate. He started his career in Philadelphia at a Phillies-Pirates 10-inning affair.

Cards' 18-Hit Attack Routs Dodgers, 13-1

By the Associated Press.

Brooklyn, May 9.—The St. Louis Cardinals hammered Freddy Fitzsimmons to the showers in less than an inning today and went on from there with an 18-hit attack to slaughter the Dodgers 13 to 1, and take undisputed possession of second place in the National League.

They didn't need all that runmaking for Curt Davis tossed his second straight six-hitter in a week, and was in trouble only once, in the second inning when Dolph Camilli hit a homer for Brooklyn's only run.

Every one of the Cards' regulars hit safely at least once with the exception of Mickey Owen. Ducky Medwick, who hit a homer. Pepper Martin and Terry Moore each drove in three runs. Stu Martin, Terry Moore, Don Gutteridge and Davis himself each collected three hits.

Randolph-Macon Wins Track Meet

Special Dispatch to The Post.

Front Royal, Va., May 9.—Randolph Macon Academy defeated Culpeper High School in a field meet here this afternoon, 59 to 40. Fray, of Culpeper, won the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the low hurdles events, scoring 20 of his team's points. Fore won the quarter-mile and Huffman and Ryan tied for first place in the high jump, for Culpeper. For the Yellow Jackets Williams won the shotput and discus throw. Jones won the javelin throw and Alston was first in the broad jump. Randolph Macon made a clean sweep of the shotput and discus events.

The Brighter Side

By Damon Runyon

Written expressly for King Features Syndicate, Inc.
Distributed by International News Service

Mr. Charles H. Swisher, 250 Park Plaza, New York, says that the trouble with us and sweet potatoes is that we have never had them fixed just the right way.

RUNYON

He says he was born in the South and hated sweet potatoes like 60 most of his life because he had them friend for breakfast, cold for lunch and baked for dinner. He says he got so he could not look a sweet potato in the eye. For 20 years he was completely off sweet potatoes.

Then one day last summer, he was invited to dinner by a friend who had purchased a charcoal broiler outfit and all of Mr. Swisher's allergy to sweet potatoes returned when he saw the grill of the broiler loaded with them, covered with a pan.

However, he had to take a crack at them as a matter of etiquette and he says that after eating those sweet potatoes cooked this way, he discovered that he had just wasted the years of his abstinence. He says a sweet potato broiled on a charcoal broiler is really something and advises us to try it, which we will undoubtedly do if we can find anybody with a charcoal broiler.

Suggests Remedy

Have we ever discussed in this column ways and means for the amelioration of the status of baseball pitchers?

We think not. Therefore we are somewhat surprised to hear from Mr. J. J. Jones, of 2 West Missouri street, El Paso, Tex., on this subject. He says he has heard much talk of the injustice to baseball pitchers in having to bear down on the batters with every pitch nowadays because the batters are always liable to knock out the neighbor's windows with the type of baseball in vogue at present.

Mr. Jones says further deadening the ball, as suggested by some will not do the trick. He says the cash customers would not stand for that because they want to see those big hits. He thinks the home plate ought to be widened 2 or 3, or even 4 inches, to give the pitcher more of an edge.

Well, now that he has got us into this thing, we will tell Mr. Jones an even better way. Let the pitchers go back openly to the old spit-ball, which a lot of them use on the sneak anyway with perspiration from their foreheads instead of the slippery elm, or let them nick the horsehide up a trifle like Russ Ford and Cy Falkenberg used to do and you would see those batters spraining their ankles trying to get base hits.

Recalls Writer

Mr. Ed Rogers, a marine engineer of the U. S. S. Goethals, wants to know if we remember a bar in San Francisco on East street between Mission and Market where the Examiner gang hung out after the fire, when the paper was printing on Folson street at Stewart.

He says the bar was run by a German named Neuhaus and the beer was Ruthestaler's, of Sacramento. At that time, Mr. Rogers says, he was one of a crowd of seafaring men who held forth at the street end of the bar while our gang was always at the other end of the bar. He says he remembers us because we were the youngest of the mob and wore an iron hat and a brown suit.

He says he also remembers they had script around that period instead of regular money and that Neuhaus would cash the script for the boys. Our memory is not clear on Neuhaus' place, and Mr. Rogers may have us confused with someone else, but a recollection of us at any bar in San Francisco around the period he names might fit. The only think we could deny in that connection would be the iron hat. We generally wore a cap.

Mr. Isidore Shapiro, counselor at law of 11 West Forty-second street, kindly straightens us out on a recent misstatement in this column when we said if a fellow loses his job and has no income from which to pay alimony, his ex-wife can get him jailed for contempt just the same.

Mr. Shapiro says the fact of the matter is that the civil practice act of the State of New York as amended and which went into effect September 1, 1934, provides that a person financially unable to pay alimony may be relieved of such payments and of contempt by satisfying the court of that inability.

Pompoon Tops List of 16 Racers in Dixie Handicap Today

Ciencia Goes In Preakness Saturday

Pompoon to Carry Topweight of 125 Pounds as He Seeks 2d Straight Victory

By the Associated Press.

Baltimore, May 9 (AP).—A field of 16 sturdy campaigners, topped by last year's winner, Pompoon, and including some of the best stake racers in the business, was named today for tomorrow's $20,000 Dixie Handicap at Pimlico—a curtain raiser for Saturday's rich Preakness.

Meanwhile, the $50,000 Preakness shaped up as more of an acid test for the greatness of Johnstown, the speedy Kentucky Derby winner. Trainers of Ciencia, the filly who won gold and glory in the Santa Anita Derby, announced she would be a sure starter in the race that will go far toward settling the 3-year-old champion.

Injured recently in shipping from New York, Ciencia has come around nicely and apparently is ready to make her bid to become the third filly ever to lead the way home in the Preakness.

Goes in Preakness

"She will go in the Preakness unless something happens to keep her out," said Miss Mary Hirsch, her temporary trainer, "and that seems unlikely now. She has been working well and is in awfully good shape."

Pompoon will be topweighted with 125 pounds as he attempts to win his second straight Dixie victory in its Thirty-fifth renewal tomorrow. Last year he set a track record of 1:56 4-5 for the 1 3-16 miles distance from a stall gate start. Seabiscuit did the distance in 1:56 3-5 against War Admiral in their historic duel here last November, but from a walk-up start.

Pompoon will face such competitors as Marshall Field's Sir Damion, second in the Widener, and Townsend B. Martin's Cravat. Cravat will carry 120 pounds with Sir Damion down for 113.

Other Good Entries

Other tough entries are: Mrs. Parker Corning's Thanksgiving, given third weight of 120 pounds; Alfred G. Vanderbilt's Heelfly; Ral Parr's Hypocrite and W. L. Brann's Aethelwold, all recent winners.

Completing the field are Edward Friendly's Jacola, Joe W. Brown's Brown King, Belair Stud's Isolater; Thomas J. Healey's Tatterdemalion, Brandywine Stable's Masked General, Shandon Farm's Burning Star, Walter M. Jeffords' Jolly Tar, H. Januska's Invermark, and Brann's Challepen, entered with Aethelwold.

Vanderbilt's Impound and Saratoga Stable's Volitant, two Preakness entries, worked out today with King Ranch's Ciencia, only filly named for the race.

At the Post

Pimlico, Md., May 9.—Dear Al.

If you want to go in the horse business just take your bankroll over to the paddock here Friday morning, and if you bid enough you can buy almost any kind of a horse.

The chief interest will be the dispersal of the William M. Elder thoroughbreds. In addition to the sires Bud Lerner and Sir James, the sale under the management of the Maryland Horse Breeders Association will include brood mares, foals and yearlings. In all 33 properties of Elder will go under the hammer. Bud Lerner is the outstanding piece of horseflesh in the sale. He is by The Finn, winner of the Withers, Belmont, Hamilton Derby and the Metropolitan Handicap. Bud Lerner was a consistent winner, but the high spots of his career were victories in the Youthful and the Whirl Stakes. He has sent many good horses to the post, including Thanksgiving, Mokatam, Chantry, Capture, Schooner, Trilogy, Black Buddy, Bud's Bell, Toddle On and Betty's Buddy. Among the mares to be sold are most of the dams of the above horses, including Inchcape Belle, which foaled Thanksgiving, a candidate for tomorrow's $20,000 added Dixie Handicap. Bud Lerner's get over a 10-year period won 481 races and $543,189 in purse money. The sire was foaled in 1920. Sir James is not as prominent as Bud Lerner. He sired Royal Rank, Riding High, Hardy Jim and other good runners. In addition to the Elder group, there will be an assortment, including horses in training, that will be disposed of by a variety of interests. Clocker Mike is going to be there. He hopes to pick up one for the Charles Town meeting, which opens on Monday. I believe he has his eyes on Stare, owned by Chris Wood, jr. Even if you are not interested in bidding, it will be a colorful sale, and the public is invited.

BILL.

First Race—Victory Morn makes her first start. She is bred by Challenger 2d out of a top line mare and is trained by the veteran Guy Bodwell. May be the right one. Pass Out, second to Stepinfred his only start is the one to beat. Third Covey is highly regraded and has shown good form.

Second Race—Muph second to Rehearsal is beginning to find himself after several dull races. He beat good ones at Santa Anita this winter and should win. Billy Bee is in the pink of condition as shown by winning efforts in his last two starts. Rissa Can better poor recent races.

Third Race—Pratt ler was beaten a nose by Saluda Saturday, the latter setting a new track record for the route. This old campaigner, back in form, figures best. Sapelo beat the top horse in a race last week, but the time was poor. Valpuiseaux won his only start here and is dangerous.

Fourth Race—Bashi Bazouk makes his first start of the season but raced creditably with good juveniles last year. Trained by George Odom and with Meade riding he should get down in front. Hostility, a New York invader, appears second best off fair recent races. October Ale was highly regarded in his last start and may redeem himself.

Fifth Race—The Bedwell—A. C. Stable entry of Ace Call and Superstition gets high figure in this event. The former showed good effor behind Morstep, while Superstition finished right behind Alms last start. Merry Gesture could threaten if she runs back to Florida races. Good Odds won her last but may be outmatched

Sixth Race—Heelfly established himself as chief contender for the Dixie when he whipped Pompoon and Aethelwood in a gallop last week. He once "dead heated" Seabiscuit and appears fit. Jacola qualified soundly for this race by winning in fast time last start in New York. Sir Damion sandwiched Bull Lea and Stagehand in the Widener Cup and is reported training.

Seventh Race—Air Eddy has failed to register in recent race with better company but he drops into a soft spot and figures say he should win it. Scoria has been unplaced in this company recently but was second to Ann Mowlee at Bowie; rates next best. Nugget drew heavy play, making his first start here last week; may be a sleeper.

Eighth Race—Careful Miss was outrun by Slattern last week in good time. She appears better placed in this event and carries a light impost. Little Drift has displayed speed in sprints with good company but charts show she doesn't care for routes. Red Jack was short last start and should show an improved effort.

Best bet—A. C. C. Stable—Bedwell entry.

May 1 Index 4% Below April 1 But 2% Above Year Ago

New York, May 9.—Business conditions in Washington, as of May 1, stood at 4 per cent below normal, representing a decrease of 4 per cent from the standing of April 1 of this year, according to the monthly survey of 147 trading areas of the United States conducted by the business survey department of Brooke, Smith, French & Dorrance, Inc., New York and Detroit national advertising concern. On May 1, 1938, the city's business index stood at 6 per cent below normal.

"Business conditions improved in 38 areas," the report states, "and in 13 others they held to the level of the previous month. Decreases were registered in the remaining 96 areas although in many cases the declines were nominal."

U. S. 28 Per Cent Below Normal

The greatest April gains were registered in the following areas: Aberdeen, Abilene, Albuquerque, Allentown, Augusta, Bakersfield, Billings, Buffalo, Casper, Chicago, Dayton, El Paso, Evansville, Fort Wayne, Grand Forks, Greenville, Memphis, Oklahoma City, Oshkosh, Portland, Oreg.; Pueblo, Raleigh, Reading, Rochester, Saginaw, South Bend, Springfield, Mo.; Stockton, Waco, Wichita.

The following areas were closest to normal in April: Abilene, Albuquerque, Austin, Bakersfield, Billings, Chattanooga, Dallas, El Paso, Jacksonville, Knoxville, Miami, Phoenix, Portland, Oreg.; Richmond, Washington, D. C.; Winston-Salem.

Bond Club Outing

The Bond Club of Washington will hold its annual outing on May 19 at the Manor Club. The program includes "Stock Exchange" with tickets at $5 each; a golf tournament for a cup donated by the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.; horseshoe pitching and putting. Beer and cheese will be free. H. C. Patterson is chairman of outing and Myles H. Quail is in charge of arrangements.

The following slate has been nominated for the ensuing year: President, George M. Ferris; vice president, Frank M. Hall; secretary-treasurer, J. Clifford Folger. The board of governors will consist of the officers and the retiring president, Chauncey Parker, Clark Brown retires from the board this year and Myles Quail has been nominated for the vacancy.

Baltimore Traders

The Baltimore Security Traders Association, affiliated with the National Security Traders Association, will hold its annual outing on May 19, ata the Rodgers Forge Golf and Country Club. The attendance is expected to be around 200, including guests from New York, Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, and other Eastern trading centers.

O'Meara Heads New York A. I. B.

Midwest Directors To Get $3,000 a Year

Wilmington, Del., May 9 (AP).—Stockholders of the Midwest Utilities Corporation at their annual meeting here today passed a resolution to pay each director a salary of $3,000 a year. This plan replaces a $40-per-meeting plan of compensation. Another proposal approved was to indemnify directors against expense incurred in suits which might be brought against them as directors of the corporation.

Directors, all of whom were re-elected, are: Adolphe Boisserain, Robert N. Golding, Martin Lindsay, Hugh McGee, Irvin L. Porter, Purcell L. Smith and Charles K. Wilmers.

Insured Banks May Sell Own Travelers' Checks

New York, May 9.—Banks throughout the country which are members of the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation and whose items are collectible at par through the Federal Reserve System soon will have the opportunity of issuing their own travelers' checks and money orders under a plan which has been announced by Secured Negotiable Instruments, Inc., a New York corporation.

Under this plan, which promises a new source of profit for FDIC banks throughout the country, each bank will have its own setup for the issuance in its own name of its own travelers' checks and money orders for use throughout the world. This is made possible by virtue of the fact that outstanding travelers' checks and money orders issued by a member bank of FDIC constitute "deposit liabilities" thereof which enjoy the insurance protection of the FDIC statute. Such instruments are the direct obligations of a bank payable by it in due course.

A striking feature of these travelers' checks and money orders is that they are also certificates of deposit of the banks issuing them. Upon the face of each appears a certificate of the issuing bank whereby it certifies that the face amount of the check or order, as the case may be, has been deposited with it, by the person in whose behalf the instrument is issued.

Daily Oil Output Up 12,691 Barrels

Tulsa, May 9 (AP).—Crude oil production in the United States rose slightly during the week ended May 6, with an increase of 12,691 barrels daily, the Oil and Gas Journal said today. Daily average production was 3,574,643 barrels.

Oklahoma decreased 2,575 barrels daily to 459,550. The largest gain in Texas was in hte Paanhandle, 13,047 barrels daily to 87,297. Total Texas production rose 8,198 to 1,469,998. East Texas increased 152 to 446,950. The increase of 2,666 barrels daily brought Louisiana production to 269,366, New Mexico's flow was up 3,420 to 116,920. Kansas decreased 9,812 to 167,913, and California was off 3,750 to 603,750.

Treasury Borrows At 0.009 Per Cent

The Secretary of the Treasury announces that the tenders for $100,000,000, or thereabouts, of 91-day Treasury bills, to be dated May 10 and to mature August 9, 1939, which were offered on May 5, have been opened at the Federal Reserve Banks.

The total applied for was $417,718,000 and the total accepted $101,918,000. The average price was 99.998, equivalent to a rate of 0.009 per cent.

Wheat Rises At Top Level For 10 Months

Basis Is Demand for Actual Grain Plus Poor Crop Reports

By the Associated Press.

Chicago, May 9.—Rising about 2 cents a bushel from early lows, wheat prices moved to a new high level for the past ten months today on a fresh wave of buying inspired by demand for actual grain and unfavorable crop and weather reports.

May wheat advanced as high as 76¾, while July and September reached 74⅜, which for the latter was the best price of the season. Last minute profit-taking reduced the maximum gains slightly but wheat closed 1 to 1⅜ higher than yesterday, with July and September at 74-73⅞.

Good demand for wheat from milling interests, higher flour prices and substantial premiums quoted for cash grain accounted for the strength in May contracts, which led the advance. May wheat was quoted 4 to 8 cents cheaper than actual grain which could be used to satisfy these options and thus was attractive to elevator and milling interests.

No wheat has been tendered on May contracts as yet but pit operations have reduced the open interest to around 8,000,000 bushels which must be settled in the next few weeks. Flour was quoted 10 to 15 cents a barrel higher in leading markets, according to milling interests.

Oats and rye also advanced sharply with wheat but corn and soy beans lagged behind. Corn closed ⅛ off to ⅜ higher, July 51-50⅞, September 52-51⅞, oats 1⅛-1⅜ higher, rye 1⅛-1⅜ up, lard 3 to 5 higher.

Cotton Climbs With Shortage in Early Deliveries

New York, May 9 (AP).—Cotton futures shot up 12 to 17 points today in a market still dominated by shortage of some grades of the stable for immediate delivery.

Old crop months again registered the sharpest gains when spot interests bought heavily of July and October. Bombay and profit taking longs supplied the bulk of the contracts. Mills fixed prices actively. Traders continued to watch Congress for legislative action for clearing the tremendous supplies of Government-held cotton.

Offerings appeared today at every few points advance but contracts were readily taken. Hedge selling in distant deliveries was offset by Wall Street demand spurred by a rising stock market. Differences between old and new months continued to widen May-March worked at 111 points. May closed at the season's high.

Cottonseed Oil

Liquidation in the May cottonseed oil delivery dropped that month 3 points today while new-crop deliveries ended 3 to 5 higher. Issuance of 24 transferable notices against May, a total of 106 so far this month, attracted selling. Sales totaled 130 lots. May ended 6.60 bid; July, 6.77; September, 6.94 bid; October, 6.97; December, 6.98.

Crude oil was quoted at 5½ cents bid in the Southeast and Valley, a drop of ⅛ cent from recent sales. Texas was also ⅛ lower at 5¼@5⅜ bid.

B. & O. Carloadings

Baltimore, May 9.—Baltimore & Ohio carloadings for the week ended May 6, totaled 34,462, an increase of 424 cars loaded over the previous week. For the corresponding week of last year the total was 34,704.

Aided by Foreign Calm Stocks Advance Trading Volume Is Largest for a Week Bonds and Commodities Are Strong

New York, May 9.—Helped along by the quieter tone of events abroad but deriving little if any benefit from current domestic news of business, the stock market moved ahead today with an air that carried a certain amount of conviction.

Of importance to the brokerage fraternity was the fact that 710,460 shares changed hands on the big board, the best in a week. Prices also improved with the best levels coming near the close and the composite average of 100 representative issues showing a gain of 0.72 point. Corresponding improvement was registered in domestic bonds, both governmental and corporate, and in the wheat and cotton markets. In the case of cotton, gains ranged from 12 to 17 points with May reaching 8.98 cents a pound or more than a cent above the mid-April price.

Wheat was at its best levels since last July with May soaring 2¼ cents from an early low. Unfavorable crop and weather reports furnished the stimulus and the closing gains ranged from 1 to 1⅝ cents a bushel. The trading fraternity, which is never averse to a modest amount of grumbling, went home thinking that maybe the sun will shine again.

Foreign News Better

The better tone of foreign news was seen in a press report from Berlin which indicated that the peace moves being made by Pope Pius are receiving a better reception in the German capital than any of the other efforts made thus far.

On the domestic financial front, investors were disappointed with the lack of progress made at the White House between the parties concerned in the coal strike. New Yorkers, who were mashed into subways because of curtailed service, commented pointedly about that great patriot, John L. Lewis, who lets the single demand for a closed union shop interfere with a final agreement with the operators. No doubt some of the unemployed coal miners regard the matter in the same light and certainly if it is true that a strike needs public support in order to win this one is already lost.

Within the market itself the principal news was of the sharp increase in the short interest for April, the figure at the close of the month being 662,713 shares, an increase of 133,154 shares. Doubtless a portion of this reflected the relaxed rules concerning short selling. In any event the bullish forces welcome a gain in the short interest, for eventually this stock must be bought back. Here at least is some guaranteed buying.

Business Outlook

The general business outlook is brightened a bit by the continued firming of commodity prices. Companies which have been doing their buying on a hand-to-mouth basis can be expected to become more enthusiastic on the buying side if the present upward trend continues. Representative business reviews assume a cautious attitude in their attempts to predict for the next few months and about all that can be said of their prognostications is that they do not expect the recession to gain headway.

Gains of around a point were numerous among the speculative leaders today, the most active stock, United States Rubber, adding 1½. Chrysler turned in a 2¾ points gain and General Motors a point. Steel and Bethlehem were up 1½ to 1⅞ points, respectively. Electric Auto-Lite stood out in the accessory division and there was good support for a representative group of utilities. The cut in copper did not hurt Anaconda, which was active and up about a point. Westinghouse turned in one of the best gains for the speculative favorites, closing up 3¾.

Bonds Active and Higher

The bond market widened today and prices were generally higher with speculative issues being shown increased attention. Rail issues were prominent as a steady demand was felt for both the first and second grade leins. Volume on the stock exchange was about twice that of Monday, but was still comparatively slight despite the sale of 500 Atchison, Topeka and Santa Fe Railway California-Arizona lines first and refunding 4½s at 110, unchanged from Monday.

The rail issues, particularly of companies serving Southern coal fields, were actively bid for on the expectation that the bituminous strike would be settled at an early date. Southern Railway development and general 4s advanced 3 points to 50 and Baltimore & Ohio and Nicle Plate bonds were in demand at better prices.

Lessened tension abroad permitted almost universal advances in the foreign list running to 4 points for the Brisbane 53 of 1957. The Antwerp 5s of 1958 dropped 2 to 89½, and the Cuban 4s of 1939 gave up 1¾ points to 99½. Italian issues were particularly strong, but French obligations declined up to 5¾ for the stamped 7s of 1949.

In the industrial division Goodrich first 4½s showed a large turnover at a new high premium. Bethlehem Steel issues were strong, the 3¾s registering a new high for the year at 104½, up ½. Phelps Dodge 3½s were in demand above 111.

In the utility division Brooklyn Union Gs XXX gas bonds were shown particular attention and Laclede Gas issues were higher.

National Meeting Of Savings Banks Starts Today

New York, May 9.—Mutual Savings Bank officials and trustees from many States began to arrive in New York last night for the economic conference sponsored by Savings Banks. The first session the National Association of Mutual will open at the Waldorf-Astoria. "Co-operating for Recovery" is the keynote of the conference, which is to last three days.

Outstanding figures from business, banking an dthe Government will address this gathering of men representing more than 15,000,000 depositors, holding in excess of $10,000,000,000 of savings.

At the opening session specific consideration of the railroad outlook will be taken up at this session by Henry Bruere, president of the Bowery Savings Bank; W. Averell Harriman, chairman of the Union Pacific Railroad; William J. Cunningham, professor of transportation, Harvard School of Business Administration, and Marion M. Caskio, chairman, Interstate Commerce Commission. These four men are to present the views of investors, of an operating executive, of a transportation specialist and of the I. C. C.

Underwriters Cut War Risk Rates

New York, May 9 (AP).—Lessened likelihood of a European war led the American Institute of Marine Underwriters today to reduce war risk insurance rates on commerce between the United States and the United Kingdom, and continental Europe. The new rate was announced as 37½ cents per $100 value on shipments in both directions. Previously, insurance on export shipments had been at the rate of 50 cents; imports 37½ cents. War risk insurance was simultaneously reduced on shipments to and from all parts of the world with the exception of South America, which already enjoyed low rates. Similar cuts were announced yesterday in London.

April Motor Car Sales 51% Above Year Ago

New York, May 8 (AP).—Factory sales of passenger cars and trucks in April totaled 359,200 units, a gain of 51 per cent over April last year, but 8 per cent less than the preceding month, the Automobile Manufacturers Association estimated today.

Hudson Sales

Detroit, Mich., May 9.—Retail sales of Hudson cars in the United States for the week ended April 29 were 40 per cent greater than for the same week a year ago and constituted the best week so far this year, according to George H. Pratt, general sales manager. The figures were released here today in connection with Hudson's thirtieth anniversary celebration.

Nation's Banks Direct Efforts To Spur Loans

Advertising, Lines of Credit, Soliciting, Are Means Employed

New York, May 9.—An overwhelming majority of the banks of the country are making positive efforts to stimulate loans, according to a study recently completed by Gurden Edwards, director of the research council of the American Bankers Association, and just made public by the council.

The study indicated that 86 out of every 100 banks are making such efforts; that 74 out of every 100 are advertising for loans; that 63 out of every 100 are soliciting loans, and that 58 out of every 100 are offering lines of credit. It also reports that only 31.5 per cent of these open lines of credit are being used by business firms.

The data was gathered by means of a questionnaire sent to a group of banks representing, as to class, size and geographical distribution, a true cross-section of the banking structure of the country.

Other methods used by replying banks to stimulate loans are competitive rates, maintenance of a record for taking care of the credit needs of worthy customers, offering of special services in connection with loans, working with borrowers in need of help to develop programs for the liquidation of their debts, suggestions to customers to bring in others in need of credit, making applicants feel at ease when they ask for loans, and the granting of various specialized types of loans such as character or small loans to individuals, loans on life insurance policies and loans to finance instalment purchases.

Average 1.016

The study also indicates that the banks have an average of 1.016 loans outstanding to local borrowers and 736 loans of less than $1,000 to small borrowers, the average size of such loans being $241.

Summarizing the results of the investigation, the report says, "The data supplied in response to the questions justify the following statements:

"1. A very high percentage of the commercial banks are making active efforts to stimulate the use of commercial bank credit on the part of both business concerns and individuals in their communities.

"2. They have made liberal adaptations in their loaning methods and policies in order to meet the varied requirements of individuals and business concerns applying to them for credit.

"3. The needs of small borrowers in the field of business and personal finance alike are being well taken care of by the commercial banks."

Briton Sees Boom If There Is No War

New York, May 9.—A productive boom "that would make that of 1929 pale by comparison," was envisioned by R. S. Hudson, secretary for British overseas trade, "if the fears of war were removed." Arriving on the Queen Mary, Mr. Hudson stated that his visit was entirely in connection with the opening, on May 12, of the British exhibit at the World's Fair. While in this country Mr. Hudson said he would see Secretary of State Hull and Secretary of Commerce Hopkins on May 10, and he may also see President Roosevelt. Mr. Hudson said his recent visits to Russia, Finland, Sweden and Poland were in connection with laying the groundwork for trade agreements.

Soft Coal Strike Spurs Output Of Anthracite

New York, May 9 (AP).—Current anthracite coal production of 1,400,000 tons weekly was reported today by the Anthracite Institute.

Louis C. Madeira 3d, executive director of the institute, said the "production of anthracite coal continues at a high rate due to the increased demands resultant from the stoppage of mining of bituminous coal on April 1."

"We are getting out coal at the rate of 1,400,000 tons per week now and have been for the past several weeks," he said. "Every unit of production is being run at capacity and the employes will have large pay envelopes coming to them if the demand continues.

"However," Madeira added, "a settlement of the bituminous situation would change this picture rapidly and the industry would suffer its usual spring lull in demand with the end of the coal burning season about the middle of May."

Cash Circulation $52.71 Per Person

The Treasury said yesterday that $6,905,088,206 worth of coin and currency was in circulation on April 30—an average of $52.71 per person.

On March 31 the average was $52.07 and on April 30, 1938, it was $49.18. Some of the recent increase in money circulation, however, has been due to the hoarding of American currency by foreigners.

Dictaphone Votes 75 Cents on Common

New York, May 9 (AP).—Directors of Dictaphone Co., today declared a dividend of 75 cents a share on common stock, payable June 1 to holders of record May 12.

A payment of 25 cents a common share was made March 1.

Short Interest Increases in April

New York, May 9 (AP).—The New York Stock Exchange reported today total short interest existing at the close of April 28 was 662,713 shares, compared with 529,559 on March 31.

Of the 1,233 issues listed in the exchange on that date, there were 37 in which a total short interest of more than 5,000 shares existed, or in which a change in the short position of more than 2,000 shares occurred during the month.

J. C. Penney Sales 7.61% Above Year Ago

New York, May 9 (AP).—J. C. Penney Co., operators of a national chain of variety stores, today reported April sales of $21,281,403, an increase of 4.45 per cent over $20,375,592 in April last year.

Business in the first four months of the year was 7.61 per cent ahead of the comparable 1938 period.

ONE WAY TO AVOID ESTATE SHRINKAGE is to Include Adequate Life Insurance

When your estate is settled, cash will be needed to pay taxes, administrative expenses, debts and cash bequests. If your estate does not include sufficient cash to cover such expenditures, your executor is forced to sell some of your investments—perhaps at a sacrifice—in order to raise the necessary funds.

To prevent the possibility of such a sacrifice sale, every estate should have adequate Life Insurance. It forestalls such eventualities by making them unnecessary. It provides the necessary cash promptly—and, in addition to protecting and preserving principal, tides your family over the trying period of estate settlement and helps replace your earning power.

We endorse Life Insurance. We regard it as a logical first step in creating an estate, a sound backlog of security, and a real help in facilitating estate settlement. We suggest that you confer with your Life Insurance representative at the first opportunity.

COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, May 5, 1939. Notice is hereby given that, under authority granted in Public Act No. 307, approved December 15, 1932, authorizing the closing of streets, roads, highways and alleys in the District of Columbia, and in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914, (Public Act No. 435, 62nd Congress) approved March 4, 1913, as amended by an act approved April 30, 1926, (Public Act No. 158, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the Board Room of said Commissioners in the District Building ON THURSDAY, MAY 25, 1939, AT 10 O'CLOCK A. M., to interested property owners to determine as to any property rights which may be affected, or as to the equity, justice or advisability of closing the street and alley area, and concerning the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways, all in the District of Columbia, and described as follows: 1. Closing West Virginia Avenue northeasterly from the intersection of New York Avenue and Montana Avenue, N.E., and providing for a dedication of land for the widening of Queens Chapel Road between Bladensburg Road and Bryant Street, N.E. 2. Closing part of 24th Street immediately north of N Street, N.W., and closing the public alley 20 feet wide in Square 35 extending north from the alley running east and west in said square; and providing for a transfer to the District of Columbia for the widening of the alley running east and west in said square to 16 feet, and for the extension of 23rd Street northerly from its present northern terminus north of N Street, N.W., to the northerly line extended of the said proposed 16-ft. alley in said square. 3. Closing Calvert Street between 41st and 42nd Streets, N.W.; and providing for a dedication of land for the extension of 40th Place and 41st Street between Benton and Calvert Streets, N.W., for the extension of W Street from its present western terminus east of 40th Street to 42nd Street, N.W., and for additional street and alley area in this section. 4. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Northeast Section, providing for the relocation of 12th Street, proposed, through Parcels 130/3 and 142/2, south of W Street proposed. 5. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Northeast Section, providing for the elimination of 18th Street between the southerly line of Webster Street and the northwesterly line of Michigan Avenue, as shown on said plan; and providing for a readjustment of said plan at Webster Street and Michigan Avenue as proposed in accordance with said plan. 6. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways affecting property in the Northwest Section lying north of Calvert Street and west of the easterly line of Adams Mill Road. Maps showing the street and alley area proposed to be closed and the additional land proposed to be acquired, and maps showing the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways, are on file in the office of the Surveyor of the District of Columbia, Room 405, District Building (same being known as Maps 2211, 2212, 2213, 2214, 2215 and 2216), and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Said maps will also be displayed at the hearing, and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes and the proposed street and alley closings, as shown on above-mentioned maps. Contract Bridge

By Florence Osborn.

This drill was put together by an out-of-town expert. You are free to take exception if you choose. For our part we concur in all of his answers.

1. You are East, dealer, and hold:

♠ K J 7 2
♡ A 9
◇ A K Q 3
♣ K Q J

The bidding:

You	South	West	North
2 NT.	Pass	3 ♣	Pass

What is East's second call?

2. You are East and hold:

♠ Q 8 6 2
◇ 9 8 6 5 4
♣ 8 3 2

South	West	North	You
1 ◇	2 ◇	Pass	?

What should you bid?

3. You are East, both sides are vulnerable, and you hold:

♠ J 8 7 5 3
♡ K 9 6 4 2
♣ None

The bidding.

West	North	You	South
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♠	2 ◇
2 ♣	Pass	?

What is the best play for declarer to make in an effort to fulfill his three-no-trump contract on today's hand? West leads the club six and East goes up with the ace. Plan your campaign from here on. The cards and the bidding are presented in today's box.

Answers to Drill

1. You. correct bid is three diamonds. Although your two-no-trump opening was practically a minimum, the fact that your partner responds in clubs, in which you hold the king, queen, jack should encourage you to make a moderate slam try. If your partner now bids three no trump, you should pass. Score 10 for three diamonds, 8 for four clubs (if you do get a slam you want to be declarer because of your spade and heart holding), 6 for four no trump (a slight overbid), 2 for three no trump (a distinct underbid), 0 for any other bid.

2. Your correct bid is two spades. Your partner's bid is an absolute force and he almost surely wants to find out if you hold four cards in either major suit. Score 10 for two spades, 7 for two no trump, 0 for any other bid.

3. Your correct bid is to pass. The fact that your partner has shown a long club suit hurts your hand, since it decreases the chance that he can support either of your majors. Accordingly, any further bid by you is likely to land you in serious trouble. Score 10 for pass, 6 for three hearts (there is always a chance that West will show up with a four-card heart suit), 0 for any other bid.

4. West chooses to lead a club rather than a diamond, as he believes that the diamonds are doubly stopped.

Declarer should discard the king of clubs under the ace, planning to establish an entry in clubs in the dummy so as to assist in developing the hearts.

East will return a spade, and, after winning, declarer finesses the ten of hearts, which will be taken by East's jack. Another spade will be played, won by South, and another heart lead to knock out the ace. A third round of spades is taken by declarer and a club is played. This West will win with his queen and switch to a diamond, but declarer will have established enough tricks to make his contract, losing only two hearts and two clubs.

If West holds four spades, South will be set, but unless he unblocks the club suit he has no chance at all. Score 20 points if you elected to discard the club king under the ace; 10 if you decided against it because of the spade question, and 0 for any other line of play.

The Federal Diary

By The Diarist

THE grim General Accounting Office soon will have something like the I. D. R. A., the In-Com-Co, a good time organization. The Comptroller General, Fred H. Brown, has authorized the movement with two letters, "O. K.," and this is noted because the former Comptroller General was infinitely more formal—most agency and department heads are, for that matter.

A meeting to start the new organization, which will be called the Athletic, Welfare and Recrectional Association, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon (Wednesday) in the office of Chief Clerk R. F. Martin.

Just now all forms of athletics are being carried on in the GAO by various groups and units under the name of the GAO, but without responsibility to anyone, the chief clerk wrote the Comptroller General.

There is now a welfare organization with assets of about $3,000 for the benefit of employes. The new organization will assume jurisdiction over and be responsible for the assets of the welfare organization.

A. J. Ted Meurer, chief of the Graphic Section, Tariff Commission, gives a lecture and preview of his paintings depicting historic shrines in the life of George Washington at 8:30 next Wednesday in the Bamboo Room of the Willard Hotel. During Meurer's travels in former years he became interested in the romance of old buildings and he turned to sketching them. After visits to the Washington shrines it occurred to him that thousands of people throughout the country would never have a chance to visit them. He sought to place them on canvas and carry them to these people. The outcome of his effort will be seen next Wednesday night.

Meurer studied art at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, the Corcoran School of Art and took special courses under Daniel Garber, George Harding, Roy C. Nuse, Richard S. Merryman, Eugen Weisz and others. It is his plan to tour the country this year with his exhibition and lecture. The introduction to his lecture here will be given by A. Manuel Fox, member of the Tariff Commission.

The decentralization program of the Internal Revenue Bureau proceeds, now sending to Baltimore for its technical staff, the following persons: Harold C. Davis, Daniel A. F. Porter, Charles D. Hahn, assistant technical advisers; Effie V. Beall, associate accountant and auditor; Elizabeth U. McIntosh, assistant clerk-stenographer; Sylvia J. Mach, junior clerk-stenographer; Lucy L. Bowie, assistant clerk; Ray E. Bachman, assistant clerk-typist; Joe D. Hughes, assistant counsel in charge, and Maurine E. Olson, secretary. To Richmond—Grover C. Hammond, technical adviser; Ernest F. Hodgdon, assistant technical adviser; Frank E. White, senior accountant and auditor; Cornelia Coe, clerk-stenographer; Golda Basham, assistant clerk, and Angie R. Smith, junior clerk-stenographer. To Huntington—Florence C. Hunt, assistant clerk-stenographer. To Greensboro—William A. Kluttz, technical adviser, and Vera M. Smith, assistant clerk-stenographer.

Bob Burns Says—

I guess slander has hurt more people than anythin' else. But like a leaky egg sandwich, there ain't no known remedy for it. Once my Aunt Pudgy got all steamed up at her husband and went down to see the divorce lawyer.

She said, "Glut is positively the orneriest, meanest, triflin'est man on two feet. He comes home drunk, he snores, he beats me and he spends all his pay check on foolishness!" Then she started in to tell the lawyer how mean her husband REALLY was.

Well, when she stopped for a second to get her breath two hours later, the lawyer said, "From what you say, madame, your husband must be a brute and an ingrate of the worst type!"

Aunt Pudgy glared at the lawyer a minute, then she slapped him. She said, "I'm gonna see another lawyer right now! I came up here to get advice, not to have my poor husband abused!"

Winchester Area Record Vote Seen

Special Dispatch to The Post

Winchester, Va., May 9.—A record vote is predicted here for the August primaries, based on the increased number of people who have become eligible voters through payment of poll taxes before Saturday's deadline.

According to city and county treasurers W. A. Baker and Harry McCann, there are approximately 2,600 paid up voters in the city and 3,200 in the county of Frederick. Past elections have shown that a sizeable majority of qualified voters cast their ballot.

Secrets in Love

By Phyllis Moore Gallagher

As Peg crouched behind the door, the dark form of a woman in what seemed like one movement, drew an automatic pistol and fired. But there was no sound from the gun

SYNOPSIS

Margaret (Peg) Patterson is an orphan who has come to Washington from Virginia to work in the brokerage office of her godfather, Otto Nelson. She is in love with Hewitt Gill, ambitious salesman in her office, who seemingly loves Peg. Mr. Nelson has sent her to look over the antiques in a Washington house which is to be auctioned. While there she is approached by Anthony Covington, State Department attache just home from the Orient, who is struck by her charm and appeal.

Chapter III

Then suddenly some one was touching Anthony's arm; she was saying: "Tony, darling;" Only she made it sound like dahling. She was saying, too: "But, how perfectly marvelous! Anthony Covington back from China! Thalia just returned to Washington today. Europe all spring and summer, you know. She'll be delighted you're here, too. And to think you haven't even called me! Shame, shame, Tony! But I forgive you and I shall be expecting you for tea tomorrow. Thalia and I are at home on the first and third Wednesdays of each month this winter. Remember that, darling. And now tell me, did you have a ghastly time of it in China? I read where you had been wounded during the bombing of Shanghai . . ."

Peg had picked up an auctioneer's catalogue from a table and was reading it industriously, not seeing it at all. She knew who Anthony was talking to. Mrs. Demarest Polk, mother of Thalia Polk. Darkly, exotically beautiful Thalia Polk, whom the stenographers in the office had said was the only girl who counted in Hewitt's life. "She has so much dough," they'd said, "that she had to hire people to help her think of ways to spend it." Just the thought of Thalia Polk made a shadow cross Peg's mind, robbed her of all the gay nonsense she had just enjoyed. Hewitt had said of Thalia, "I saw a lot of her last winter, a few dinners and a dance or two at Sulgrave. Things like that. It didn't mean anything. I wanted Senator Polk's brokerage account. I still do. And I had thought Thalia might be a means to an end."

On the Spot

Mrs. Polk fluttered off finally. Anthony turned to Peg, and Peg, looking at him rather thoughtfully, remembered what Mrs. Polk had said about Shanghai and wondered if he had really been wounded. She decided promptly that he hadn't been. No man could come through a thing like that and remain as casual, as gay and irresponsible as Anthony Covington.

Anthony said, "Look here, I was in a spot. Who are you? After all, some one else I know may come truckin' along and I can't have you hanging around like a third leg."

"Just some one you picked up," said Peg. And smiled. For she was thinking that really nice girls with aunts like Mehalie Keith just simply didn't get themselves picked up. She took another hurried look at the Van Dyke portrait, making a mental note about it for Mr. Nelson and said, "Well, take care of yourself, Anthony Covington. And don't go dashing about starting any more wars."

They were, at the moment, standing in the big entrance hall, quite near the door. The crush around them was unprecedented, a mob scene to enchant the soul of a Hollywood director. Peg chose a sudden opening in the crowd, dashed out into the encroaching dusk of the November twilight before Anthony could politely push his way through that throng of excited ladies.

Peg looked at once for a taxi, but there was not one cruising on the broad street. She saw that Anthony was preparing to follow her, that he was going to be difficult to shake. So she turned off the avenue abruptly into a narrow, shady street. She saw the yawning mouth of a garage which flanked a square-fronted granite house with a "for sale" sign on it. She stepped into the garage, pressed up against the shadows of the wall, a little hidden by the open garage doors, which were folded back loosely. Through one of the cracks she saw Anthony hurry down the street, still looking for her, his silk hat and cane swinging in his hand.

Murder Witness

Then all at once Peg snapped into the terrible awakened awareness of not being alone in this dark garage. There were muffled voices in the vestibule which was up three steps from the garage floor, out of view, but very near her. There was the sound of feet scuffling, of a violent struggle, and then a groan.

A sort of anguish nailed Peg to the spot, a fear to know what was happening in that vestibule, a dread of the truth. She did not stir. She scarcely even breathed. She was staring now in a sort of fixed horror at those three steps, seeing an old woman rush down them with surprising agility, seeing her in turn—and in what seemed like one moment—draw out an automatic, aim and fire. There was not the slightest noise for a second. Then there was a groan in the vestibule, the dull thud of a body falling and an old woman's feet rushing across concrete.

Peg was trembling violently. She came out from behind the door. She ran, panting, frantic to be out of that garage, away from this feverish nightmare which had suddenly become horrible. Out into the crisp, clean night wind of autumn. Away from—oh, God—away from what?
